TROOPS MUTINY IN LIMA; 200 SLAIN IN BATTLE

Cannon Fire Forces Rebels to Quit.

LIMA, Peru, March 24.—Another political and military tornado swept through the streets of Lima between 7:30 last night and 5 o'clock this morning, snuffing out 200 lives, mostly soldiers of the Fifth regiment, who mutinied against their officers.

Under the command of sergeants they marched from their barracks at the Santa Catalina army post and attacked the government palace in an attempt to overthrow the Samanez Ocampo provisional government.

The attack was directed through streets thronged with evening crowds and panic spread throughout the city as civilians fled for shelter.

Bullet Holes Everywhere.

Early this morning in the brilliant sunshine of a Peruvian autumn day the citizens of Lima, after a sleepless night, arose to count the cost of the latest uprising. Bullet holes through windows and awnings in the business section of the city, together with broken electric light globes and chipped cornices, testified to the general character of the battle.

The main entrance and façade of the executive mansion were splintered and chipped with bullet marks, while chairs and windows in the Phoenix club, and Anglo-American organization, opposite the palace in the Plaza de Armas, were drilled with bullets.

Use Tanks and Machine Guns.

The general report circulated is that the uprising was communistic in character, but there is reason to believe that party politics and personal ambition were not unrelated to the movement. As military action, the outbreak was divided into two phases.

The first was when soldiers of the Fifth regiment imprisoned their officers in their barracks and launched their attack on the government palace and endeavored to get control of the city. In this attack they employed a half dozen light tanks and trucks mounted with machine guns. The revolutionary troops rode in taxicabs and auto buses, firing wildly with pistols, rifles, and machine guns. Sporadic fighting about the palace and in various parts of the city continued until near midnight, by which time the greater part of the revolting troops had been forced to take refuge in the Santa Catalina barracks.

Swept by Cannon Fire.

The second phase commenced about midnight, when Col. Gustavo Jiminez, minister of war, surrounded the barracks with loyal troops of the Seventh regiment, a regiment from the Chorrillos military school, and various cavalry and artillery units. Under a white flag he entered the army post with several aids to dicker with the leaders of the mutineers. Shortly afterwards, however, Col. Jiminez hastily emerged from the barracks and there was a spontaneous renewal of heavy firing. The barracks were swept by cannon fire and almost demolished.

An hour after midnight entrance into the Santa Catalina was effected by the loyal troops, who stormed the post and forced the rebels to surrender. The imprisoned officers of the regiment were released. One was found to have been seriously wounded. The rebel troops were disarmed and their leaders, all noncommissioned officers, placed under arrest.

It was reported that at least one of the noncommissioned officers, Sergt. Rodriguez, identified as the leader of the movement, was summarily court martialed and shot.

Following the restoration of order, President Samanez Ocampo called a special session of the cabinet, which deliberated over the situation until after 4 a. m. An official announcement was made at an early hour that martial law would be rigorously enforced and that a military council of war had been convened to try the leaders of the revolt.

RAID 37 PLACES, ARREST 110 IN HUNT FOR GRAFT

50 of Prosecutor's Police in Cleanup.

Fifty policemen from the state's attorney's office, divided into twelve swift moving squads, last night raided 37 places on the west side, made more than a hundred arrests, and seized records believed to have a bearing on the police corruption investigation for which Mrs. Shirley Kub has been furnishing the special grand jury information for several days.

Mrs. Kub, formerly undercover agent for Acting Police Commissioner Alcock, completed her testimony before the grand jury yesterday. She has turned over to that body carbon copies of all her reports to the police commissioner.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles Mueller, who was in charge of the raiding, said that gambling, vice, and liquor resorts were visited, but that he was not prepared to indicate to what extent the grand jury investigation has been responsible for the wide activity.

Keeps Raid Plans Secret.

Secrecy was maintained concerning the sweep of the policemen until a short time before the zero hour, 2 o'clock. Each of the squad leaders arriving at the special headquarters of the state's attorney's forces was given a slip of paper instructing him where to go and what to do.

The instructions were to take possession of liquor, to seize all records and bring them to the headquarters, to send all women found in disorderly house to the South State street police station annex and to send the men to the Des Plaines street station.

Two safes, seized in an alleged gambling house at 215 South Halsted street, where Art Kramer was arrested as keeper, were opened by the state's attorney's men with expert help. In them were found gambling charts and other paraphernalia. The investigators had believed that they might contain documentary evidence pertaining to gambling deals.

75 Men, 35 Women Seized.

The men under arrest, seventy-five in number, were charged with disorderly conduct, as were the thirty-five women. A few of the prisoners were taken to the bureau of identification. Among these were Lewis Clementi, 909 Sholto street, and Gus Galais.

Charles [Monkey Face] Genker, who has a record as a keeper of vice resorts that dates back nearly 25 years, was taken at 409 South Halsted street. The raiders reported they had found liquor there and evidence that gambling was permitted.

Rumors were circulated that the raiders were seeking evidence that a gambling-vice syndicate with police ramifications exist on the west side.

Among the places raided and the men arrested in each were: Restaurant at 228 South Halsted street, George Duberville; saloon at 1111 West Madison street, Joseph Cohen; saloon at 1116 West Madison street, George Thompson; saloon at 101 South Halsted street, John Rocks; Floridan dance hall at 674 West Madison street, Ben Berg and William Grossman, and a taxi dance hall at 3 North Green street, where Sam Rose and six girls were taken into custody.

The raids, directly led by Sergts. Ahern, Bennett, and Wachholz, occupied little more than an hour, each squad striking at an average of three resorts.

Expect Mrs. Kub's Release.

During the activity Mrs. Kub remained in the county jail. It is believed that as a result of her disclosures she will be released today or tomorrow at the request of the special grand jury. Originally she had refused to testify and Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court had sentenced her to four months in jail for contempt of court.

The grand jury, after its session yesterday, adjourned until Monday. In the meanwhile the investigators will go over Mrs. Kub's reports and prepare to hear city hall officials and police officers who are to be summoned next. Among the subjects of their inquiry, it is reported, is a $25,000 contribution to a Thompson campaign fund in 1927 from Capone dog track interests in Cicero.

Mr. Mueller said that all the evidence would be examined today and that some of those placed under arrest might be questioned.

MRS. IDA BARNETT, COLORED LEADER, 62, DIES SUDDENLY

Mrs. Ida B. Wells-Barnett, for many years a recognized leader of the Negro race in efforts to obtain social and economic equality in the United States, died last night at the Daily hospital after an illness of only two days. She was 62 years old.

Mrs. Barnett came to Chicago in 1893. Soon afterward she married Attorney F. L. Barnett. About 1890 she had gone to England to lecture on lynching in the south. She was one of the principal organizers of the Negro Fellowship club at 3005 South State street, a gathering place for colored youth. In 1917 she went to Washington to present to the President and congress a memorial of the National Equal Rights league asking that lynching be made a crime under federal law and to protest against segregation of Negro workers in government service.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Wells-Barnett is survived by four children. The family home is at 328 East Garfield boulevard.

CHICAGO YOUTH SHOT IN 'DUEL' AT EASTERN SCHOOL

Walter Stuhr, 16 years old, son of Dr. Walter A. Stuhr, 2244 Lincoln Park West, is under treatment in Andover, Mass., for a bullet wound in the thigh, suffered in a mock rifle duel with another student at Phillips Andover academy, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Young Stuhr's opponent was Walter Edmundson, 13 years old, son of a New York physician. The report to the police says that the youths took .22 caliber rifles with them to a wooded space near Andover and stationed themselves some distance apart. Each began to shoot at objects near the other. Stuhr was struck by a bullet that ricocheted off a rock. Academy officials said it was accidental.

Fire Causes $10,000 Loss in Hotel Service Building

Fire in the walls and floors of the four story building at 69 East Congress street, used by the Congress hotel as a commissary and "service" building early this morning caused a loss estimated by Manager John Burke at $10,000. More than 30 girls and women employed by the hotel, who had sleeping quarters in the upper floors, were driven out by smoke. None of the hotel guests were aroused.

Steals Bar of Soap from Store; Jailed for 60 Days

Clarence Rucker, 26 years old, colored, 3612 South State street, stole one bar of soap from a store at 111 North Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, last Friday. Yesterday he was fined $25 by Magistrate Paul R. Wick. Unable to pay the fine, he will serve 60 days in the Bridewell.

Loesch Tells of Secret Call on Al Capone

Los Angeles, Cal., March 24.—[Special.]—Criminal politicians, laxity of prosecutors, inefficient police, and corrupt public officials were assailed as the principal sources of power wielded by crime leaders in Chicago and other cities by Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission and a member of the Wickersham board, in an address tonight before the Southern California Academy of Criminology.

"It did not take me long after I had been made president of the crime commission to discover that Al Capone ran the city," Mr. Loesch asserted.

"His hand reached into every department of the city and county government. I have not made this known before, but I made arrangements secretly to meet Mr. Capone in his headquarters.

Enters Capone's Office.

"When I reached there I found him in an officelike room with a half dozen of his non-English speaking guards standing with their hands on their guns. Over Mr. Capone's desk hung three oil portraits. They represented George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, and "Big Bill" Thompson.

"That alone was enough to flabbergast me, but I got down to business with Capone immediately. I was concerned about the election that was then about to be held for state's attorney and a number of other important city and county offices. I asked him how long he expected to beat the law and the gun. He replied that he would always beat the law, but that he expected his demise some day at the business end of a shotgun.

Al Pooh-Poohs at Law.

"'But they'll only get me when I'm not looking,' he told me, and he uttered the words in the utmost confidence. He pooh-poohed the law and said he never did understand it anyway and did not intend to. He asked me what I wanted and I told him about my concern over the coming election. This arch criminal then had the effrontery to tell me that he would give me a square deal if I did not ask too much of him. I then said to him:

"'Now, look here, Capone, will you help me by keeping your damned cutthroats and hoodlums on the north side from interfering with the polling booths?'

"'Sure,' he said, 'I'll give them the works, because they are all Dagoes up there, but what about the Saltis gang of Micks over on the west side? They'll have to be handled different. Do you want me to give them the works, too?'

Pleased with Promises.

"I was overpleased with Mr. Capone's apparent willingness to help over on the west side and I expressed myself as being grateful.

"'All right,' he said, 'I'll have the cops send over the squad cars the night before election and jug all the hoodlums and keep 'em in the cooler until the polls close.'

"I can tell you it was a grateful handshake that I gave Mr. Capone at this proposition, and on the specified day seventy police cars were used to jug the hoodlums.

"It turned out to be the squarest and most successful election day that Chicago ever had in forty years. There was not one complaint, not one election fraud, not one threat of trouble all day. What is the answer to that?

Elect New State's Attorney.

"We then had a new state's attorney and some of our decent candidates were elected, and we started out to go after the criminals.

"I got up a list of twenty-eight public enemies and handed it to the press. I turned everything I could over for publication, because I discovered that the glare of publicity of such scoundrels gave impetus to honest officials toward enforcing the laws. We used every means at our command to harass the criminals and crooked politicians.

"Crime is highly organized. Capone's men work with the same precision as does a captain of industry, except in Capone's organization the penalty for failure is a charge of shotgun slugs.

"The police know Capone's guards with their pockets bulging with ready automatics. They could arrest them, but they don't. Capone is just one example. When he is taken off another who is just as efficient will step into his place. I have a feeling that I will live to see Mr. Capone in the electric chair."

Transfer Show to Get Neutral Ring Officials

Amateur boxing's most famous event—the Golden Gloves intercity tournament—will be held in the Chicago Stadium a week from tomorrow night.

The fourth annual battle between thirty-two amateur boxing champions of Chicago and New York was to have been fought in Madison Square Garden next Monday night. That plan went to smash last night. The New York News wired THE TRIBUNE:

"Boxing committee of the Metropolitan Athletic union refuses our request for judges and referees from cities other than New York. Can Chicago stage the tournament with neutral officials?"

THE TRIBUNE accepted the opportunity.

New York Fans Disappointed.

Transfer of the boxing match from New York to Chicago came with a suddenness that startled boxing fans in the two cities. The announcement that New York City, through the obstinacy of the local A. A. U. officials, had lost what has come to be regarded as the most interesting and colorful amateur boxing show held anywhere, brought a storm of protest from 20,000 New York City fans.

Madison Square Garden was sold out for the scheduled Monday night show. These 20,000 seemed to find slight solace in the news that they would be refunded their money.

Top price for the intercity bouts in New York, as in Chicago, is $3. Refunds scarcely compensated the eastern fans told the News, for the loss of the opportunity to watch sixteen of the finest bouts of the year.

Chicagoans Are Happy.

Chicago fans were jubilant. Learning through the early editions of THE TRIBUNE and over W-G-N that they might see the intercity meet they started telephoning orders for tickets. Had the sale of seats been open 4,000 might have been sold before midnight.

The tickets were not ready last night.

They will be ready and on sale this morning. Twenty-two thousand—two thousand more than had been sold in New York—will be available. Indications are that they will be in the hands of the Golden Glove enthusiasts before the end of the week.

Here are the places where you may buy seats this morning for the big tournament:

The Tribune's Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street.

The lobby of Tribune Tower, 435 North Michigan avenue.

South Side Public Service office, 1101 East 63d street.

West Side Public Service office, 4152 Madison street.

Golden Gloves boxing tournaments were originated by the New York News, but the Intercity was suggested by THE TRIBUNE. Three times the big tournament has been held.

Denied Neutral Officials.

In 1928 the two cities divided the glory, each team winning eight bouts in the Coliseum here. The next year the Chicago team was decisively defeated in Madison Square Garden. Last year Chicago won the Intercity title in a brilliant battle staged in the Chicago Stadium.

In 1928 THE TRIBUNE provided judges from Minneapolis and Cleveland. In the succeeding two years the judges were picked from the ranks of officials in the city where the battle was waged.

It was a desire to eliminate the suspicion that the home city boys received the best of close decisions that brought the change of locale for next week's tournament.

The New York News asked the boxing committee of the Metropolitan A. A. U. to sanction the use of judges

DEFENDANT'S FLIGHT FROM MURDER TOLD

Prosecutor Outlines Case of State.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Leo V. Brothers of St. Louis was identified in Judge Joseph Sabath's courtroom yesterday afternoon as the man who ran from the scene of the Alfred J. Lingle murder in the Illinois Central subway on last June 9 and disappeared down an alley near Randolph street and Michigan avenue.

This identification was made by Warren O. Williams, former Michigan City policeman and former South Shore line brakeman, the first of the important state witnesses to testify against Brothers.

While his testimony was positive and remained unshaken on cross-examination, its effect was somewhat dampened by his admission that he had been placed on the pay roll of the state's attorney beginning last June 15 and had drawn $2,000 in salary and some expense money since that time.

Sees Brothers Running.

Williams was out of a job on the day Lingle was shot and was standing, he said, near a lamp post on the southwest corner of Michigan avenue and Randolph street when he heard the muffled sound of the revolver and saw Brothers emerge from the mouth of the tunnel on the southeast corner and run into the traffic, zigzagging madly through, getting nearly struck by a car.

Brothers was running as hard as he could, Williams said, and at the mouth of the alley on the north side of Randolph street, turned and looked over his shoulder. Brothers passed within a foot and a half of him, he said.

Williams' job under Chief Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office was to find that man. He never found him until last Jan. 12 when he saw Brothers at the Del Prado hotel, where he was being held prisoner. This was the day Brothers was indicted.

Points to the Defendant.

"Do you see any one in the courtroom whom you saw that day [June 9]?" asked Assistant State's Attorney C. Wayland Brooks, who is leading the prosecution.

"Yes, that man sitting right behind the gray headed man," said the witness, pointing at Brothers.

This testimony did not seem to trouble Brothers, but he seemed a little excited and shaken during the opening address of Mr. Brooks to the jury, when the name of a new witness in the case was made public for the first time.

Mr. Brooks listed eight persons, including Williams, as being ready to take the stand for the state and identify Brothers as the killer, or at least as one close to the scene of the crime.

Defense Charges "Frameup."

Attorney Tyrrell Krum told the jury that the defense would have five or six eyewitnesses to the shooting who would swear that Brothers was not the man. He did not give any names. The case against Brothers, he said, was a "frameup" engineered by "certain characters in the underworld," who were out for the rewards in this case, aided by those who want to "hang this case on somebody."

Brothers, said his attorney, is "a high class and law abiding young man," and was miles away from the scene of this shooting, at 1:15 o'clock on June 9. He told the jury that Policeman Anthony Ruthy, on traffic duty at Michigan and Randolph on that day, had identified Frank Foster as the man who ran across the street, and that Ruthy would be a witness for the defense, "unless the state has subsidized him."

Brooks Opens for State.

Mr. Brooks' statement showed how carefully the state investigators have reconstructed this murder.

Lingle, he told the jury, was a news gatherer for THE TRIBUNE, one whose assignments kept him close to criminals and the haunts of criminals. It was his habit to go to the race track at Washington Park during the summer season, and he was bound there when he was killed.

He had walked over from the Hotel Sherman to catch the 1:15 train. He was in the subway, about twenty feet from the bottom of the steps, when he was shot in the back of the head. He fell face downward, his hands in his pockets, a newspaper under his arm, cigar in his mouth, and died instantly.

Out of the throngs in the subway or in the streets nearby at that time the state, after months of work, will present seven to the jury. The most important of these is Clark Applegate, who is expected to testify today. He knew Lingle and was within a few feet of him when he fell, Brooks told the jurors.

He saw the killer throw away the gun. He will identify Brothers as the killer. Applegate is an Owensboro [Ky.] race horse man. Mr. Krum called him a "race track tout." Mrs. Applegate was with her husband in the subway, but Mr. Brooks said she was extremely nervous and he did not know whether she could testify.

New Witness Is Named.

The new identification witness, according to the prosecutor, is Albert W. Kelfstrom, a buyer for a trunk store at 28 East Randolph street. This is close to the alley down which the slayer ran. Kelfstrom, the jurors were informed, would tell of finding a man standing in a dark areaway of the store about this time on the day of the murder.

"Did you want something?" he asked the man.

The man entered the store, stood behind a pillar, pointed out a suitcase and said he would take it. He did not even examine it, but paid $5 and said he would call for it.

"What name?" asked the clerk.

The man gave the name of Doherty. The case was put away with this tag on it, marked "Will call." It was never called for. The clerk marked the strange action of the man, who asked for the toilet. The clerk led him down a dark way and lit a light. He could see him then, full in the face. He will say, according to the prosecutor, that this man was Brothers.

Chef Is Another Witness.

Another identification witness whose name was given to the jury is Otto Svoboda, a chef, who was smoking a cigaret outside the public library a few minutes before 1:15 o'clock and saw a man standing at the entrance to the subway, smoking and waiting. He marked two spots on the man's face, and will point out Brothers as that man, Brooks said. Brothers has two dark mole spots on his right cheek and jaw.

Other witnesses whose names were given to the jury by Mr. Brooks are Marcus David, a shipping clerk, who was standing in front of the tunnel entrance; Daniel D. Mills, former assistant physical director in the public schools of Evanston; Patrick Campbell, a truck driver; Father John Reynolds, an instructor at Notre Dame university, and Miss Rose Huebsch, whose apartment at 4827 Lake Park avenue is across the hall from the one in which Brothers was captured.

Prosecutor Holman Speaks.

Assistant State's Attorney John Holman entered the case more actively yesterday. When Attorney Krum said that Brothers had been held a prisoner at the Congress hotel for three weeks and was given the "third degree" there, Mr. Holman said:

"If they want to open the door to all that was said and done there, we are willing, but it must all go in."

A large drawing of the subway entrance and the scene at Michigan and Randolph, with the tunnel shown in detail, was the first exhibit presented by the state. It was prepared by the police department and was fastened to a board in front of the jury.

Coroner Herman N. Bundesen was the first witness called by the state. He described the finding of the body in the tunnel and his subsequent identification of Lingle. He testified briefly at the morning session to establish the corpus delicti. Late in the afternoon he was recalled by the defense for cross-examination concerning the investigation he had undertaken into the murder.

Three Policemen Testify.

Policeman Thomas Alcock testified that he had met Lingle in the lobby of the Hotel Sherman between 1 and 1:15 o'clock on the afternoon of June 9 and that Lingle was in full possession of his faculties.

Capt. John Stege, at that time chief of the detective bureau, told of going to the morgue and getting the bullet which was taken from Lingle's body and taking it to the crime detection laboratory of Northwestern university, few feet of Brothers.

Policeman Howard L. Cleveland of the traffic force, who was on duty a block away at the time of the shooting, told of going to the tunnel and guarding the gun which the slayer had thrown aside until it was taken away.

Lieut. Col. Calvin Goddard and Dr. Clarence Muehlberger, who are the experts of the crime detection laboratory of Northwestern university, will be called as witnesses today. Dr. James Whitney Hall is also to be called as a state witness.

Mrs. Lingle in Court.

Mrs. Alfred Lingle, the widow, made her first appearance in court yesterday. She was given a seat within a few feet of Brothers.

A special detail of police was called when the corridors became packed with men and women eager to attend the afternoon session. The courtroom itself, however, was kept in strict order throughout the day.

BROOKS' STATEMENT

At the opening of court in the morning the attorneys spent some time in a discussion of technical details of procedure. The jury was then called in and Prosecutor Brooks arose and addressed them as follows:

"If it please the court and gentlemen of the defense, and men of the jury, we have come to that state of this trial now where each side has an opportunity to advise you of what they expect the evidence will show.

"This is indictment number 59,451, returned by the grand jury of Cook county on Jan. 12, charging Leo V. Brothers, otherwise called Leo V. Bader, otherwise called Leo Bader, otherwise called Buster, with the murder of Alfred J. Lingle on June 9, 1930.

Recalls Day of Murder.

"I think the evidence will show you that the 9th of June, 1930, was a bright, sunny day. The races were on at Washington Park track. The Illinois Central railroad runs a series of trains from the Illinois Central station at Randolph street, which is just east of Michigan boulevard, directly to the track, the last one of which each day leaves at 1:30 in the afternoon.

"A subway has been built from the west side of Michigan boulevard down abutting the Chicago Public library, which is on the southwest corner of Michigan avenue and Randolph street, the subway going down and underneath Michigan boulevard, which is from step to step 100 feet. The subway is 16 feet wide.

Lingle in Race Crowd.

"The evidence will show that many people were on their way to the races, and that among them was Alfred Lingle. Lingle was an employe of

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, being employed as a reporter. I think one of the chief assignments that had been given him was that of investigating crime and men connected with criminals and their activities.

"The evidence will show that he was a regular attendant at the races of all kinds, that he was a man who did what we term 'play the races' a good deal himself.

"He was passing through this tunnel and had just passed the entrance of the steps coming down from the east side and got about 20 or 25 feet beyond where it begins to rise on the way to the station when there was suddenly a shot fired, the bullet striking Lingle directly in the back and center of the head. It was instantaneous death; his jaw locked and the cigar in his mouth as he fell face forward was still locked in his teeth.

APPLEGATES IN TUNNEL

"Directly behind Mr. Lingle, and his murderer, were other people who were going to the track, and among them Clark Applegate and Mrs. Applegate. Applegate weighs about 230 pounds, I think, and his hair is red, and he is known as 'Red Applegate.' Applegate was born in Kentucky. From birth he has loved and trained horses; it is his occupation; he is an attendant at races.

"He was accompanied by Mrs. Applegate—Mrs. Applegate is a little woman, and was formerly a trained nurse—and she had hold of his arm. They knew Lingle, but they did not know he was ahead of them.

See Slayer in Flight.

"When this crash of the bullet came they were within a few feet of the man and they saw him fall. They saw a young man turn, and they stepped back. They watched him pass and drop a gun to the floor.

"Mrs. Applegate, with the nurse's instinct, looked towards the fallen man. She turned and saw a man start up the stairs and she shouted, 'Somebody get that man!' Applegate started after the man. He followed him up the steps and saw him crossing the avenue and a policeman apparently started after him and he returned to his wife and he said 'The police are after him.'

"Because Lingle's face was to the ground they did not know who he was. They saw there was nothing they could do and they went on to the train.

"Mrs. Applegate has been extremely nervous and I am not prepared to tell you whether she will testify here, but Red Applegate will take the witness stand and tell you that the man he saw drop that gun and the man he chased up the steps is the defendant, Leo Brothers.

CHEF TO BE WITNESS

"Now there was another man near that scene. This man was born in Bohemia. His name is Otto Svoboda, by occupation a cook or chef.

"It was Svoboda's custom to report at 7 o'clock in the morning to what is known as the Restaurant Owners' association to see if there was employment for the day. Not finding it, he would go from restaurant to restaurant and hotel to hotel looking for a position, and about 11:15 or 11:30, if he found nothing for the noon hour, he went to the Chicago library.

"After he read the papers he generally stepped out and took a smoke.

Sees Man in Tunnel's Mouth.

"He came out on this day and was smoking a cigaret between this pillar and the wall [Mr. Brooks indicated a position on the chart], looking toward the east; he saw a man standing, leaning up against the side of the entrance to that tunnel, smoking a cigaret. He watched the man. There was another man standing near the wall. He watched them for several minutes and when the man had finished smoking his cigaret he threw it away, reached for another with his left hand, and the man standing toward the wall walked over to him and lit a cigaret and then took his place against the wall.

"Observing this man, Svoboda finished his cigaret and started down through the tunnel past them, and when he got almost to the tunnel he was lighting a cigaret again, when suddenly a man brushed by him, almost knocking his cigaret out of his hand. He turned, and this man turned and looked at him.

Sees Spots on Face.

"The evidence will show you that at the time he noticed two spots on the side of the face. He walked to the east side of Michigan avenue in the tunnel, this man being ahead of him, and he had gone partly up the steps on that side when he heard a shot. He turned on the stair and saw the man with two spots on his face running. He stepped down and looked at the body. He turned then and ran up the stairs and he again saw the man standing, looking which way he would go, and watched him run across the street.

"Svoboda will tell you that the man he saw in the entrance was Leo Brothers; that the man he saw who bumped his arm is Leo Brothers; the man he saw running is Leo Brothers, and the man he saw start across the street is Leo Brothers, and he will testify to you that he told the police about the two spots on the face the first time he talked with them.

ANOTHER SEES BROTHERS

"There was another man near that scene; this man's name is Marcus David. Marcus David for 12 years was employed as a shipping clerk for Leschin's. He is now with the Blackstone shop on Michigan boulevard, and has been for the last year and a half.

"Marcus David will tell you that he had finished his lunch, and he was standing directly in front of the entrance of that tunnel on June 9, about 1:30, when he heard this shot in the tunnel; that he turned and saw a man come running up the stairs, that he saw him weaving his way across the street.

"Marcus David will tell you that the man he saw come out of that tunnel is the defendant, Leo Brothers.

College Man Near Scene.

"There was another man near that scene on that day. This man is Daniel D. Mills. Daniel Mills had taken one year of college in the University of Florida. He came to Chicago in 1926.

"I think the evidence will show that from that time until now, each summer, he drove a Yellow cab. He attended Northwestern university in the winter. Two years ago, I think the evidence will show, he was the assistant to the physical director of the public schools in Evanston, that being among other jobs that he did as he was going through college.

"He will testify that last June he was driving a Yellow cab and that about 1:30 on June 9 he drove up near the tunnel. He was standing there watching for a fare and he heard that shot. He watched a man run out of that entrance.

"He will tell you that Leo Brothers is the man he saw running out of that tunnel.

TELLS OF WILLIAMS

"I think the evidence will show that on this day, in the morning, a man over at Michigan City, by name Warren Williams, had come to Chicago looking for a job. He was leaning against a light post on Michigan boulevard at Randolph street.

"I think the evidence will show that he heard this muffled report from the subway, and he saw a man run out from the subway, going zigzag across, and as he got directly in front of him an auto almost hit the man that was running, and he threw himself back in full view in the sunlight, and he ran within a foot and a half of Williams, and Williams watched him.

"He will testify to you that the man that he saw running directly in front of him was Leo Brothers. The evidence will show that Williams walked down into the tunnel and started to talk to some one. One of the men there—there were several of them—pulled back his coat and said, 'I am a police officer; you come with me; we want to talk with you.'

Makes Statement to Police.

"I think the evidence will show you that he really is a material witness. The police, not the state's attorney's office, took him; they took him to a district police station, and then they sent him to the detective bureau, where he in turn made a statement.

"The evidence will show that they rushed him to New York City, not the state's attorney's office, but the police, in an endeavor to identify some one that they had. That when he returned he told them he was looking for a job and he had to go and get some work, but because he was a material witness, and gave a description of this man, and said he could identify him, Mr. Roche said: 'I will use you in my office. I want you here because you can help me.'

FATHER REYNOLDS

"Now, there is another man who was in that subway, and he was near that scene, and that man's name is Father John Reynolds. I think the evidence will show you that Father Reynolds is a rather athletic young fellow. Nine years, I believe, he has been in the priesthood of his church; that for five years he was in Portland, Ore., at a university there, where he taught, among other things, varsity track; that he was transferred and came to Notre Dame. He is an instructor in history there.

"I think the evidence will show you that he had a doctor's appointment here in Chicago, and had come over from Notre Dame, and was going through the tunnel; about half way through, he says, he remembered a man with a Racing Form in his hand who answered every description from the pictures he saw of Mr. Lingle, who took off his hat and said, 'Hello, father.'

"He exchanged the salutation and walked on and was about to the steps when he heard a shot. He turned and looked to see if anybody had fallen. He did not see anybody lying there, but he did see somebody running, so he watched. He remembers specifically a sort of nervous reaction of the man as he was running, that being his former work, as he was employed as an instructor in track. He said that he was never less than sixty feet away from that man, but that Leo Brothers answers perfectly every description that he has of him in his mind.

Truck Driver a Witness.

"Now, the evidence will show that there was another man in this tunnel. This man is a truck driver. His name is Campbell—Patrick Campbell. Campbell was coming down town. He had gotten off at the I. C. and was coming out the tunnel when he heard the shot. He turned and he saw somebody lying on the ground, and some one running up the steps.

"He will tell you that this defendant was the man who ran across the street right in front of him; that somebody was hollering 'Stop that man! Stop that man!'; that he followed and he saw somebody run across the street whom he thought was a plain clothes man.

"The evidence will show that Campbell and Williams and a number of these men from time to time have looked over many people, that they have been asked to view Brothers, and they will tell you that he is the man they saw that day.

"The evidence will show that the bullet that was taken from the brain of Alfred Lingle was fired by the gun that was shot, as Applegate will tell you, by this defendant.

THE NEW WITNESS

"Another thing the evidence will show you is that at 28 East Randolph street is the C. A. Taylor Trunk Works; that Albert W. Kelfstrom is now and has been for ten years the buyer for that store.

"He will tell you that there is a narrow, dark passageway leading into the store from a plain wooden door at the side of the store.

"The evidence will show that Kelfstrom is the last man, being the buyer, to go to lunch. Kelfstrom came out to go to lunch, and he was startled when he saw a man standing in the darkened way up against the panel. I think the evidence will show that he looked at him and said: 'Have you been waited on?' The man answered, 'No.'

Walks Behind a Pillar.

"He said, 'Very well, step in,' pointing to the door. The man stepped in, and walked right behind a pillar, obstructing the entire view from the street of him, standing closely to the suitcases packed around the pillar. He pointed to a bag and said, 'How much is that?' And he was told, 'Five dollars.'

"Without a word of examination or question, he said, 'I will take it.' And he pulled out bills and handed over a five dollar bill, I think, and Kelfstrom, dubious of the man because of his peculiar actions, said, 'All right, I will make out a ticket.' He started to make out a ticket and the man stepped out from behind that pillar and kept watching out in front, and then he stepped back behind the pillar again.

"The evidence will show you at that point that Kalfstrom, having filled out the ticket, said, 'What is the name?' and hesitating, the man said, 'Doherty.'

"The evidence will show he said, 'Have you got a toilet here?' Mr. Kelfstrom looked at him and saw that he was very pale, and he said, 'Yes, just this way.'

Sees His Face in Light.

"He had to lead him to the toilet because of the narrow, darkened passageway. He led him back past the door a little to the left and Kelfstrom turned on the lights and turned and looked him full in the face with the light shining directly there on him, and he said, 'Here it is.' And he stepped out and the man stepped in.

"The evidence will show Kelfstrom went back and filled out a ticket and put it on the will-call list. The man had said, 'What time do you close?' and Kelfstrom had said, 'Five o'clock.' And the man said, 'I will call for it about four.' But he never returned from the toilet, and when Kelfstrom went to look for him he was gone.

"Gentlemen, Mr. Kelfstrom will tell you that the man he saw standing on June 9 in his store against that pillar is Leo Brothers. He will tell you the man who gave his name as Doherty is Leo Brothers. He will tell you that the man who asked for the toilet and disappeared is Leo Brothers.

"What other evidence there is, gentlemen, we will present from time to time as we go along, but that, in substance, is the state's evidence against this defendant."

STATEMENT BY DEFENSE.

A short recess was taken, following Mr. Brooks' address. Then Defense Attorney Krum arose.

"May it please your honor and gentlemen of the jury," he began. "You have been together now for five or six days, and some of you have been here longer than others, and we reach the point now where Leo Brothers is going to speak for the first time.

"Mr. Brooks has mentioned five or six witnesses here that will testify that they saw Leo Brothers down there on Randolph street, or in the tunnel, or running up the stairs or crossing the street, or doing something or other, and we want to say right now that we have five or six witnesses who saw the man that ran away and say he is not Leo V. Brothers.

"They say that Red Applegate, Otto Svoboda, and Marcus David and Warren Williams and Patrick Campbell and Albert Kelfstrom and Rose Huebsch are their witnesses.

What Defense Will Show.

"Now, we are going to show you by our evidence exactly the type of man that this man is, and we are also going to show you that he did not fire the shot, he knew nothing about it, wasn't there, was many miles away.

"We will show you that during the time that Leo Brothers lived in Chicago he never did anything that would reflect on him, other than being the ordinary young fellow about the age he is, living an ordinary life.

"We have one witness who will testify that as he walked through the tunnel he bumped into somebody and looked up and saw him in the face, and a moment later he saw this particular person he bumped into fire a shot and saw a man fall, and that witness will say the man he saw fire the shot was not Leo Brothers.

Cites Another Witness.

"There is another witness that we have, that the state's attorney talked to, who will testify that he was standing up on Michigan avenue right at the entrance to this tunnel, and he heard a shot or heard a commotion and heard somebody say, 'Grab that man,' and he turned around and saw him coming out of the tunnel and looked him right in the face, smack in the face, and it wasn't Brothers.

"Now, there will be two or three other witnesses who will be here who will testify that they saw this man as he ran across Michigan avenue and ducked around automobiles and went up the alley.

"We will show you that Red Applegate, whom Mr. Brooks described as owning horses, is in fact a race track tout and that that is what he is doing at the present time.

"We are going to show you gentlemen by our evidence that this is purely and simply a frameup by certain characters in the underworld, by certain men, ambitious to succeed in the prosecution of somebody, to clean up this case, and that it is for the sole purpose of rewarding somebody here that the Lingle murder will be cleaned up.

"That is, in fact, what we expect to show you."

WILLIAMS ON STAND

The examination of Warren Williams, the first state's witness to identify Brothers as the man seen running from the scene of the slaying, began on a quiet note. After he had given his name and address, told of his employment as a Michigan City policeman and described his services as a brakeman with several railroad lines before that, he was questioned by Mr. Brooks as follows:

Q.—Directing your attention to June 9, 1930, were you in Chicago at that time? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—How did you come to be here? A.—I came here with a motorman friend of mine named Raymond Sanford to see a man about a job as brakeman.

Q.—What time did you arrive? A.—We got into the Randolph street station of the I. C. a little after noon.

Goes to Michigan and Randolph.

Q.—What did you do then? A.—My motorman friend went up to the lockers to change his clothes and I went with him. I made a call to the fellow I was to see about the job and he wasn't in. Sanford and I talked for a while and then he had to leave. I went over to the southwest corner of Randolph and Michigan and stood there, leaning against a light post, looking at the traffic. I was just killing time until I could make another telephone call.

Q.—Did you hear and see anything unusual? [Brothers leaned forward in his chair, staring intently at the witness.] A.—Yes, sir. I heard a muffled report. About half a minute later I saw a man come running out of the tunnel entrance on the east side of Michigan boulevard, across the street from me. He came zig-zagging across the boulevard between the traffic and just before he got to where I was an automobile nearly ran him down. He jumped back and his face jerked up, and I got a good look at him.

Q.—Then what did he do? A.—He ran north across Randolph street. He was looking back over his shoulder as if watching for some one to follow him——

A chorus of objections from defense counsel was sustained by Judge Sabath, who ruled that the witness was not to conjecture from the actions of the running man what his fears were.

Q.—And did a policeman follow him down the street? A.—Yes, sir.

Mr. Brooks stood up and put the next question slowly and impressively.

Q.—Have you seen that man since that day? [The courtroom was very quiet.] A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Do you see him now? A.—Yes. He is sitting over there behind the gray haired man [Louis Piquett, defense counsel].

As Williams stood up and pointed at Brothers the latter turned and muttered to Harry Cantwell of St Louis, one of his attorneys.

Talks to Detectives.

Q.—What did you do next? A.—I crossed the street and went down into the tunnel and saw a man lying on the floor. A gun was lying on the floor near him.

Q.—Did you talk to any one? A.—Yes, I talked to some detectives who were there. They took me to the detective bureau and I made a statement. I was kept with the police for

CERMAK ATTACKS MOUNTING TAXES UNDER THOMPSON

Tells Crowd of Growing City Deficit.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Chicago's mounting tax rates under the Thompson administration were attacked yesterday by A. J. Cermak, Democratic mayoralty candidate, in his principal address of the day, delivered at a crowded meeting at the Portage Park school on the northwest side. The territory represented by the audience at the meeting is ordinarily strongly Republican.

Cermak emphasized that instead of saving enough money to wipe out a deficit of four years ago, the administration obtained special legislative authority to issue bonds to cover the shortage, the cost of the bonds being added to the tax bills.

"The city tax rate," he said, "has steadily increased. It was $3.15 on every $100 of assessed valuation in 1927. It jumped to $3.28 the next year. Now the bills call for payment at a rate of $4.03. The total taxes levied for city, corporate and educational purposes were $96,840,000 in 1928. They are now $128,345,000—an increase of 42 per cent.

Cites Growing Deficit.

"Deficit has been piled upon deficit until a year ago there appeared no possibility of the city's being able to pay its bills or to meet its obligations to its employés.

"It was necessary to resort to an unprecedented procedure and we saw the spectacle of the city of Chicago, already enjoying an enormous revenue because of high taxation, actually issuing bonds to meet current expenses. It was obliged to issue $8,000,000 of them to pay its bills.

"I see that some of the friends of the mayor are trying to explain that this is a growing city and that necessarily its expenses increase. Well, the county of Cook is a growing county, growing more rapidly than the city, but it was not necessary to increase county tax rates. The rates speak for themselves—45 cents on the $100 in 1927, 46 cents in 1928, and 45 cents in 1929. The forest preserve rate was 10 cents in 1928, and now is 9 cents."

Examples of Increased Cost.

Cermak then cited specific examples of the increased costs of municipal operations under Thompson. He said that the cost of street cleaning had been increased 21 per cent per mile, although the wages of labor had not been increased and the cost of material had been reduced.

"The cost for operating, maintaining and illuminating the street lighting system," he said, "was $28.43 per light under the former mayor. For 1931 the appropriation calls for $34.99 per light, or an increase of $6.56, or 23 per cent per light. Yet the cost of labor is the same and there has been a considerable drop in the prices of materials."

The speaker said he would give other examples of increased costs for bridges, street paving "and everything else" later in the campaign.

Refers to Wage Cut.

In other speeches Cermak commented on the fact that Thompson's "principal labor friends," the flat bosses, have just been compelled to accept a reduction in wages.

A. J. Horan, vice chairman of the Cermak advisory committee, issued a statement charging that Thompson precinct workers are making false offers to unemployed men to put them at work as subway laborers "right after the election" if Thompson wins.

Thompson's noonday audience at the Adelphi theater was interested particularly in his announcement that if he is defeated he will retire from politics. Once again his hearers were nearly all city hall employés.

FAILS TO ANSWER GUN CHARGE.

A capias was issued by Municipal Judge Lloyd Hayes yesterday for the arrest of John McHard, 46 years old, 2401 West Monroe street, when he failed to appear in court on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Bonds of $175 were forfeited.

REPORT DECLINE IN RACKETS, BUT 53 STILL EXIST

Racketeering in Chicago has declined from 92 active rackets in September, 1928, to 53 now, the board of directors of the Employers' association were told yesterday at the annual meeting in the Union League club.

Earl H. Macoy, president of the National Printing and Engraving company, was reëlected president for the fifth time. C. J. Whipple, president of Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., and J. C. Belden, president of Belden Manufacturing company, were reëlected vice presidents.

"Corruption in politics is at the base of our difficulties," President Macoy said. "While we take no active part in partisan politics, it is the duty of every member to do his part in clearing the political situation."

In reporting bombing activities Mr. Macoy said that bombs were more destructive in 1930 than in 1929, the 1930 damage being approximately $500,000 as compared to $200,000 in 1929.

Mr. Macoy said Chicago and Cook county is five years ahead of the rest of the country in fighting criminality in all its phases.

SAY MALLOY WAS IN BANK ON DAY IT WAS ROBBED

Two government witnesses yesterday told of seeing John E. Malloy, former assistant cashier of the Lawrence Avenue National bank, in the bank on New Year's day, when it was looted of $10,000 in cash and $70,000 in safe deposit valuables in a purported holdup. Malloy is on trial in Federal Judge Wham's court, charged with embezzling $60,000.

BIDS ON NEW CHICAGO POSTOFFICE WILL BE ASKED WITHIN 6 WEEKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 24.—[Special.]—Bids for construction of the new $21,000,000 postoffice building at Chicago will be asked within the next four to six weeks, treasury officials said today.

The working drawings and specifications for the new structure, which will be the largest building of its kind in the world, will be completed in the next three weeks and transmitted to the treasury department, according to information brought to Washington today by Ernest Graham of Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, the architects.

Should the treasury department, in placing the building on the market stipulate that all bids must be in the hands of the government within 30 days, it is possible that actual construction work on the postoffice would be under way in May.

KILLED BY RAILWAY CARS.

Walter Ryan, 30 years old, 408 East 113th street, was fatally injured yesterday, when he was crushed between two cars on the Illinois Central railroad at 18th street. Ryan, a railroad employé, was inspecting air brakes.

CZAR'S NEPHEW LOSES CLOTHING TO BURGLARS

Other Thieves Rob Bailiff While on Duty.

Prince Alexandrei Rostislav, nephew of the late czar of Russia, reported to the police yesterday that burglars had entered his apartment on the first floor at 1311 Astor street and had taken clothing and other property belonging to him and the princess valued at about $300.

Included in the loot were a wrist watch, a silver cigaret case, two traveling clocks, a tan polo coat, and a black and white fox scarf. The burglars, according to the prince, entered through a rear door while he and the princess were out.

Work in Loop Stores.

The wedding of the prince and princess, who are exiles from their native country, was a Chicago society event of the fall of 1928. The ceremony was performed in the Holy Trinity Orthodox church. The bride was Princess Aleka Galitzine, daughter of Princess Alexandra Galitzine of Russia. Prince Rostislav is the son of the Grand Duke Alexander. Both the prince and princess have worked in loop department stores since their marriage.

Frequent reports of robberies continued in Chicago yesterday. Municipal Court Bailiff Peter C. Czaczka, 718 West 119th street, was seized by two Negro robbers when he went to the home of Michael Klein, 12455 Stewart avenue, to serve a legal summons. Klein and his wife, as well as the bailiff, were gagged and bound by the bandits. From Czaczka they took $5 and from Klein his automobile key. They drove away in the car, which stood in front of the house, and the bailiff, wriggling free from his bonds, served his legal paper.

Kidnaped by Three Gunmen.

Albert Testa, 526 North Springfield avenue, who operates a news stand at Western avenue and Harrison street, was kidnaped last night by three men in an automobile and robbed of $65. He was tossed out of the car at Polk street and Campbell avenue. Testa told police he recognized one of the robbers.

Three Negroes halted Ralph Smitha, 8923 Blackstone avenue, as he was on his way home from the Michigan theater at 110 East Garfield boulevard, of which he is manager, early yesterday and took $300 from him.

Edward Anderson, 5927 South Throop street, a truck driver for a loop store, was forced to surrender $80 to two men who leaped on his truck near 72d street and Emerald avenue. The robbers also took four bundles of clothing.

Steal Auto and Clothing.

Another deliveryman for a downtown store, Joseph Grudzien, 5107 Lincoln avenue, was forced to give up $60 to two armed men in front of 440 Barry avenue. When Nate Hainsfurther, 5234 Dorchester avenue, clothing merchant, left an automobile in which $500 worth of garments had been packed in front of a store at 79th and Halsted streets two men jumped in and drove away car and cargo.

Q.—You have seen hundreds of suspects in this case, but you never identified one of them until you identified this defendant, Brothers? A.—That is right.

Piquett Cross-Examines.

Attorney Piquett conducted the cross-examination of Williams. For several hours he led the witness through a repetition of his testimony, questioning him minutely concerning his employment by Roche since the slaying.

Q.—When was the first time you identified Brothers? A.—The day he was indicted.

Q.—What were the circumstances of that identification? A.—Pat Roche said he had another suspect for me to look at. I went out with an officer to the Del Prado hotel. There was an arrangement there whereby a cloth like cheesecloth was hung across a doorway. It had a slit in it. I looked through the slit and saw this defendant walking up and down. I identified him at once.

Q.—In criminal law parlance, you went out there to put the finger on him, didn't you?

Judge Sabbath sustained an objection to the phraseology of this question.

BUNDESEN EXAMINED

The direct examination and cross-examination of Coroner Bundesen occupied most of the rest of the day. Under the guidance of Prosecutor Brooks he told of hearing a report of the shooting and going to the tunnel.

"When I received a flash from my office that a man had been shot in the Randolph street tunnel, I jumped into my car and went through the loop, sixty or seventy miles an hour, siren and gong going," he said.

"I went down into the tunnel and saw a man lying on his face. I turned the body over. The face was bruised and scratched. In a moment I recognized Lingle and I verified this by a tailor's tag on his coat.

"I looked around and saw a policeman straddling a gun a few feet away. I took the gun up in a silk handkerchief. Later I turned the gun over to Col. Goddard of the crime detection laboratory of Northwestern university for examination for ballistics evidence."

Coroner Bundesen was excused after this testimony at the morning session, but was recalled late in the afternoon for cross examination. The defense went into detail in inquiring of him what steps had been taken to identify the weapon.

Q.—To whom was the gun traced? A.—By a process of etching, we were able to detect the numbers on the gun. We traced it from the Colt company to a New York firm which had sold it as one of a shipment to Von Frantzius, the gun dealer in Chicago. We arrested Von Frantzius and after much questioning, he told us the gun had been sold to a man named Williams which was an alias used by both Frank Foster and Ted Newberry.

Q.—Didn't you conduct an exhaustive examination in this case? A.—Yes.

Q.—You examined a number of persons, didn't you? A.—Yes.

Q.—Give us the names of some of them. A.—Patsy Tardi, Frank Bell.

Tells of Foster Hearing.

Q.—Did you testify at a hearing at which Frank Foster was the defendant? A.—Yes.

"That was just a hearing on bail for Foster. It wasn't a trial, was it?" interjected Prosecutor Brooks. The coroner answered in the affirmative.

"Did you know Lingle in any other capacity than as a reporter for THE TRIBUNE?" continued Attorney Piquett.

"Only as a reporter," replied the coroner.

A NIGHT LETTER from Ring Lardner

Tucson, Ariz., March 24.—[Special.]—A headline in today's local paper reads, "Heavy Loss Reported at Bridge Game," and in the story we discover that while sixteen ladies were playing bridge in the living room of one Mrs. Luskett bold robbers entered Mrs. Luskett's bedroom and helped themselves to the purses of Mrs. Luskett's fifteen guests. The guests estimated that the total loot was nearly $150, including cash and valuables. This should be a lesson to ladies the country over. When you go to a card party take along your imitation emeralds and pearls and lock real jewelry in your husband's safe together with your bank notes of the larger denominations such as ones and twos.

KEGEL IS NAMED AS INSTIGATOR OF CANAL SUIT

Revelation Made in U. S. Court Hearing.

Health Commissioner Kegel was named in Federal Judge Wilkerson's court yesterday as the man behind the suit for an accounting of alleged wasteful expenditures in the sanitary district under the régime of Timothy J. Crowe as president.

Guy H. Addison, in whose name the original suit was filed in 1928, said that Dr. Kegel was responsible for the action. The question arose during a hearing on the jurisdiction of the federal court when defense counsel sought dismissal of the suit on the ground that the court lacked jurisdiction.

Called as Court Witness.

Addison was called as a court witness to ascertain whether he, as a resident of [illegible], Wis., could bring action in the federal court here as a taxpayer, because of the diversity of citizenship. He said that he was a dairy inspector in the Chicago health department and that he moved his family to Deerfield shortly before the filing of the suit because he was stationed there to inspect the milk at the source.

Addison then said that he now lives at 7110 Olive avenue, and that he paid taxes in 1928 totaling $64.38 and in 1929 totaling $116.44 on some real estate which he contracted to purchase.

"Who is behind this suit?" Judge Wilkerson asked.

"Well, Dr. Arnold H. Kegel first asked me to lend my name to the filing of the suit," said Addison. The witness further stated that he had paid none of the costs of the litigation.

Attorney Joseph R. Roach, counsel for Addison, then informed the court that the Chicago Daily News paid a large share of the original expenses but later withdrew its support and filed a similar action in the state court.

Seek Accounting for Millions.

Crowe and other former officials of the sanitary district are called upon in the suit to account for the spending of many millions of dollars and to return to the taxpayers with interest such part as is found to have been wasted. Frank J. Loesch, acting as a private petitioner, filed an intervening petition, alleging fraud in the letting of contracts.

Judge Wilkerson indicated that his jurisdiction was questionable and deferred a ruling on this point to April 14.

FIRE IN LOOP BUILDING.

Attention of loop crowds was attracted yesterday to smoke rolling from a blaze in the elevator shaft of the Peacock building at 137-143 South State street. The fire was extinguished with small damage.

Notes of Campaign

The radio schedule for Cermak speakers tonight places Col. A. A. Sprague on WBBM at 6:15, Judge Frank M. Padden on WIBO at 6:30, Joseph Kehoe and Judge William J. Lindsay on WCFL at 8:45, and Judson F. Going on WIBO at the same hour.

The Hamburger club, a northwest side German-American organization headed by Richard Noeske, has pledged its support to Cermak.

The Illinois Motor Truck Operators' association, which includes 150 members employing about 4,000 drivers and helpers, has indorsed Cermak. So has the Auto Livery Chauffeurs' union.

Mayor Thompson's campaign car is now followed regularly by two others, one carrying four policemen and the other running empty and held in reserve in the event of a breakdown of one of the other two.

Maj. Peter J. Brady, Democrat, says that if he is elected city clerk he will establish a system of distributing city wheel tax tags through neighborhood banks.

Cermak, County Clerk Sweitzer, and President Bowler of the sanitary district are scheduled to speak at a meeting of the Engineers and Power Plant Workers' Political club at Musicians' hall tomorrow night.

The Hellenic Democratic club was organized at a meeting in the Ashland block yesterday under the leadership of A. A. Pantelis and began working for Cermak.

A delegation of women representing 235 women's clubs in Chicago and Cook county yesterday visited Cermak and urged that more women be appointed to the school board in the event of his election. The delegation indorsed Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, a Democratic trustee. Mr. Cermak assured his visitors that his appointments would be nonpolitical and that he favored having women board members, and suggested that the board should be enlarged.

PASS STATE TAX WARRANT BILL IN HOUSE, 124 TO 10

Legislators Act to Get a Pay Roll Fund.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 24.—[Special.]—The house of representatives today passed the administration bill allowing the state to issue tax anticipation warrants—an emergency measure designed to make it possible for Illinois to replenish its almost empty pay roll fund—but not before the Emmerson forces had suffered a biting castigation from several Democrats. The vote was 124 to 10.

This afternoon the bill came into the senate and will be pushed hard in the attempt to pass it and place it before the governor this week. With his signature, it will be tested next month in the Illinois Supreme court.

McClure Leads Attack.

A first term Democrat, Frank W. McClure of Abingdon, provided most of the anti-administration fireworks. It was almost his maiden speech of any length and he carried it off with much applause. His bellowed catch line was:

"The Republican party began with hope in Illinois with the great emancipator, and ended in despair with the great anticipator," Gov. Emmerson being the latter.

"I thought this state had too much money," said McClure, "for all I've heard since I came here ten weeks ago was bill after bill—hundreds of bills—appropriating thousands of dollars for this, that and the other thing. I thought we were oozing money and the next day I wake up to find it is all gone.

Votes Yes, but Apologizes.

"What wouldn't Len Small have done if he had discovered this tax anticipation thing?"

McClure was one of those voting against the bill. Representative Truman A. Snell [Dem., Carlinville] voted aye, but in explanation of his vote said he did so "with apologies to everybody. I don't want to see our institutions closed, but if anybody asks me about my vote I'll tell them I did wrong."

PAY 8 MILLIONS IN BONUS LOANS HERE IN 18 DAYS

Dr. Hugh Scott, manager of Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital, announced yesterday that 37,316 applications for soldiers' bonus loans had been received at the hospital up to last Saturday night. Payments on 20,877 of these, for a total of $8,035,387, had been made in eighteen working days since the bonus legislation became effective.

Payment of the loans is regarded as one of the major problems that Dr. Scott has faced since the Chicago regional office of the veterans' bureau was consolidated with the hospital. Disability claims of former soldiers are being handled as usual and, according to Dr. Scott, more expeditiously than they were when the offices were divided.

SENATE VOTES TODAY ON DRY LAW REPEALER

Wets Claim Majority to Pass Measure.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 23.—[Special.]—Final claims that the O'Grady-McDermott prohibition repeater will go through the senate tomorrow were put out tonight by Senators Victor P. Michel, [Rep., Peoria] and Thomas J. Courtney [Dem., Chicago.].

When the senate assembled this morning there was a rush to make a final canvass. The liberals reported that no defections have occurred over the week-end.

Small Man Noncommittal.

Senator Michel claims the necessary 26 votes are assured without counting Senator Richard R. Meents [Rep., Ashkum], who is noncommittal. Mr. Meents, who used to be the Small floor leader, indicated some weeks ago he may be for repeal and his district went 5,200 for repeal in November.

The list as given out by the liberals tonight stands as it did when first put out early in January. Senators Michel and Courtney say the following are lined up for repeal:

Downstate—Republicans: Mason, Michel, Paddock, Searcy—4. Democrats—Adair, Finn, Kline, Monroe—4. Cook county—Republicans: Husbach, Leonard, Roberts, Sarritella—4. Democrats: Broderick, Woods, Carroll, Courtney, Gillmeister, Graham, Huckin, Kaminski, Loughran, Maypole, McDermott, Mendel, O'Grady, Ward—14. Total—26.

Barr May Vote Wet.

In addition Senator Martin R. Carlson [Rep., Moline.] is from a district that went 2,500 for repeal, while Senator Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet] is from a district that went 16,000 for repeal, and the district of Senator Harold Kessinger [Rep., Aurora.] voted for repeal by 6,700. Liberal leaders say they expect to pick up a vote or two from some Republicans voted as drys whose districts went wet on the referendum and rolled up large pluralities for James Hamilton Lewis for senator on a wet platform.

In the lobbies tonight some drys say the repealers will pass, while some liberals say nothing in the senate is certain until the 26th vote is cast. Professional drys have been active during the day and are reported to have concentrated on one or two spots, but liberals report there have been no defections.

Muskogee, Okla., March 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Jesse Adair tonight won a verdict for $20,000 against Exie Fife, wealthy Creek Indian woman, in her suit asking $105,000 for alienation of her former husband's affections.

Mary Van Rensselaer Cogswell.
[Acme Photo.]

New York, March 24.—(AP)—Miss Mary Van Rensselaer Cogswell, New York society girl, and Sigourney Thayer, theatrical producer, obtained a marriage license today. They will be wedded Saturday.

Two years ago Miss Cogswell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cullen Van Rensselaer Cogswell, startled her Park avenue friends by entering soviet Russia without any sort of passport—merely on her visiting card.

Next she went to Armenia and announced that she was going to climb Mount Ararat—a peak which few men have succeeded in scaling. Both the Turkish and Persian governments refused to permit her to do so.

A week later she arrived back in Moscow, without funds and wearing borrowed clothing. She had been robbed of jewels, baggage and several hundred dollars.

Mr. Thayer was divorced by Emily Davies in France last November.

"Iron Lung" Boy Holds Gains in Fight for Life

Charles Caughey, 7 years old, was reported yesterday to have held the gains he made Monday in his fight for life at the St. Francis hospital in Evanston. He was taken there more than three weeks ago and for some days was kept alive with an artificial respiration machine. The use of the machine was abandoned about a week ago. Yesterday his breathing was regular, although his pulse was reported to be weak.

Woman Gets Life Term for Drowning Her 2 Children

Media, Pa., March 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Ida Twaddell, 38, was convicted by a jury in county court tonight of murder in the first degree, with life imprisonment as the sentence, for the drowning of two of her four small children in a bathtub.

Rural Squires' Votes Block Plan to Reapportion State

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 24. — [Special.]—Following defeat of the Schnackenberg reapportionment measure, 90 to 57, in the house today, Senators James J. Barbour [Rep.], Thomas J. Courtney [Dem.] and others tonight prepared for new approaches to the redistricting issue. Under a Courtney resolution adopted by the senate several weeks ago, the legislature reference bureau is directed to prepare a tentative new legislative map by April 15, while Senator Barbour has a bill pending, apportioning the state into 51 new districts, 26 of which are to be in Cook county and 25 downstate.

Meanwhile, the Roderick-Lyons subcommittee on a congressional redistricting, is going ahead with its work and by next week expects to have a tentative map ready carving the state into 27 congressional districts.

Downstate Against Cook County.

Downstate was lined up against Cook county in today's vote killing the Schnackenberg measure, which provided for a joint committee to prepare a tentative redistricting scheme for legislative seats, based on the 1930 census. All the Cook county members present voted for the proposition. They were joined by four members from downstate: Howard L. Doyle [Dem., Decatur], Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Mundelein], David H. McCluggage [Dem., Peoria], and R. G. Soderstrom [Rep., Streator].

In the chief speech against the measure, Roger F. Little [Rep., Champaign] reiterated the idea advanced by Gov. Emmerson in his message that representation is not based on population alone, but also on area.

After all the argumentation, one of the new members, Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem.], arose and gently rebuked the elder for not having contributed more of information and guidance for the first termers. Mr. Adamowski comes from the 25th district in Chicago, which happens to be the largest in the state, with a population of 563,000.

Expected to Hear Arguments.

"I expected," he said, "the older members would present arguments which would advise us new members. I am from a district that embraces eleven wards. I represent a population of 563,000, yet I have no more voice here than a member from a district with only 30,000 inhabitants."

Raymond T. O'Keefe [Dem.], also of the 25th district, spoke in similar strain.

"Why should a man or woman in my district count for only one-tenth of a man or woman from a district down state?" he said.

The vote showing the attitude of the house was construed by many as meaning legislative reapportionment has no chance this session, but the failure of the Schnackenberg resolution does not mean the battling is over, for tonight among the senators and house leaders there were conferences over what steps can be taken. One possibility is that the Barr joint resolution, which passed the senate weeks ago, may be pushed in the house. It is in the judiciary committee and it provides for a commission of nine to investigate reapportionment and home rule for Chicago and Cook county.

Now it's easy to understand why we don't feel well when stagnant intestines are sending depressing poisons all through the body! We must correct this condition. But only by natural, gentle means.

Medical authorities have discovered such a method in fresh yeast. This simple food, they find, possesses truly amazing properties for correcting Intestinal Fatigue.

Eaten regularly, before meals, or between meals and at bedtime, Fleischmann's Yeast mixes with the waste matter in the intestines—softens it—stimulates the natural action that carries it away. Thus, your whole system is gently cleansed and purified. The poisons that were causing your stomach trouble, bad breath, headaches, etc., are eliminated.

Isn't it worth a trial? Then start today! You can get Fleischmann's fresh Yeast at grocers', restaurants and soda fountains, and each cake is rich in three health-giving vitamins—B, G and D.

Just eat three cakes every day, regularly. Directions are on the label.

Eat FLEISCHMANN'S YEAST for Health—3 Cakes a Day

Always ask for Fleischmann's fresh Yeast (with the yellow label) : : : the only yeast "irradiated" to give it the Sunshine Vitamin D! Rich in Vitamins B and G, too.

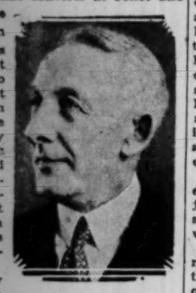
FEAR NEW RIOTS AT JOLIET; TELL GUARDS TO SHOOT

Plans for Outbreak at Pontiac Fail.

Governor Emmerson was notified yesterday that convicts at Joliet and Stateville are still in a rebellious mood. It was also learned that prisoners in the state reformatory in Pontiac had planned a demonstration yesterday, but the prison authorities had prevented it.



GOV. L. L. EMMERSON. [Wallinger Photo.]

Deputy warden George Erickson of the Joliet prison said he had learned that as soon as the convicts are released from their cells—to which they have been confined since they rioted at both penitentiaries—they were plotting to drag the mattresses off their bunks and set them on fire. Should they do that, guards stationed on the walls were instructed to shoot the convicts as fast as they come out of the cell houses carrying the mattresses.

Plan to Fire Shops, Report.

Harry Polland, representative of Gov. Emmerson, who has been at the scenes of the mutinies of the last ten days in the Joliet and Stateville prisons, telephoned the governor what he learned yesterday. Polland's information was that the convicts plan to set fire to the many prison shops as soon as they are ordered out to work. According to the reports, those convicts from the two main cell blocks who did not participate in the riot at the old prison on March 14 and those who did not join in the incendiarism at Stateville on March 18 are ready to join in future uprisings because they have been locked in their cells ever since. Their attitude is described as sullen.

Warden Henry C. Hill said he could not predict when the men would be released from their cells. Excepting the 680 prisoners in a separate cell block at Joliet who were not involved in the wrecking of the mess hall, and those on special details, the convicts have been locked up and will be kept locked up at least until after the end of the inquiry begun last week by the committee of the legislature.

Sixteen Declared Insane.

Sixteen convicts at Stateville have been declared insane and are to be removed to the Chester prison at the first opportunity. Included among them is Otto Malm, who with his wife, Kitty, was sentenced in Chicago for numerous robberies and one murder. Since being imprisoned Malm has killed one convict and has been given an additional life imprisonment sentence. A dagger was found in his cell last week.

Two honor farm convicts, Lyman Holloway, 20 years old, and Harry Orbis, 21 years old, formerly of La Salle county, convicted of larceny and due to be paroled next summer, were prevented from escaping and were brought to Stateville and put in solitary confinement. They are the first of the honor farm workers to join in the general unrest of the prisoners.

Because of the apprehension over new outbursts, thirty-five state highway policemen are being kept at Stateville and one hundred more are available on one hour's notice. This general condition caused the members of the legislative committee to hold a special meeting yesterday in Springfield at which it was suggested that Capt. B. A. Davenport of the old prison guard not be permitted to come in contact with the convicts until the conclusion of the investigation.

Fear He Would Be Killed.

Representative Harry McCaskrin declared that testimony by convicts of the hatred they have for Davenport makes it dangerous for the captain, who was injured in the first rioting, to return to duty. Representative William Thon said he believed Davenport would be killed if he returns and Representative Roger Little, chairman of the committee, agreed that it would be well to recommend that Davenport be given other duties for the present.

The committe refused to adopt a suggestion of Chairman Little that a preliminary report commend the prison administration. McCaskrin is reported to have opposed such a move until the inquiry is completed.

Representative Michael L. Igoe, minority leader, asked that State Architect C. Herrick Sammonds be instructed to make a report on how quickly the new cell block at Stateville—which is under construction—can be completed. It was implied that whatever appropriation is needed would be voted because of the immediate necessity of providing more cell space. The new cell block, now 40 per cent finished, will accommodate 1,160 men.

The committee is to inspect parole records today and tomorrow in Springfield and on Friday will resume sessions at Joliet.

Handbill Discloses Plot.

A handbill, written by an inmate and which urged a general uprising, had fallen into the hands of Warden John R. Cranor of the Pontiac reformatory. It was headed "Are you men?" and it advocated "helping our brothers of Joliet and Stateville," and called for action at 1:05 p. m. yesterday. "Make two copies of this and hand it to right guys," the notice concluded.

There are 2,450 prisoners at Pontiac whose ages were from 16 to 26 when sentenced. At 1:05 o'clock yesterday Warden John R. Cranor, Chief Walter Moody and Capt. Hal Carr of the state highway police were watching from the window of the warden's office to see what would happen when the zero hour arrived.

Get Warnings from Parents.

At that moment 2,000 prisoners marched from their cells to an assembly ground in front of the warden's office. Sixty guards stood in front of them as they formed into companies. The circular had advised the men "Don't be marched to work, but jump on the guards and beat them when the bugle blows."

The sixty guards were unarmed. The bugle blew. There wasn't a man out of line or a movement out of the ordinary. The prisoners marched to their tasks.

Warden Cranor, who for many years was a superintendent of schools, said the mails of recent days have been bringing in thousands of letters from parents of the prisoners, pleading with their sons not to be led into any disorder. Warden Cranor had given a few talks over the loud speaker to the inmates, telling them that the prison riots of other places had never won benefits for the inmates but had brought them nothing but trouble, punishment, and death. The author of the call to mutiny had been retained in his cell yesterday after lunch.

M'GOORTY ORDERS BRIDEWELL INQUIRY ON BALL AND CHAIN

Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court yesterday ordered an investigation into the handling of prisoners in the Bridewell under James Curran, superintendent by appointment of Mayor Thompson. The superintendent was ordered into court after the judge had listened to the story of James Fountain, 28 years old, colored, who said that he has had to wear a ball and chain for the last five months. The superintendent and other Bridewell officials are to be questioned Monday.

"It is astonishing that such things can occur in this country," said the judge after Fountain had told his story when brought into court on a writ. "I did not think it existed."

Acting Superintendent Joseph Carmody defended the action by saying that Fountain is the most unruly prisoner held in that institution for many years. Carmody said Fountain refused to work and fought with other prisoners. The ball and chain, which had to be filed off, it was said, before Fountain could be brought to court, was put on for safekeeping, the acting superintendent said. Fountain is serving one year for gun toting and when this term is finished he is to go to the penitentiary to start on a one year to life sentence for robbery.

MAYOR WALKER TO HURRY BACK, FIGHT INQUIRY

Tammany Plans Defense; 2 Year Battle Seen!

New York, March 24.—[Special.]—Tammany, although temporarily stunned by the sudden action of the Republican state legislature in ordering an investigation of the city government in all its branches, reserved sufficiently today to devise plans for fighting back. Mayor James J. Walker will leave Palm Springs, Cal., on Sunday for this city, five days earlier than he had planned to quit his sun bathing.

Samuel Seabury, who is slated to be counsel of the legislative investigating committee, has estimated that he will need a staff of forty lawyers for the city-wide investigation and that the inquiry will take from a year and a half to two years.

The prediction was made that the public hearings in the investigation would begin this summer and would continue until the summer of 1932 and perhaps until the fall or winter of 1932.

WOMAN FRIEND TO CONTEST WILL OF NAVAL OFFICER

San Francisco, Cal., March 24.—(AP)—Edward Cunha, attorney, announced today he would contest the will of the late Lieutenant Commander Emory Winship, retired naval officer and capitalist, who committed suicide Saturday, unless it provided for Miss Helen Elizabeth Thompson, 23, of Los Angeles.

The will has not been filed for probate. Cunha said an action by Miss Thompson against Winship was pending. She demanded $200 a month for the rest of her life, alleging Winship agreed to pay her that amount when his marriage to Miss Dorothy Blount, formerly of Macon, Ga., and Winship's widow, ended their alleged romance.

Winship left a note saying he feared he was going insane from "impulses to kill two or more persons."

Miss Thompson alleged she met Winship in 1925 and that he supported her for several years, renting several San Francisco apartments for her. When Winship informed her of his marriage, she charged, he promised to give her $200 monthly for the rest of her life. He also promised, according to the deposition, that he would provide for her in his will. The complaint, filed last October, charged the monthly payments ended in January, 1930.

SIX WEEKS ON JOB IN ONE CASE INSPIRES "THE JUROR'S LAMENT"

New York, March 24.—(AP)—There was just as much rhyme as reason in the verdict returned by a jury in the United States District court today awarding Albert J. Pfeiffer, Inc., $534 in a suit for half a million dollars against the Duplan Silk corporation.

The case dragged on for six weeks. When the jury was discharged at last with the thanks of the court Sumner R. Kilmark, juror No. 10, distributed to his colleagues a copy of verses he wrote during the trial. He called it "The Juror's Lament." The poem follows:

We came here in the prime of life
The cause of right to seek;
But age has crept upon us
As we pondered week by week.
How ponderously and slowly
The wheels of justice turn;
What boredom jurors must endure
Four bucks a day to earn.

JUDGE HINTS AT NEW TRIAL FOR VIRGIL KIRKLAND

Decision Hinges on Cause of Girl's Death.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Valparaiso, Ind., March 24.—[Special.]—New hope arose for Virgil Kirkland today, but a new dread was mingled with it. The Gary youth whom a jury of farmers convicted March 14 of murdering his sweetheart during a liquor revel, this evening heard Judge Grant Crumpacker hint the possibility of a new trial and declare in the same breath that, if the trial be granted, Kirkland must again face the jeopardy of the electric chair for killing Arlene Draves. The ruling is set for Monday.

Sentenced to Life Term.

A jury had found him guilty of murder and sentenced him to life imprisonment. They thereby disregarded the state's charge of murder by rape, an offense carrying a mandatory death penalty, and in that Kirkland's lawyers found the crux of their argument today.

For two hours this morning and an hour this afternoon, the trio hammered away on the argument that the court, in submitting to the jury the form of verdict they selected for convicting Kirkland, had committed a reversible error. The jury found that a blow of Kirkland's fist killed the girl.

Opening the argument with a review of the evidence, Mr. Thiel challenged the state to produce from the record a single line of testimony that Kirkland struck Arlene a blow during the Gary house party at which she was killed.

Mr. Thiel was followed by O'Hara, who two weeks ago tonight was hailing the verdict of life imprisonment as a defense victory. Reading a prepared brief, Mr. O'Hara cited a long line of cases in which, he said, the Supreme courts of Indiana, Illinois, and the United States had held that in deaths resulting from a blow of the fist there could be no premeditation and hence no first degree murder.

Having heard Mr. Underwood and Mr. Oldham briefly, the judge made one of those careful, conscientious pronouncements, which distinguished his conduct of the trial. Lifting his glasses he announced the course which gave Kirkland hope.

Admits Possible Error.

"It may be," he began slowly, "that the prosecutor, the court and the jury all erred in this trial. It is not impossible that Mr. Underwood erred in submitting the count of common murder in the indictment. The court may have erred in submitting a verdict covering the count to the jury. And the jury, as has been said, may have disregarded my instructions in reaching their verdict."

He had entertained doubts, the judge explained, as to the strength of the evidence supporting the charge of simple murder but, in permitting the jury to consider that charge, had been influenced "by the consideration that the jury might otherwise have been driven to vote the death penalty. I didn't want to shut off the possibility of a lesser penalty being returned."

"If this case be tried again," the judge ruled, "it must be tried on all counts, both the common murder and murder by rape. Under Indiana law a cause on retrial stands just as if it had never been tried at all."

Seemingly perceiving the significance of the ruling on the instant Kirkland frowned and then bent to whisper with his lawyers. Their strategy, which the court's ruling upset, was to claim in the event of a new trial that Kirkland had already been acquitted of murder by rape and could not be placed in double jeopardy.

WHY WOMEN BACK CERMAK; HONESTY IS FIRST ANSWER

The independent women's committee in the campaign headquarters of Anton J. Cermak yesterday issued the first of a series of interviews with women of various occupations who are supporting Cermak. Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, head of the committee, said that the interviews were undertaken by the committee's workers to learn what qualifications of Mr. Cermak appealed most to women.

Here is the first answer of a woman questioned as to why she is for Cermak in the campaign:

Mrs. Esther Nelson, 5245 Lind avenue, a manicure:

"Sure I'm going to vote! Of course I'm for Cermak.

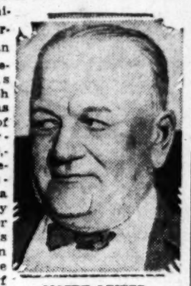
"Why am I for Cermak? Well, he's honest, and it's about time Chicago had an honest mayor and an honest city government.

"Then, the way I look at it, Cermak's more for the people.

"Everything I've read about Cermak and his record and all he says in speeches make me think he'd be the best mayor."

APPEALS COURT UPHOLDS LEITER IN ESTATE JOB

Five years of litigation instituted by British heirs of the late Levi Z. Leiter, pioneer Chicago merchant, in an effort to remove his son, Joseph Leiter, as trustee of the merchant's $30,000,000 estate resulted yesterday in a decision by Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan denying the appeal of the relatives.



JOSEPH LEITER.

The court fight is expected to continue, however. Attorneys indicated that the decision would be appealed to the State Supreme court.

The Appellate court decided that Joseph Leiter was a conscientious administrator who stayed at home to attend to the affairs of the vast estate while the absent relatives offered little help. The decision pointed out that during his 26 years of trusteeship the working capital of the estate had been increased from $12,920,000 to $17,887,000.

Arrayed against Trustee Leiter in the case were his sister, Lady Margarite Hyde, a countess of Suffolk and Berka, and three daughters of the late Mary Leiter Curzon—the baroness of Ravensdale, Lady Cynthia Mosley, and Lady Alexandra Metcalf. Lady Curzon was the wife of the late Lord Curzon, viceroy of India.

Joseph Leiter is one of three trustees, the other two being Lady Suffolk and Daniel V. Harkin. All have equal power, the court pointed out, and Leiter is unable to do anything to jeopardize the estate without the concurrence of the others.

The court reviewed the charges that Leiter was incompetent and extravagant in the management of trust funds, vast real estate, coal mines, western ranches, and yachts.

FALLS DEAD IN STREET.

On her way to the home of friends, Mrs. Augusta Fazel, 50 years old, 5444 Laflin street, fell dead of heart disease at 45th street near Wentworth avenue, yesterday.

POLICE FIRE ON BRICK HURLING SPANISH RIOTERS

3 Students Hurt; King Returns to Capital.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, March 24.—Returning from a visit to his mother-in-law today King Alfonso was reminded that the constitutionalist bloc, lately captained by Sanchez Guerra, stands reinforced and ready to attempt what the old Romanones failed to do a little more than a month ago.

In a carefully drafted document they practically invite the monarch to charge them with calling a constitutional assembly to decide his fate and other things as the only way out of a "situation of utmost gravity."

Police Fire on Students.

This quiet reminder was actually the most momentous development in an exciting day. There was an armed assault on rioting students at the medical school, and revolutionary leaders made their triumphal exit from prison cells.

Three students and a passing bellhop suffered wounds in the four hour battle at the medical school, in which the police fired 30 shots while students hurled bricks from upper windows of the university.

The medicos tore down an enormous portrait of the king from the assembly hall and threw it out over the main gate after setting it on fire. Maddened by the cheers of the crowd, an officer in command of the police fired guns in the air. Misunderstanding this, his men followed suit, but fired lower. Although 30 shot were fired, only three bullets found their marks in the school, while one nicked a bellhop 100 yards down the street.

Cheer Freed Revolt Leaders.

After having waited most of the night, Alcala Zamora, "provisional president" of the "republic," and his "ministers" left the prison at 5 o'clock this afternoon on the shoulders of their admirers to enjoy conditional liberty for the remaining three months of their six months' sentence. A throng of 2,000 were at the gates to greet them. The police charged twice, using the flats of their sabers to disperse the mob.

The constitutionalists met this morning without Sanchez Guerra, who has retired from politics, to seal the pact with their new ally, Santiago Alba, who has come back after seven years of a self-imposed exile. In their declaration they point out that they are ready to undertake a constitutional solution every bit as drastic as that proposed by Guerra.

They make no bones of the fact that their intention is to ask King Alfonso for full power to act, not in his name, but in the name of the nation, which would entail the surrender of many of his most important prerogatives pending the verdict of the assembly.

HERO OF SEA DIES ASHORE, VICTIM OF PNEUMONIA

New York, March 24.—[Special.]—Death claimed a hero of the sea today, and, ironically, the illness which caused the death of Capt. Robert Beekman Miller at his home in the Bronx was one which he had challenged and escaped in the hurricane swept waters of the North Atlantic five years ago last month. Capt. Miller died ashort of pneumonia three days after bringing his last command, the American Farmer, into port.

It was in January, 1926, when Capt. George Fried, with Miller as his chief officer, turned the liner President Roosevelt from her course to go to the rescue of the crippled British freighter Antinoe. For four days and nights, while the hurricane raged about them, the Roosevelt's crew, headed in each attempt by the youthful Miller, sought to take off the crew of the helpless freighter.

On one attempt Miller and six men were dashed into the sea and were rescued only after considerable exposure. Two of the rescue crew were lost when a second lifeboat, manned by Miller, was dashed against the stricken vessel. It was on the seventh attempt that Miller and his crew made contact with the Antonoe and established the connection which resulted in the rescue of the British sailors.

The rescue went down in annals of the sea as one of the most heroic of a decade.

Miller was 39, a native of Duluth, Minn., where two of his sisters now reside. He also is survived by his widow.

HOOVER OFF FOR VIRGIN ISLES ON SOUTHERN CRUISE

Hails Porto Rico's Progress in San Juan Speech

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD U. S. S. ARIZONA, March 24.—President Hoover is aboard the battleship Arizona again and tonight is on his way to the Virgin islands, the second objective of his vacation trip. The President had a strenuous day, during which he made the first presidential speech delivered in Porto Rico since the visit of Theodore Roosevelt the elder.

In his speech he promised Porto Rico what 90 per cent of its people want—continued association with the United States, continued guidance, and continued financial aid.

Cheer Hoover on Return.

After his address President Hoover conferred with Gov. Theodore Roosevelt at the Ponce de Leon palace in San Juan briefly before his auto ride to Ponce. The trip back to the port and the battleship was another triumphant progress. Receptions were held at various towns. Cheering school children lined the 90 mile route.

Standing on the steps of the capital's new marble palace, the President expressed his gratefulness for the courtesy and generosity he had received on his visit.

"Though I come for the first time to Porto Rico, my contact with the island and my opinion of her people do not date merely from the time when I assumed the position of President," he said. "More than a decade ago, as food administrator during the troublous times of the war, I came to know Porto Ricans, to become acquainted with their abilities, and above all, to realize their splendid devotion to our country in time of national danger.

"Our nation is proud of the progress made by the people of Porto Rico. Endowed with liberty, freedom, with self-government and individual opportunity through incorporation under the American flag, the island, by the efforts of its citizens and the coöperation of the whole United States, has in a single generation emerged from stagnation to a high place in the march of progress.

Cites Proof of Progress.

"Porto Rico is, indeed, a magnificent example of what a capable and intelligent people may accomplish under free institutions. You have, indeed, shown courage and initiative under these impulses of freedom and liberty. In proof of this progress I need but recall a few evidences. You have in this single generation since joining in our citizenship increased more than 60 per cent in population, increased over 500 per cent in material wealth and over 800 per cent in attendance upon public schools. You have decreased illiteracy by almost 50 per cent and the death rate has been diminished by more than 60 per cent.

"I know of no finer achievement than that of the people of this island, who from their gaining wealth have builded up from a few public schools, with but 25,000 scholars at the time of occupation, to a great system of several thousand schools, colleges and universities, which today gives instruction to over 200,000 scholars.

"You are temporarily suffering not alone from the aftermath of the devastating hurricane of 1928, when one-tenth of all the property of the island and a much larger percentage of the tools of livelihood were destroyed, but you are involved with us all in the world-wide business depression. Discouraging as these disasters may be for the moment, we know that they are but passing events in our history; that, with the courage of your people and under benevolent institutions which have been builded here, their effects will be overcome and the nation and this island will resume their march in prosperity and progress.

Realizes Island's Difficulties.

"In Washington we are sensible of these many serious difficulties with which you are struggling at the moment. We also realize not only these difficulties with which you are confronted but we realize also your possibilities for future progress. This administration has given proof of the continued solicitude of our citizens on the mainland for your welfare by the measures recommended to the congress and authorized by it. It has been the policy of the federal government to contribute even more liberally to the development of Porto Rico in this period of her upgrowth toward freedom and liberty than has been given to our states.

"Not only has the island enjoyed the invaluable privileges of full inclusion in our economic system but all of the federal revenues from the island have been assigned to the island treasury, and now a large measure of the federal welfare services in public works, public roads, education, agriculture, and in public health are being extended to the island without costs to its people.

"The suffering of the people of the island from the great hurricane found a generous response not only from the contribution of your fellow citizens in the United States but by large measures of relief from the federal treasury. The American people have been glad to coöperate in this upbuilding and in the reconstruction from present difficulties and they take great pride in the progress you have made.

Sees Economic Development.

"Basically, what we are all striving for in our economic life is to provide for all of our citizens on this island as well as the mainland the opportunity to gain for themselves and their families by their own effort a fair and adequate livelihood. We have confidence in the advancement of your part of our nation through economic development, through the education and through the ordered liberty which have created the great sister commonwealths upon the mainland.

"We wish to see every Porto Rican with the same opportunities in life to which we believe every American citizen is entitled."

Will Greet President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands, March 24.—The U. S. S. Arizona is expected to arrive here tonight and drop anchor two miles outside the harbor. Dr. Paul M. Pearson, new civil governor, accompanied by the former naval governor, Capt. Waldo Evans, will call on the President aboard ship at 8:45 o'clock tomorrow morning.

After a presidential salute of 21 guns the chairman of the legislature will welcome Mr. Hoover on shore. The President will review a parade and the school children will present a Maypole dance. An official luncheon at the government house will follow. The President will meet the legislature in the afternoon and then drive to "Bluebeard's" castle. The Arizona will sail away at 5 p. m.

MRS. HOOVER GOES TO ASHEVILLE TO VISIT CONVALESCENT SON

Washington, D. C., March 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Herbert Hoover left tonight for Asheville, N. C., to spend the remainder of the week with her son, Herbert Hoover Jr.

She expected to return to the White House Sunday or Monday, arriving shortly before President Hoover returns from his Caribbean cruise.

The first lady had planned to go to Asheville last week, but instead spent several days at the President's fishing camp in the Blue Ridge mountains.

She returned to Washington yesterday and last night delivered a radio address.

Her son has been at Asheville several months recovering from illness. He is reported as making favorable progress.

300 WOMEN CHEER CERMAK IN WEST SIDE GATHERING

With applause and handclapping, 300 women of German descent greeted A. J. Cermak, Democratic candidate for mayor, yesterday in Wicker Park hall, 2040 West North avenue. Mrs. Cermak and Coroner Bundesen in their speeches emphasized the need of electing a mayor who will clean up Chicago. Another speaker was Miss Charlotte Slavitt, an attorney.

Mr. Cermak was followed by his granddaughter, Vivian Gordon, who said that "if the city of Chicago elects a man that has as big a heart as my granddad, every boy and girl, man and woman, will be proud of our city and will not be worried further about the reputation of Chicago as a World's Fair city."

BURNING ACID STOMACH ENDS

Mr. C. M. Reade, Merchantville, New Jersey, writes, "After 15 years of searing acid stomach I began taking ACIDINE. From the first dose, about three weeks ago, I have enjoyed my old health back again."

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way this new prescription ACIDINE succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains lactase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain heavy starchy foods. ACIDINE neutralizes burning acid, soothes irritated stomach and intestinal linings, helps end acidosis.

Eat, drink all you want. When sour stomach, gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, belching, nervousness, colds, gassy headaches and sleeplessness trouble you, take ACIDINE. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money.

Hearing Aid Has Miniature Radio Microphone

This comes as good news to the deafened! German inventive genius has produced a new, highly efficient hearing aid on entirely new principles. It is called TEUTONOPHONE. It differs from all other hearing devices in that it eliminates all the sounds of body movements and clearly intensifies desired sounds.

This welcome feature of noiselessness has at last been successfully achieved by TEUTONOPHONE. Now voices, music and tones come to the listener with marked fidelity—clearly and undistorted.

The secret of TEUTONOPHONE is its new radio microphone. It is the smallest, most compact instrument obtainable today, yet is extremely rugged and durable.

The manufacturers of RADIO TEUTONOPHONE are anxious to have you test TEUTONOPHONE to the most severe tests. In the laboratories of Deutsche Akustik Gesellschaft of Berlin, those who have tried it proved clearly that even the severely deaf could discover a new, vast world of sound.

TEUTONOPHONE, Inc., wants you to compare TEUTONOPHONE with your present instrument in the demonstration room listed, or in your own home.

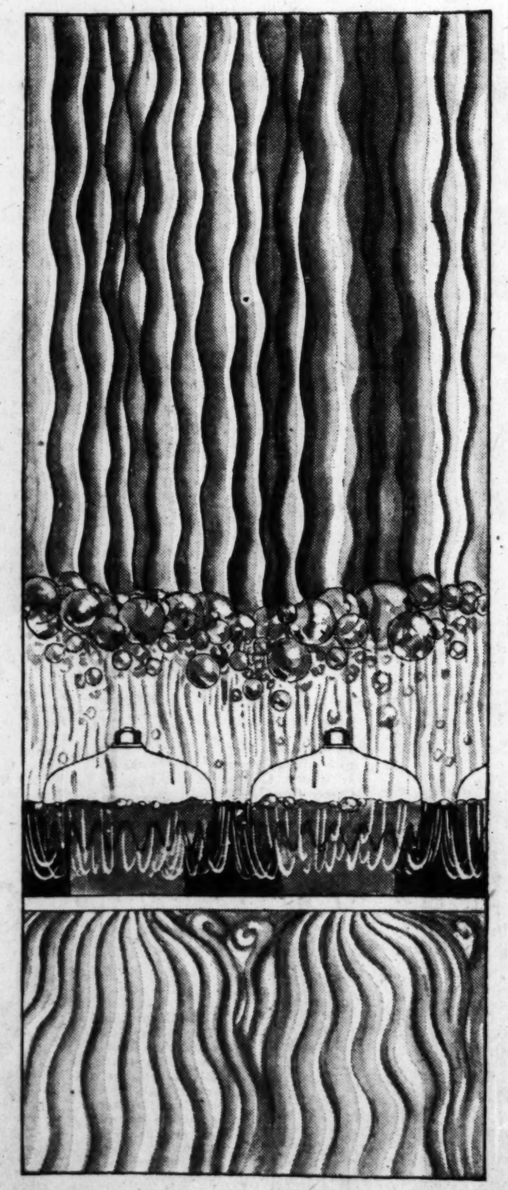
It's new . . . a real advance!

Super-Shell Ethyl



Visualizing a section of one of the multiple "bubble cap trays" in Shell's refining and "scrubbing" towers. Here all the heavy, lazy particles are washed out of this special gasoline, producing the volatile, lively gasoline base for Super-Shell Ethyl

Livelier, quicker anti-knock gasoline . . . because science has found a way to REMOVE EVERY SLOW-VAPORIZING, LAZY PARTICLE

NOW . . . science's perfected anti-knock fuel!

Super-Shell Ethyl is different. It contains Ethyl fluid, of course—a generous charge that assures positive anti-knock value. But with this Ethyl compound is now blended a special and superior kind of gasoline.

This changes the whole character of the fuel. Improves it! Gives you added value for your money!

Shell engineers developed it. They knew that inferior gasoline—no matter what was added—doesn't deliver best performance in your car. They set out to make anti-knock fuel utterly free of slow-firing, harmful, "heavy" gasoline particles. Months of experiment . . then they succeeded!

It is a matter of "washing" the gasoline—in a series of huge steel refining towers where the gasoline vapors travel over Shell's amazing system of "bubble cap trays." Here by minute new adjustment of heat and by special design and arrangement of trays, this gasoline is stripped of every lazy, slow-vaporizing particle.

All the doubtful "fractions" so often left in gasoline are "scrubbed" out. Into a special pipe flows only the extra-volatile, lively, buoyant gasoline which Shell blends with genuine Ethyl fluid!

Thus Super-Shell Ethyl gives you every quality you need to get finest engine operation from your car. Quick starting. Smooth, even power to put you in front of the crowd. High anti-knock value.

Now . . . see what really fine performance your motor is capable of giving. Drive into a Shell station today, and fill up with Super-Shell Ethyl. Few, after trying this, will be content with ordinary anti-knock fuels.

In the New Oakland V-8 you get a large, powerful, easy riding, beautiful car for only $981 *delivered equipped

IT HAS AN 85 H. P. V-8 ENGINE

The New Oakland is fast and smooth. It is dependable and long-lived. It is comfortable and beautiful. For this fine new car represents high standards of design and manufacture. A splendid example is found in the new 85 horsepower eight-cylinder V-type engine—the kind of power plant which has been standard in the finest cars for years, and is famous for smoothness and efficiency. This type motor fully utilizes the advantages of down-draft carburetion. In constructing this engine, fine materials and high standards of precision are employed, and careful inspections complete the assurance of unusual performance.

SYNCRO-MESH TRANSMISSION

Further convincing proof of Oakland quality is found in the transmission. To meet Oakland standards nothing would do but the remarkable Syncro-Mesh, originally conceived as a luxury few might enjoy and heretofore found only in the world's costliest cars. Syncro-shifting is easy, clashless, silent and velvet-smooth—the last word in driving satisfaction.

A NEW QUIET SECOND GEAR

Quiet operation is a characteristic of well built cars, and Oakland's new second gear is one of the features that provides this quality. In addition the design of this gear contributes greatly to Oakland's remarkable acceleration. It is a real delight to drive a car that picks up so rapidly in second gear, and with a quietness comparable to driving in "high."

A RUBBER-CUSHIONED CHASSIS

Many examples of Oakland thoroughness of construction are hidden from view. In the chassis, for instance, there are actually forty-one points where rubber cushioning is used, absorbing and deadening shocks and adding both to riding ease and to the life of the car. Oakland's rubber cushioned spring shackles make notable contribution to riding ease, eliminate twelve points of chassis lubrication, and are rattle-proof.

NEW INSULATED BODIES BY FISHER

A new interpretation by Fisher of style, comfort and luxury in bodies adds the final touch in making Oakland an inexpensive version of the finest. Not only has the Fisher system of scientifically combining wood and steel produced its usual safety and durability, but in addition these Oakland bodies introduce the very latest developments in insulation against heat, cold and noise. There is no denying that the body has much to do with one's satisfaction in the car—and the new Oakland Fisher bodies will please you in every respect from their modish styling to their sound structural qualities.

WHIPCORD OR MOHAIR UPHOLSTERY

Oakland cars are upholstered and trimmed to the same standards of style and beauty as characterize fine homes where good taste is expressed. Closed cars are upholstered in whipcord or mohair—open cars in leathers. In every detail of appointments and fittings Oakland has spared nothing to create an ensemble of flawless good taste.

Other Oakland features include: 117-inch wheelbase; five wire wheels; Lovejoy shock absorbers; one-piece fenders with fender indicator lamps; heavy single-bar bumpers; new sturdy rear axles with ball and roller bearings—oil sealed in and dust sealed out; rigid frame with five cross members; the efficient cross-flow radiator; and close-fitting electro-plated pistons.

In every way Oakland has gone to great lengths to appeal to careful, knowing buyers. It has designed the Oakland V-8 soundly and built it with thoroughness and care. This fine workmanship and attention to detail will be apparent to you when you examine the car.

THE SQUIRES AGAIN NULLIFY.

The Illinois house of representatives has defeated the Schnackenberg resolution for the appointment of a reapportionment committee. The vote was 87 to 90. The squires have again declared nullification a policy and disfranchisement a doctrine in this state. In representative government the constitution is void and discrimination is the rule. The squirearchy voted to keep its stolen seats and to deprive the city of its legal representation.

There was nothing at all unexpected in the result. The Chicago members of the house had again made the best case possible when the appeal must be to the conscience and good judgment of rural legislators who have dulled one and are incapable of exercising the other. No legal remedy for this breakdown of representative government has been found outside the legislature itself. The injury is great and will become greater. There is no remedy in law, the constitution providing none. The nullifiers are dry and when prohibition is at issue they make much of respect for the law. They make hash of it when their own interests are involved. In the illegal structure of the legislature built upon nullification they have advantages. They get legislative districts and votes to which they are not entitled. They can vote taxes which they do not have to pay, and they can divert the public money into their own localities. They can pass discriminatory laws and put the metropolitan area under levy.

There being no legal remedy, there must be a political one. As the effects of inequitable and unbalanced representation become more apparent and as metropolitan resentment grows, steps will be taken to reserve the administrative government to Chicago. The votes are in the city area. They are free, aside from the election of members of the general assembly. The city will take the governor and the veto power. There will be no other way of reducing the legislature to its proper place.

THE OUTLOOK FOR FARM RELIEF.

The farm board is getting out of the wheat market with losses that will probably run close to $100,000,000. Its losses in cotton may prove as heavy. Probably, then, the board's revolving fund has been reduced from half a billion dollars to something like $300,000,000. That sum remains for use in farm relief, but there is no agreement upon how it is to be spent. Senator Borah is seeking to revive the export debenture plan and Senator Watson is in favor of the equalization fee. The proposals have at least one thing in common: the President is violently opposed to both and is almost certain to veto any legislation intended to put either plan into operation.

It is unlikely that congress can be brought to vote any additional funds for farm relief. The country was at the high tide of prosperity when the present law was enacted. There was a surplus in the treasury and taxes had been lowered progressively. Now the unemployed industrial worker regards the farmer with a roof over his head and food in the cellar as a favorite of Providence; and the deflation in the values of all commodities has further injured the farmer's case for special consideration. He may still be worse off than men in other industries, but the disparity is no longer as striking as it was. Meanwhile the treasury surplus has been changed to a deficit and federal taxes have risen, partly because of the high cost of farm relief. If we are to have another form of farm relief through congressional appropriation the money will probably have to come from the remaining $300,000,000 in the revolving fund, provided Mr. Mellon doesn't get it first to reduce the deficit.

That being so, it behooves the representatives and friends of agriculture to unite on a program which will command something besides opposition. Agriculture never was in greater need of economic statesmanship.

THE NEW RUSSIAN ARISTOCRACY.

The official soviet magazine whose title is translated "For Industrialisation" recently published an interview with an American engineer in charge of an important construction job in Russia. The engineer discussed various causes for the inefficiency which has characterized Russian building operations, but stressed the one which he regarded as most important. He could not reconcile himself to the custom of his Russian colleagues of sitting in the office all day. Soviet engineers, he said, spend little time on the construction site. Often he had found it impossible to find the man in charge of a construction section because the majority of Russian engineers spend their time in offices looking over plans. While they are thus agreeably occupied things go wrong for lack of skilled direction.

The evidence is accumulating that the Russian revolution is at least as Russian as it is revolutionary. There is much talk of comradeship and the emergence of the downtrodden, but after all the shedding of blood to give land to the peasants and dignify proletarian labor the land is being worked increasingly by propertyless farm hands who must obey orders or starve; and the old aristocracy has been replaced by a new one which, like its predecessor, thinks itself too good to muddy its boots.

OUTLAWING OF CHEMICAL WARFARE.

Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general of the league of nations, has sent a note to Washington calling attention to the fact that the protocol forbidding the use of gas and bacteria in warfare has not been ratified by the United States. A news report from Geneva says that the delay is creating a very bad impression. Japan also has neglected to ratify. It is recalled that an American delegate, the late Theodore Burton, proposed the gas agreement. At Geneva it is said that he forced it on the league, an incredible picture. It was signed in June, 1925, and so far as the United States is concerned that has been the last of it. In Washington the explanation is that the treaty has not yet met with the approval of the foreign relations committee of the senate.

The reason is found in some subliminal common sense which occasionally checks a flow of emotions in this democracy. Sometimes it operates when everything else has succumbed. In this case the common sense consideration takes into account the improbability of obedience and compliance in by other nations' necessity. The United States is likely to be somewhat simple and honest in such matters. If it ratified the agreement it would assume, it is to be feared, that it would prevail. Consequently chemical warfare would be dismissed from the possibilities and would not be taken into account. No defenses would be developed against it and no preparation made to wage it.

Americans are now told that, having proposed and accepted the Kellogg treaty renouncing war as a method of national policy, it is inconsistent to maintain a navy or army. Such reasons and such conclusions were to be expected here. The ratification of a gas agreement, with greater justification, should be accepted as conclusive against any further thought of such a weapon. Gas has been outlawed by international convention before. That did not prevent its use. The use caught the first victims unprepared.

The proposed ban on gas is a survival of romanticism when war was an aristocratic art used by kings for the increase of their personal realm and the extension of their egotism and practiced by gentlemen of spirit for their reputation and advantage in command of conscripted or hired troops. Its amenities were extended to the well born that it might be preserved as a profession. It was even considerate of the men in the ranks because it was hard to replace a trained and disciplined soldier. The culture of war is no longer a concern of civilized people.

A POOR BREAK FOR THE INDIVIDUAL.

New York's present harvest of scandals has been ripest where the product was an outrage of authority upon persons unable to hold their own against it because as individuals they were helpless, whether offending or unoffending. The least protected were women, victims of the morals code enforcement. It should be and generally is shocking to the community conscience when law runs amuck among people who cannot help themselves if they encounter it, but often the desire to reach desirable standards of public decorum works out in just that fashion.

New York gave the police authority to drive against moral offenses and it was soon converted into sanction for an inquisition. Offenses against public decorum must cease to be secretive, in their very nature, before they become offenses. Conduct, outside of criminality, must, simple as this may seem, become offensive to be offensive, but when a police agency has been set up to deal with it then the offenses and the offenders must be procured. At once there are developed the details of the man hunt characteristic of every attempt to discover guilt where none has been revealed. In New York victims were entrapped and framed. They were subjected to extortion or judicial injustice. The sufficiency or insufficiency of evidence against them was immaterial and miscarriage of justice was a daily event in the routine of the morals courts. It was a lesson illustrating the helplessness of the average citizen when legal machinery has been set in motion to prowl into the conduct of persons who have not disclosed themselves as offenders against security or order. The lesson is of wider application. Persons of consequence in a community may be protected from injustice, but when the police are dealing with people who cannot call influential friends or lawyers, it is only the good judgment or good disposition of the police themselves that can prevent incidents distressing to the law itself. When the community goes ganging the individual is only a poor wretch.

COSMOPOLITAN TALKIES.

[Decatur Herald.]

Movie audiences throughout the United States have listened by now to four different speeches by Prof. Einstein, in German, faithfully recorded by the talkie news reel. There was his welcome upon landing in New York and the welcome to Pasadena; later the farewells in each locality, in turn.

Such a repetition of foreign speech suggests a possibility that the talkies may have much to do, eventually, in breaking down the barriers of language that have separated peoples. Listeners, for example, who thought they knew not one word of German can hardly have listened to Prof. Einstein four times without grasping what he was talking about when he said, "Auf wiedersehen."

Even if such casual exposure to a foreign speech does not prove sufficient to teach an understanding of many words, still it must serve somewhat to break down a provincial attitude toward a man who talks in a different tongue. The conversation of Italians heard by chance in the street no longer strikes the ear as gibberish when one has seen and heard Sig. Mussolini delivering an impassioned speech in the same musical sounds. The impression of Germah, as an outlandish assortment of consonants, is mellowed when one has heard a scholarly person speaking it.

SEEING'S BELIEVING.

Doctor [after bringing victim to]—How did you happen to take that poison? Didn't you read the sign on the bottle? It said, "Poison."

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. W. M.

AH, SPRING! SPRING! BEAUTIFUL SPRING!

'Tis almost here. And then to leap into the trusty auto, fill the pocketbook with hard coin for the glorious gas and the yellow oil and yoicks, and away. Yes, away from the smoke and the dust and the grime of the great wicked city into the peace and joy of the countryside. Ah, the glorious countryside, full of giant sign boards advertising chewing gum from contented gum trees and the soap that makes the most hardened and sin stamped countenance like that of the prattling babe of three months and four days. Ah, some more. See how beautiful nature is to the right of us. There is a sign a quarter of a mile long telling us to smoke only Alfalfa cigarettes, and when you get to Way Off Junction, five miles ahead, sleep in safety at the Not-a-Wink hotel; it's never burned down yet.

Ah, some more, for the beauties of nature. How inspiring is the view from the top of this high hill. Looking this way we observe that we should always rub Glubber's glue on the face before shaving. The whiskers jump right off before you can touch 'em with the razor. And down on the other side we see nature some more in her fairest mood. Look, lift up your soul and rejoice in the glorious view you have of Bubby Wubbly, the Spanish hot dog stand where you can get chicken dinners, coffee, pie, gas, free air, and tourists' camping grounds. Heigho, for the wide open spaces, the dim old forest, the grassy bank, the flowered vale, the place where the wild thyme grows. Lykell, lykell, lykell.

LAVENDER LEGEND.

There is a lavender legend
In a bit of lavender lace;
I muse at the charming story
That I've learned so well to trace. . . .

A girl in a lavender cottage
Where a lavender breeze has its will
To carry the breath of lilacs
Cross a lavender window-sill;

A chimney-seat where a lavender nook
Fits into a lavender scheme,
And a hook rug by the fireplace
To complete a lavender dream. . . .

Legends are said to be idle thoughts
Of things that never take place,
But somehow I feel that this one's real:
A legend in lavender lace!

COLORADO PETE.

WE'D HATE to be Alex Legge, the former chairman of the farm board, or any of the present members of the board right now, since wheat has taken such an awful nose dive. If there's anything that makes us mad it's to have everybody coming up to us and saying, "I told you so." Even old Art Brisbane pulled that yesterday. Gosh! That would make us maddest of all!

A CHICAGO MAN in a cross bill contesting his wife's suit for divorce claimed the lady had been guilty of cruelty to him, inasmuch as she had worn overalls to the breakfast table. We fear sometimes that men are going to lose out in this struggle with women for supremacy. They are continually revealing that they have no sense of humor.

"THE APOSTLE PAUL, the prince of Wales, and Charles A. Lindbergh were described as advertising men of the first rank by Grover Whalen, New York's official greeter."—The Trib. This, naturally, was at a dinner for advertising men. If Grover had spoken at an undertakers' dinner, St. Paul, the prince of Wales, and Col. Lindbergh would have been described as eminent undertakers. That probably would have been all right, but suppose Grover were to address the annual meeting of the Affiliated Dog Catchers' association? Very likely St. Paul, Edward David, and Charlie would all get a little peeved.

"A HORSE," says Gov. Roland Hartley in a message to the Washington state senate, "might make a jackass out of itself as did certain members of the present state senate." The governor is growing a bit sarcastic. We wait with interest until he gets really angry.

REAPPORTIONMENT for Illinois was beaten in the legislature yesterday. Chicago is entitled under the new census to 7 more state senators and 21 additional representatives, but the downstate folks won't let us have 'em. All right! Aux armes! Aux armes! We've got to secede, that's all, and organize the forty-ninth state in this glorious union. The proud state of Cook. No, let's call it Dearborn! But, anyhow, we've got to walk out of Illinois and leave it flat on its back. Aux armes! Aux armes! Let us fire on Fort Sumter immediately.

THE WEALTH of this country, according to the figures of the industrial board, is $361,800,000,000, or about $2,977 for every man, woman, and child. And yet we've seen small children toddling around lately that didn't seem to have their $2,977 with them. Or maybe they spent it all for candy. $2,977 is a good deal of money for a child to carry around.

LAGNIAPPE.

AND NOW Mr. Dreiser says he was asked to write the story of "Arrowsmith" before Sinclair Lewis did it. Which keeps both of them on the front page. (Gen-tul-mun-ly ush-urs will now pass a-mong yuh selling the books of these two just-lee famous o-thors. Re-mem-ber, la-dees an' gen-tul-mun, if yuh don't buy a lot of their books they will keep a-fite-in an' pet-ting more free ad-vur-tis-in', an' the sooner yuh buy the sooner they'll shut up! Do it now!)

ALL IS PEACE, quiet, and harmony in India. Three mutineers were hanged yesterday by the British in Lahore, but it was all done in good part, with no hard feeling and everybody happy. (Will Mr. Gandhi please write?)

TOUCHING UP THE FACE.

So many fair ladies are taking a wallop at me for a recent article on powdering the nose that I want another day in court. Something can be said for the practice and I failed to say it. And then I want to strengthen the case against it.

If a woman will dust some powder on her face without doing any rubbing, and then examine closely with a mirror, she will be able to make out what are called pores. If she can get hold of a magnifying mirror, and will study the reflection of her nose, she will see that the powder appears to be stippled. Each little hummock is the opening of a gland. These glands are of two kinds, sweat glands and grease glands. Those on the nose are almost exclusively grease glands. A dog's nose may be a sweating organ, but that of a young lady is not. It is a grease producer. That's why slick nose is so troublesome and slick nose is the reason for the powder rag.

The grease in these glands is almost fluid enough to run out without help. Massaging and all other rubbing helps to squeeze out the contents of the grease gland. It therefore aids in preventing blackheads, pimples, acne, and boils. That was the kind word I wanted to say for the practice of powdering the nose. Having said it, I would like to strengthen the case of the opposition somewhat.

It is possible for a person to become sensitized to face powder. Even ordinarily harmless ingredients of such powders have been known to cause attacks of asthma and one form of hay fever. Some powders contain harmful ingredients. Some are composed of poisonous minerals, not toxic to all people, but too near the danger line for promiscuous use. In some the base powder is unobjectionable, but the pigment used for coloring is dangerous. This applies fairly frequently to lip sticks and eyebrow applications and only rarely to powders.

And, finally, I should like to restate a point. It is not the best policy to cover up the opening of the grease glands with a powder. It is just the powder ingredients of dirt and soot which get into the outer part of a mass of grease in a grease gland and color and dry it to make it a blackhead, with a black, dirty, dry, hard tip or head.

TREATING A BUNION.

Miss A. D. writes: I had two bunions about three years ago and cured myself. I got them from small shoes.

To begin the cure I bought a pair of shoes just a half size longer and a half size wider. Then I bought a 25c roll of adhesive plaster, 1 inch wide, and bound it around the foot, covering the sore area twice. I left this on until it wore off and then replaced it with a new one. This I kept on for one year, and gradually the soreness left. Next the swelling disappeared, and after that the bone finally went into shape. My feet are in perfect condition now and have been for a year and a half. In closing, let me tell you that mine were so severe I could hardly walk.

REPLY.

I am sure your method will cure some cases.

LOCATE THE CAUSE FIRST.

Mrs. T. J. D. writes: My little granddaughter is almost seven years of age and weighs only 31 pounds. Her mother has had the family physician look her over more than once and prescribe a diet for her, but nothing seems to avail. Her mother is almost distracted over her condition. She runs a temperature a big part of the time. What would you suggest is the trouble and the remedy?

REPLY.

Something must be badly wrong to cause such underweight and fever. Has she been examined for tuberculosis, prellitis, and other infections? Is there acidosis? Is there evidence of cretinism? The first step towards treatment is to locate the cause.

RINGWORM.

C. F. K. writes: Please tell me what to do for ringworm on a child's neck.

REPLY.

The customary treatment for ringworm on hairless skin is to paint with iodine for three days and follow this with sulphur ointment. Some other irritating germicide might take the place of iodine.

This method will not cure ringworm on hairy skin.

BAD BREATH.

M. M. H. writes:

1. How can I overcome a bad breath?
2. How can I tell when it is bad?

REPLY.

1. Properly changing the diet is the best and surest cure. Some cases are cured by care of the teeth; some, of the tonsils. The nose causes of some cases are difficult to remove.
2. You must depend on your loving friends.

LIABLE FOR RENT.

Chicago, March 17.—[Legal Friend of the people.]—I signed a lease on a third floor apartment in October, 1929. In August, 1930, I moved to a first floor apartment in the same apartment building, but a different address and entrance, agreeing with the renting agent to pay the increased rent after Oct. 1, 1930, and until the old lease was up to pay rent on the third floor apartment only. The agent gave me a lease which I have not signed, although I have paid the rent on the new apartment since Oct. 1, 1930. Am I responsible for the rent till Oct. 1, 1931?

G. W. B.

Yes. Since the term covered by the new arrangement was less than one year, it could be validly handled without a writing.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

TO ARREST SHERIFF.

Chicago, March 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please give us information on the following: 1. Can any officer armed with the proper warrant arrest the sheriff of the county? 2. Or must same be done by the coroner?

H. S.

1. Yes, the coroner.
2. Yes.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

THE PAUPER ACT.

Chicago, March 18.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a widow working for $15 a week. I have two children to support and also an aged mother who is also a widow. Must I support my mother and also pay her expenses because she is staying with me? I have two brothers and three sisters, all married. Can I make them pay? S. S.

Our pauper act requires near relatives to contribute according to their means to the support of destitute persons, except that married women are not required to contribute unless they have independent means. Apply to the bureau of public welfare in the county building.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WHEN YOU'RE BANKRUPT.

Chicago, March 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When a firm is declared bankrupt does the court include everything in the store, including personal belongings, or just those items that actually belong to the company?

P. F. R.

All assets belonging to the bankrupt firm are set aside primarily for creditors after allowing possible exemptions. Assets not belonging to the bankrupt are not included. Your question is not clear.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 25, 1915.

GENEVA.—The Austrian government admits, Vienna dispatches say, that its losses by the surrender of Przemysl were six generals, 2,500 other officers and 70,000 men. The Austrians claim most of the guns of the fortress were rendered useless and the ammunition destroyed. It is estimated that the fall of Przemysl will permit a Russian army of 180,000 men to take part in other operations.

LONDON.—An immense Russian drive into Hungary which the czar plans to be a vital blow at Austria is under way. One of the greatest battles of the present war is being fought out in the Carpathian mountains. The Austro-German forces are offering desperate resistance to the Russian attempt to break through the mountain passes. Petrograd, Vienna and Berlin dispatches tell of the renewal of fierce fighting all along the front in Silesia.

PARIS.—Continued gains of the allies in the Vosges mountains and progress by the Belgians along the Yser are reported in the official war statement, which says that the Germans attempted two attacks on Notre Dame de Lorette, north of Arras, and suffered a complete defeat. An Athens dispatch says that bombardment of the Turkish fortifications in the Dardanelles was resumed by the allied fleet, which was preceded into the straits by a number of mine sweepers.

CHICAGO.—Marguerite Ives Dilg McLaughlin, whose marriage to Edward T. McLaughlin of New York was annulled on March 23 by Judge Denis Sullivan, celebrated the 12th anniversary of her marriage to Will H. Dilg of the Will H. Dilg Advertising company by again becoming Mrs. Dilg. The ceremony was performed by Judge John R. Newcomer and the Dilgs assured him that the marriage is "for keeps" this time. They were divorced in March, 1914.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MARCH 25, 1901.

LONDON. — A Japanese squadron under command of Admiral Tsushima has sailed for the Corean coast. Relations between Japan and Russia are nearing the breaking point and the movement of the squadron is regarded as significant. The minister of war has ordered all commanders of the Japanese forts to assemble at Tokio for a council of war. Meanwhile the Russo-China treaty is expected to be signed at St. Petersburg tomorrow. Its terms are kept secret.

CHICAGO.—The commission of experts appointed to devise ways for increasing the flow of water through the drainage canal without injuring the navigability of the Chicago river gave out its report. Two plans are offered, one of which will involve the expenditure of $22,862,879 and the other $12,701,755. The first is referred to as the radical plan and involves the widening and deepening of the river from its mouth to the opening of the canal. The second, known as the moderate plan, is to build a canal from the lake to the river in 16th street and deepen and widen the river from 17th street to the canal.

NEW YORK.—An extraordinary fire swept through the streets of the village of Glen Gardner, N. J., reducing eleven buildings, stores and residences to ashes. A freight train descending the slope leading into the city, composed of a string of cars and oil tanks, became parted. The engineer opened his throttle in order to keep ahead of the string of cars to the rear, and when near the depot at Glen Gardner the runaway section caught up with the rear end of the front section. The impact caused an explosion which in turn ignited the oil tanks, and a stream of blazing oil flowed through the main street of the town, reducing everything in its path to ruins.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

LANSING, Mich.—Next Wednesday afternoon the question of submitting to the people at the spring election the women suffrage question will be made the special order.

NICE, France.—Fifty-nine bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the Italian Opera house, destroyed by fire last night. The fire commenced soon after the curtain had risen for the performance of "Lucia di Lammermoor." Shortly after the fire began the gas exploded and the house was plunged into complete darkness.

BRISTOL, Va.—For some time past, the vicinity of Middleton's stillhouse, on the Virginia and Tennessee line, has been the scene of many deeds of daring on the part of a gang of moonshiners, well organized, numbering twenty, all well armed and desperate. Repeated attempts have been made to break them up but without avail, as they are well fortified in an isolated and almost impregnable ravine in the mountains.

CHICAGO.—Mayor Harrison's special pet and favorite sanitary inspector, Edward Dawson, was again called up into the Criminal court yesterday to answer a charge of forgery.

CHICAGO.—Private telegrams received here from Kankakee announced that Mark Beaubien was in a dying condition, the result of enlargement of the liver. Mr. Beaubien was one of the most interesting of the old settlers of Chicago.

AMERICAN NAMES.

Chicago, March 21.—All my ancestral lines on both sides reaching back in this country to the sixteen hundreds, I feel I am adequately qualified to make the following remarks: One of the reasons advanced by his opponents why Mr. Cermak should not be elected refers to his name and nationality. As a true American—as far as any white man can be—I heartily protest against this attack. It is an affront to the thousands of good citizens of recent European extraction who have made good here in the land of their parents' or grandparents' adoption.

What does a man's name signify provided he has proved himself a reputable, clean, honest and efficient addition to the population? Cannot a Czech, a Slav, a Pole, a German or one of any other European nation make as valuable an official, municipal or national, as one who is descended from early settlers of th country? Such an absurd stand is unfair, undignified, and unconstitutional. The constitution opens the way for public advancement to any man born in this country, irrespective of his national descent. He is no more responsible for his name than he is for the color of his eyes or hair or the shape of his nose. He is responsible for his actions. Let us turn from such absurdities and trivialities as these, play fair, and give a man his just worth as proved by his record of achievements. A Republican all my life, I shall vote for Mr. Cermak for what I believe him to be—an earnest and able citizen of our municipality.

NEWMAN DORLAND.

A BARKING DOG.

Chicago, March 23.—Last night my friend and I walked down Marianna street, west, and as we approached Ward street a full sized police dog came running out of an open doorway, growling and snapping at us. We were afraid to continue, as one move more and we would surely have been seriously bitten by this vicious animal. We stood there, calling at the top of our voices, "Get this dog away," in doing so hoping to attract the attention of the owners, but no one came to our assistance. The dog, being puzzled on account of our not running away, went back into the house, giving us a chance to retreat very gingerly in a backward direction.

My friend and myself both have to work for a living, and I wonder now what compensation we would have received had this animal bitten us.

Being of the law-abiding class, neither of us carried pistols, and I would like to meet the man who can handle one of these brutes with bare hands, as it would be instructive to know how he does it. Suppose a child had passed there at the time, what then?

Will some reader who understands dogs tell me how he would act under the circumstances? Also, can any one tell me a good reason for the existence of such dangerous dogs in a city so densely populated?

SMOKING ON TRAINS.

Champaign, Ill., March 21.—One used to travel with some degree of comfort, but not so these days, when everything seems to be turned over to youth. A few days ago I was on an Illinois Central train, going from Champaign to Chicago, and was much surprised and disgusted to see young men and women smoking in the coach. If women must smoke, why shouldn't they go to the smoker the same as men used to?

One woman on this particular train was going to Chicago to consult a doctor. The smoke made her cough, but did any one care? No.

I am a good traveler, but before I reached Chicago I, too, had a sick headache. I do not object to people smoking, but I certainly do object to it on the trains.

SAWED-OFF SHOTGUNS.

Chicago, March 18.—Why not have a law against the possession of a sawed-off shotgun? There is only one use it can be put to.

W. E. JENKINS.

CAT AND PIGEON LICENSES.

Chicago, March 21.—In fairness to the thousands of dog owners in Chicago who pay a license for the privilege of the companionship of man's best friend, the city council should pass an ordinance to tax cats and pigeons, both of which are a much greater nuisance than canines.

NEW ENGLAND MEMORIES.

Chicago, March 21.—I wish they would quit all this talk about Golden Russets. It lacks terminal facilities, and besides it makes me realize the passage of years. Fifty years ago we used to keep our Golden Russets, back in New England, until Fast day—the spring day of Puritan fast and prayer for good crops, corresponding to or balancing Thanksgiving day in the fall. To us youngsters the opening of the barrels of Golden Russets was the one redeeming feature of that long faced, holy day. On that night we all sat around the open fire and ate Golden Russets while father read from the Bible. I remember one time when father read from a book of poems by Holland where the Golden Russet is immortalized. After that, candles, bedtime and dreams. I sometimes wonder whether fifty years from now the boys and girls of today will have any memories half as sweet as these.

MEMORIES.

THE MAKING OF A WRITING MAN.

Springfield, Ill., March 21.—Irvin Cobb himself, personally, may not know that perhaps one reason for his great success as a writer is the fact that his mother fed him, while growing up, plenty of apples fresh from the orchards, including plenty of Golden Russets from my father's orchards, fourteen miles south of Cobb's native city of Paducah, Ky., the metropolis of "Jackson's purchase," in Kentucky. Our orchards flooded that city with apples during Cobb's boyhood days, and when I left the country home as a boy in the late '90s those stately Russet trees were still bearing great golden apples with rusty coats and most delicious yellow meat.

My father owned and operated Cedar Hill nursery and, as I remember, two of his specials were the Winesap and Golden Russet. His trees found their way into orchards in west Kentucky and Tennessee, north Mississippi, northeast Arkansas, southeast Missouri, southern Illinois, and even as far away as Wisconsin.

I have had about the same experience and interest as my friends C. E. G. and A. L. B. I found some a short time ago and they were the same never-to-be-forgotten delicious Golden Russets.

J. D. E. BOAS.

IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, March 21.—There were many Golden Russet apple trees in the orchard of my grandfather, John Gray, at Milwaukee avenue and Addison street. The orchard was cut down when the old homestead was sold to the city as a site for the Carl Schurz High school.

GEORGE C. HOWLAND,
Department of General Literature, University of Chicago.

SOME LEFT.

Chicago, March 21. — The good old Golden Russet seems to be rapidly disappearing, but each year a very limited amount are received by the Door County Fruit Growers' union of Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

W. E. TUPTS.

AN OFFER.

Batavia, Ill., March 23.—The Golden Russet apples grow here on the Frank Streje farm, two miles west of Batavia, Ill., 38 miles from the loop. Late in September they turn a golden brown. My boys call them sun kissed. If C. E. G. has not eaten them for fifteen years he may drive out and eat as many as he pleases.

A. STERIC.

THE TAX POSTPONEMENT.

Chicago, March 13.—Read with amazement of Mr. Cermak's plan to give the property owners ten years to pay the 1930 tax. People who have been paying the high rents these years certainly have a right to protest. Nobody would be against the small home owner getting assistance to make up back payments, but surely our city council would be against such an unjust plan to further increase the debt of our city.

S. C. S.

TEMPERANCE.

FREDERICTON, N. B., March 19.—There is much misunderstanding about the word temperance. It does not imply abstention nor prohibition, nor does it pertain only to liquor. Intemperance means excess and is applicable to eating, drinking, smoking, exercise, recreation, amusement, and activities in general.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

This is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative, safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant relief from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

GUNS RULE INDIA AS THREE REBELS DIE ON GALLOWS

Thousands in Mourning; Fear Rioting.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KARACHI, March 24.—India was in mourning today. The business of the nation from one end of the land to the other was stopped completely in protest against the execution yesterday at Lahore of Bhagat Singh and his two companions, Rajgura and Sukhdej. The trio had been convicted of assassinating a British police commissioner in 1928 and throwing a bomb into the legislative assembly at New Delhi in 1929.

The swiftness with which the executions, cremations and burials were carried out—it was expected that the hangings would take place this morning—stunned the country, and plenty of police patrolled the city today to see that the people did nothing when they recovered from the initial shock. Strict internal censorship kept the country practically in ignorance of the situation at Lahore.

Planes Hover Over City.

Armed police, accompanied by magistrates, who alone can give the order to fire, were posted on the street corners of Lahore and British regiments in the fortress were held in readiness for action. Military planes hovered over the city, reporting the movements of the crowds.

The police reported tonight that the situation was well in hand, and that the somber, sullen crowd, bareheaded in token of mourning, was being kept on the move in order to avoid mob action.

Kishen Singh, father of the executed young revolutionary, who declined a last visit with his son yesterday because jail officials limited it to immediate relatives, today protested because his son's body was not turned over to him for burial.

Ashes Thrown into River.

Without his knowledge, the British authorities had the bodies cremated, according to Sikh and Hindu rites, within the central jail and tossed the ashes into the Sutlej river, sacred to all Hindus. This course of action, it was explained, was taken to avoid mob outbreaks which were expected if a public funeral were held.

The executions produced sullen bitterness among the thousands of national congress delegates who began to pour into Karachi last night by donkey, train, boat, and ox cart for the 45th annual convention of Mahatma Gandhi's party on Friday.

Hundreds of national tri-colored flags flew at half-staff over the temporary city which has been erected to house the 6,000 delegates, most of whom are arriving here directly from jails. They appear to be an embittered lot, and Bhagat Singh's execution has given powerful impetus to the extremist section of the party to overthrow Gandhi and his truce with the British viceroy and launch the revolution anew.

Urges Truce Be Thrown Out.

Swami Govindanand, addressing 50,000 persons tonight, appealed to the delegates to throw out the truce.

"The souls of Bhagat Singh and his two friends will not rest content unless you do," he said. "Otherwise, you are still keeping faith with a government which makes sweet promises and then, in times of need, breaks them."

Rioting occurred along the route of the New Delhi train which brought Nationalist leaders here today. Angered because Gandhi was not on the train—the holy man delayed his departure 24 hours so as not to arrive at Karachi on the day of the execution—a crowd of 10,000 at Rohri stormed the train last midnight.

Yelling "Long live the revolution and Bhagat Singh," they broke windows in the sleeping car in which Sen Gupta, Bengal national leader, and a group of American newspaper men were riding.

American Is Threatened.

The mob became so threatening to one American riding in the compartment next to Sen Gupta that the leader appeared in his pajamas and pleaded with the crowd to disperse.

"You will not get independence this way," he shouted. The crowd withdrew when another Indian leader assured them that there were Americans on the train.

The congress party convention will begin here on Friday under the presidency of Vallabhai Patel, one of Gandhi's chief lieutenants. The holy man himself, who will arrive tomorrow, will dominate the conference from behind the scenes, as he has since 1920. The principal topics on the agenda are: First, to approve Gandhi's truce with the viceroy; second, to reiterate the congress pledge for "complete independence."

Estate Closed

MISS HAZEL K. WHITE.

The estate of Robert E. Ismond, pioneer Chicago real estate operator, who died in 1911, was closed yesterday when Joseph I. Lisack, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner, turned over a legacy of $45,000 to Miss Kathryn White of Los Angeles. Miss White, 18 years old, a student at the University of California, is a grandniece of Mr. Ismond. Although she was not born until after Mr. Ismond's death, she became entitled to a share in the estate under the laws of heirship. Mr. Ismond, who was at one time president of the Chicago Real Estate board, left an estate valued at $750,000.

BOMB EXPLODES IN SLOPPY JOE'S HAVANA SALOON

HAVANA, March 24.—(AP)—A bomb was exploded during the night in the rear of Sloppy Joe's bar, patronized by Americans. It did slight damage. Less than a fortnight ago robbers held up the saloon, which is one of the most popular in Havana with tourists, and took $1,500 from the till.

Mexican Theater Bombed.

MEXICO CITY, March 24.—(AP)—A bomb exploded in the Goya theater here last night, but beyond blowing a hole in the wall did little damage. Some one left the bomb in an aisle leading to the box seats. Theater employés succeeded in calming spectators, who left the building in an orderly manner.

SECOND CO-ED IN WEEK DISMISSED BY INDIANA U.

Campus Hears Rumors of Fraternity Ban.

Bloomington, Ind., March 24.—[Special.]—The campus of Indiana university seethed with rumors tonight following the announcement today that a second girl student had been asked to leave, following a mysterious and unexplained absence from the university.

Today it was announced that the university student affairs committee had requested Miss Lillian Bornoff, 18, a freshman from Indiana Harbor, to quit the university.

Miss Barnoff is the second Indiana co-ed within a few days to stage a disappearance. Miss Lois Pollock of Oak Park, Ill., was reported missing before she returned to the campus last Wednesday and was dismissed. Miss Barnoff, on the other hand, made a mysterious exit after she was suspended.

Waits for Forgiveness.

Miss Barnoff left Bloomington last night, boarding a bus for Indianapolis. She left a note for Margaret Hougman of Franklin, Ind., her roommate. The note stated in substance that the writer was leaving but was not going home unless her father, Max Barnoff, forgives her.

Because of official investigations of drinking and petting parties at Greek letter society affairs it was forecast here tonight that the annual junior prom, just two weeks away, will be the driest since prohibition. Student leaders are frankly apprehensive of the probable presence at the prom of prohibition agents.

Chaperons Fight Shy.

Miss Agnes Wells, dean of women, has a rule that all university functions must be chaperoned by faculty members. So current are the wild party stories, however, that no faculty members would consent to chaperon a dance planned by the Indiana union for March 13, and so the dance was not held.

Following Miss Pollock's disappearance the investigation is said to have included search of the house of a prominent national fraternity. Because liquor is said to have been found in that search the rumor is that the house may soon be padlocked. Two other fraternities are said to fear loss of social privileges for the next two years. At a recent fraternity dance, according to the campus story, seven co-eds, five of them members of one sorority, "passed out."

Taxi drivers are known as unofficial bootleggers for students, it is said. The prevailing price is quoted as $2 a pint for moonshine.

FINED FOR HAVING LIQUOR.

Michael Rizzo, 24 years old, 1048 Cornelia avenue, was fined $100 yesterday in the Town Hall court on a charge of possessing liquor.

CHALLENGE RIGHT OF 9,000 MORE TO VOTE IN MAYORALTY

Chief Clerk John S. Rusch of the board of election commissioners announced last night that between 8,000 and 9,000 suspect notices have been sent out as a result of the recanvass in several wards since the last revision of the poll books on March 14. At that time 52,302 names were erased for the mayoralty election.

The time for filing applications for suspect notices expired last night. During the last few days members of the board have listened to protests made by canvassers sent out by the Democratic managers, who have charged that the poll books bore the names of thousands of persons without the right to vote.

Under the present law, it is necessary for a person filing a protest to have personal knowledge of the voting status of a suspected person and to appear in person at the board offices. This requirement reduced the number of protests.

HERE'S CURE FOR MONTHLY BILLS! A NEW CALENDAR

New York, March 24.—[Special.]—The woe that accompanies that first of the month day when the bills arrive will be concentrated on one day at the beginning of each quarter, if the calendar reform movement outlined today to the American Bar association's committee on commerce by Miss Elizabeth Achelis is adopted.

Miss Achelis, president of the World Calendar association, pointed out other merits of her plan, which would upset our present scheme, based on "the vain arrogance of a Roman emperor."

By dividing the year into quarters of ninety-one days each it would create two new holidays, one of them being Dec. 31, to be known as "Year day," and the other, which would fall between June and July every four years, to be known as "Leap day."

And by encouraging a system of presenting bills on the first day of each quarter the number of harrying duns, if not the intensity, would be lowered to a point that would help preserve the forests now sacrificed to make paper and envelopes for bills, Miss Achelis asserted.

As for the system of dividing the year into thirteen months, as advocated by another proponent of calender reform, A. Cressy Morrison, president of the International Fixed Calendar league, today, that, said Miss Achelis, would be a "ghastly system of monotony."

Mr. Morrison, outlining the merits of the thirteen month idea, countered with the assertion that Miss Achelis' was a "very beautiful poetic conception, but hardly practical."

His system, on the other hand, he pointed out, would eliminate bulky calendars, since one calendar would serve for every month and would simplify bookkeeping.

As evidence he cited the "formidable list of organizations which have indorsed the plan," which has the financial support of George Eastman, camera manufacturer.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MOSCOW, Feb. 21.—[By Mail.]—I wish it were true that the G. P. U. assigned a lynx-eyed detective or two to tail me. It would be a great help when I get lost or don't know which bus or tram line takes me back to the hotel to ask him in a friendly way, "Which car do we take, brother?"

I wish one of the Russian secret service sleuths were with me on trips to show me which track the train is on, and which is my car and to hurl the family of mujiks, who have preempted my seat, out into the corridor.

I even wish sometimes, on these long cold evenings [it's even chilly in a 30 ruble a day room] that one of the beautiful, sloe-eyed, vampire lady detectives that they rave about outside, would rap—by mistake of course—on my door, and then glide in, in sables and ermine, and suggest a bite to eat or a bottle of wine, al fresco.

Task Finding a Censor.

I haven't seen any of that yet, not on my former three months' visit nor so far on this trip. The G. P. U. perhaps is angry with me. They never even open my mail, incoming or outgoing, and Paris advises me daily it receives my copy for relay right on time without a word changed.

The toughest thing about the censorship is finding a censor. All dispatches to get press rates by cable and telegraph must have the censor's stamp affixed. The censor reads the dispatch and sometimes suggests a correction in figures or in the text, but usually is indifferent if the correspondent insists on transmitting his own stuff.

Only on two subjects do the censors show any irritability. They are the references to the high cost of living and the decreased purchasing power of the ruble, and yarns about the wholesale executions by the G. P. U. They have given up trying to curb stories of mass arrests in the dead of night of peaceful law abiding citizens, but they will not stand for car lot shootings by the secret police, without first investigating to find out how true the story is.

Misery Stories Pie for Censor.

All the misery stories are pie for the censor. He stamps them without quivering an eyelid and without comment. There have been enough stories published of starving, freezing populations to have exterminated all the inhabitants by this time—if they were true.

Religious persecution articles they pass without a murmur. Sometimes they suggest that a correspondent visit some of the churches when he presents a story that is too lurid in its details of church desecration and priest baiting.

None of my copy is being censored, and I have only been requested to verify all figures I use, and to confirm, as far as possible all statements I make.

I can go anywhere and see anybody and do anything I want to. The foreign office gives accredited correspondents a press card, with photograph attached, requesting all and sundry, and this applies to all government employés and everybody in this country is a government employé, to help this reporter in the discharge of his duties.

Beside that, the foreign office telephones to the higher-ups and makes appointments for newspapermen to see them in order to avoid delay.

Helps Foreign Correspondents.

The foreign office gives foreign correspondents a book to purchase food, wine and cigarets at the best state shop in town, where the diplomatic corps trades, and also to purchase clothing, shoes, rubbers, furniture, crockery, kitchenware, etc., in the best supplied shop in town.

So all in all, the reporters have no particular kick against the way the foreign office handles them, except for the big squawk about finding a censor at night. Frequently the journalists have to track these officials to their lairs in distant flats and rout them out of bed to slap a sleepy stamp on a dispatch. Fortunately these officials are never without their censor stamp, in marked contra-distinction to some of the members of the press bureau of the A. E. F., who went off to advanced headquarters and forgot their rubber stamps, thus necessitating the war correspondents to plunge through the black night for hundreds of kilometers in order to get back to their base and get their copy forwarded to the cable head.

No Accommodations Chief Kick.

Most of the misunderstandings and friction between soviet authorities and several thousand imported American engineers and specialists is due to congested conditions, and lack of hotel accommodations in this city.

Incoming Americans telegraph from Berlin the date of their arrival to Amtorg, the state concern dealing with all foreigners, and whose agents have signed them up with contracts in the United States. Not speaking a word of the language and entirely ignorant of conditions here, the Yankees expect to be met at the railroad station and taken to a hotel where reservations have been made for them during theft stay in the capital before proceeding to their "location" in the field.

But with the average Russian disregard for comforts and what Americans consider essential requirements, coupled with the shortage of available rooms in the three hotels, the Amtorg invariably fails to heed the announcing telegram and doesn't even bother to send any one to the depot. Usually arriving Americans meet some one on the train from the frontier at Negoreloje who speaks English, German, or French to give them pointers.

Arriving Yanks in Hot Water.

When they don't, and especially if they are accompanied by a wife and perhaps a child, they are in a mighty disagreeable predicament. There are only the baggage porters and the extortionate "isvostchicks" with their little sleighs at the station, and they are likely to cruise around town all day making the bill more formidable.

Finally the newly arrived engineer finds the Amtorg office but no one knows anything about him and no one admits receiving his telegram. They know the futility of bothering to telephone the Savoy, Grand, or Metropole hotels for rooms, but usually they adopt crafty tactics. They ship the newcomer to the Savoy, where he sits in the hall, surrounded by baggage, until at last, in desperation, he braces every Yankee entering the lobby and beseeches him to put him up for the night.

Obviously no American is going to thrust a fellow countryman out in the cold of the bitter winter night in Moscow and they put up the newcomer on a couch or a bed made up on the floor, or what have you.

A favorite proposal of the Amtorg is to invite arriving engineers to sleep in their offices for the two or three nights they are in Moscow before proceeding to their jobs. Americans rebel at such proposals, although often they are finally forced to accept them, sleeping curled up on tables or in armchairs, with no toilet facilities for washing and shaving in the morning and generally with an extremely cold night without covers.

U. S. Commerce Body Helps.

The Russian branch of the American Chamber of Commerce does heroic work in trying to take care of visitors, and stranded engineers who find their way to the offices of Spencer Williams, the local representative of that organization in the Grand hotel, are usually taken care of. Mr. Williams keeps a bed with plenty of blankets and a washstand right in his office behind a screen for the express purpose of taking care of such cases.

Lack of accommodations when they arrive and when they return to Moscow after completing their jobs or go out on vacation is what embitters the engineers particularly against the régime. They are forced to lay over here from a day to a week, while the Amtorg tries to get them reservations on trains going east, west, north, or south. Owing to the congested travel conditions, it takes an average of four days to reserve places on any railway, and that does not mean sleeping cars, but places in "soft" cars.

Amtorg officials cannot appreciate the importance of this angle of the situation, as the average Russian engineer or other skilled technicians, through life long experience, makes no particular complaint about sleeping in an office or a hotel lobby or behind a door, or under a stair, or in a railway station, even for several days. As long as it is a sheltered spot, in out of the cold, that is sufficient.

NURSE FOUND SLAIN, POLICE HUNT SON OF BAY STATE LEGISLATOR

Tiverton, R. I., March 24.—(AP)—Verna Russell, 20, student nurse, her face bruised and several teeth missing, was found dead early today on a lane off the main highway to Fall River. The exact cause of her death was undetermined pending a medical examiner's report.

Pursuing the theory that the girl, a pupil of the Truesdale hospital training school of Fall River, had been slain, police are searching for Elliot R. Hathaway, 32, of Fall River. Police were told he was her companion on an automobile ride last night.

Hathaway, the son of State Representative Louis E. Hathaway of Fall River, disappeared after telling a friend, Vernon V. Galvin, of a holdup in which, he said, the girl was struck and he ordered to "beat it."

THE MAN WITH THE "HAIR-TRIGGER" TEMPER

He was irritable at the office, and grouchy at home. His enemies increased, his friends became fewer. Then one day his doctor told him the truth. He had been handicapped by constipation for years. It had brought headaches and constantly irritating ills to make him "touchy." It had stolen his energy and good nature.

His doctor suggested eating Kellogg's All-Bran regularly. And in a few days he was a changed man, cheery, ambitious—and on the road to success and happiness.

Constipation is so unnecessary. It can be overcome so easily, so pleasantly by eating delicious Kellogg's All-Bran: a delightful, ready-to-eat cereal.

Two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's All-Bran daily are guaranteed to prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In stubborn cases, serve All-Bran with each meal.

Use this natural method and avoid the dangers of habit-forming pills and drugs. All-Bran also supplies iron, which builds up the blood.

Serve All-Bran with milk or cream, with fruits or honey added. Delicious when combined with canned peaches. Use in cooking too. Sold by all grocers in the familiar red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

It's a small matter where you meet up with Chesterfield. The point is—get acquainted! You'll find the change to Chesterfield a real change... one which your palate will thank you for! Chesterfield uses choicer and milder tobaccos—nothing else; and so blends and "cross-blends" them that you get just what you want in a smoke . . . greater mildness and better taste.

They Satisfy —that's Why!

For nineteen years, our Research Department has kept intimate touch with every new development of Science that could be applied to the manufacture of cigarettes. During this period there has been no development of tested value or importance to the smoker which we have not incorporated into the making of Chesterfield cigarettes.

BLOCK $200,000 PAYMENT BY CITY FOR BRIDGE WORK

Attorneys Give Warning on Extra Cost Work.

City Controller Charles S. Peterson disclosed yesterday that he has been advised by counsel not to permit payment by the city of the disputed $200,000 bill of the Ketler-Elliott company for excavation work in connection with the Wabash avenue bridge project.

Mr. Peterson, it was learned, was warned by his attorneys that it might involve him in legal difficulties if he paid the money out of the city treasury.

The disclosure of the controller's position reopened at the city hall the discussion of charges brought against Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe in connection with the letting of the contract. Ald. Arthur F. Albert [43d] brought about a council investigation of the matter.

Engineers Make Report.

Wolfe recently sent Peterson a copy of a report made to him by two engineers, Rufus L. Putnam and Alonzo J. Hammond, approving some of the technicalities of the bridge contract. Asked yesterday what he planned to do in response to the report, the controller revealed that he had already received an opinion from his attorneys.

"All I can say is that I have received the report and that I have been advised by counsel not to make the payment as requested," Mr. Peterson stated. He decline to discuss the matter further.

Lower Bid Rejected.

Commissioner Wolfe gave the bridge contract to the Ketler-Elliott company at its price of $529,929. He rejected the bid of the E. J. Albrecht company, which offered to do the job for $514,120. The commissioner accepted the Ketler-Elliott bid of $10 a cubic foot for sinking caissons below a depth of 75 feet and rejected the Albrecht company's bid of $2 a cubic foot for the same work, with the result that the city has been made liable for a claim of $150,000 to $200,000 in extra costs.

Arrest Baker on Perjury Charge; Employe Fined

Charles J. Fernstrom, owner of a bakery at 3212 North Clark street, was arrested by the Evanston police yesterday on charges of perjury and subornation of perjury. Fernstrom was involved in an automobile accident in Evanston and five witnesses testified that he was riding alone and had run through a stop light. Edward Anderson, 905 Belmont avenue, an employé of Fernstrom, testified at the first hearing that he was in the car and that Fernstrom did not drive through the light. Anderson said yesterday that he had falsified so that he could keep his job with the baker. He was fined $200.

BOY, 16 YEARS OLD, HELD AS BURGLAR, ADMITS SLAYING TWO

St. Joseph, Mo., March 24.—(AP)—A 16 year old high school boy, Michael Burke, already charged with a hundred St. Joseph burglaries, confessed today, county authorities announced, to the slaying of John Brown, a former peace officer, and John Fisher, Armour Packing company employé.

Brown was shot to death at his home last Dec. 29. He had been shot, authorities said, at the time, by a man who "beat him to the draw." Fisher was shot in an attempted holdup last January as he alighted from a street car with Miss Minnie Wende.

The youth also was quoted by Frank Kirtley, prosecutor, as having confessed today the wounding of Harry Rash, Savannah, Mo., restaurateur, the night Brown was killed. The prosecutor said the three shootings took place in the course of attempted holdups.

Young Burke is a high school freshman and the son of Edward C. Burke, St. Joseph attorney. He was arrested last Friday night as police found him burglarizing the home of Emmet J. Crouse, state senator.

For three hours Saturday he was questioned by his father who announced his intention of "turning the light" upon the boy's crime career.

A sanity hearing may be arranged.

FORM NATIONAL BUREAU TO LEAD FIGHT ON CRIME

An organization to fight lawlessness on a nation-wide scale and to weaken the national affiliation of criminals was formed yesterday by prosecuting attorneys from metropolitan centers throughout the United States.

The new organization is to be known as the National Prosecuting Attorneys' association, and its first president is State's Attorney Swanson of Cook county. Mr. Swanson was unanimously elected at the closing session of the prosecutors at the Palmer house.

Invite All Prosecutors in U. S.

State's attorneys and assistant prosecutors from every county in the country will be enlisted to aid in the fight against crime directed by Mr. Swanson and three vice presidents elected geographically to lead the work of the association. These other prosecutors are Buron Fitts, district attorney of Los Angeles; Eugene Stanley of New Orleans and Joseph L. Smith of Newark, N. J.

To gather information and carry on the work against nationalized crime, committees were selected to carry out the following program: Organization of a union of state bureaus of criminal identification and development of a national clearing house for information at Washington; enactment of legislation for uniform laws for the proper administration of criminal justice and the perfection of a liaison system between prosecutors for all states.

Bare Links in Crime System.

"The criminal and anti-social elements have adopted and taken advantage of every modern method and their organizations have kept pace with modern business," the committee on liaison reported. "The organizations and ramifications of crime extend from coast to coast. Crime is financed with a lavishness that not only enables criminals to operate with the utmost efficiency, but to menace every law enforcing agency by its corrupt influences."

Hebert R. O'Conor, state's attorney for the city of Baltimore, a late arrival at the conference, spoke at the evening session. Baltimore, he said, has had little trouble with crime under prohibtion, a fact he attributed in a large measure to the absence of a state enforcement act in Maryland.

Court Dockets Are Clean.

"Our police are not obligated to enforce the prohibtion law and are therefore able to devote their entire attention to crime. The result is that our dockets are not cluttered with prohibition cases. Today we have only 150 untried cases on our books."

During the afternoon the prosecutors and their wives visited the Criminal Court building.

Too much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine, prescribed by doctors for conditions due to excess acid. It is always a liquid; it cannot be made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' and the word genuine in red.

COFFEE ROASTED IN BULK LACKS THAT RICH, FRAGRANT FLAVOR WHICH IS ALWAYS PRODUCED BY HILLS BROS' PATENTED, CONTINUOUS PROCESS . . . CONTROLLED ROASTING

OF ALL THE foods and delicacies that come to your table, there are few that can inspire your taste like Hills Bros. Coffee. Every sip abounds in fragrant, savory, full-bodied goodness such as you will never find in any other brand.

It's the way Hills Bros. Coffee is roasted that makes it such a joy to drink. Instead of roasting their blend in bulk, Hills Bros. roast only a few pounds at a time. By exact control of heat, every berry is roasted evenly—to that degree where all of the flavor nature gave it is developed to perfection. How different from the bulk-roasting method in which exact flavor-control is impossible!

As fast as Hills Bros. Coffee is roasted and ground, it is packed in vacuum cans that keep it always fresh. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out and kept out of the vacuum can. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh.

Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

APPEAL TO TEST WIFE'S RIGHT TO AVOID CHILDREN

Preferred Pay Envelope to Babies.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 24.—[Special.]—The right of a wife to refuse to bear children soon is to be argued in this state's highest court. The Kahn baby case, which created wide discussion in the lower courts, reached the Court of Appeals at Albany today on a motion by the husband, Alfred A. Kahn, Brooklyn youth, petitioning a final answer to his desire for fatherhood. The issue of companionate marriage also is at stake.

The Court of Appeals is expected to rule on the case within a week. Twice in New York City the courts have ruled in favor of Mrs. Marion Kahn, 23 year old Brooklyn typist who did not choose to be a mother. Supreme Court Justice Edward J. Byrne made the original ruling last fall when he decided a wife did not have to bear children unless she wanted to and thereupon denied a motion for annulment of the marriage to the husband, Alfred.

Motherhood vs. Her Job.

Justice Byrne made no comment in denying the husband's plea for his freedom, and, likewise, the Appellate division handed down no supplementary opinion in upholding the lower court's action.

The story of the Kahns and the thwarthing of the stork as told in the courtrooms reveals a youth eager to become a father and a young wife equally eager to keep her job and $33 a week pay envelope.

Young Kahn, who is the son of a well-to-do family in Brooklyn, swears that before his marriage to Marion a year ago, he had stipulated she must give to him at least one child, and that she agreed to do so. After the marriage, Kahn says, Marion refused to live up to her agreement.

The pretty Brooklyn typewriter tapper, since the beginning of the domestic tiff, has based her arguments on her pay envelope.

Earned More Than Husband.

"I love children," insisted Marion, "but Alfred was earning only $25 a week when we were married. And I was and still am a stenographer earning $33 a week. Our combined earnings, $58, were enough for the two of us. But if I were to become a mother I could not retain my job, and instead of two of us living on $58 a week three of us would have to live on $25. I do not believe that old adage that two can live as cheaply as one, and anyhow, I never knew anybody to assert that three can live cheaper than two."

The lower courts accepted Marion's dollar and cent additions in preference to Alfred's ambition for an addition to the family, Justice Byrne, however, explaining later that "the sole point decided was that the complaint as drawn failed to state a cause of action, as the plaintiff lived with his wife with full knowledge that she had refused to bear him children."

Kahn, in a brief, replied that he "never had lived with Marion after she told me she would not become a mother." He further stated that his wife had threatened to "take measures to prevent the baby's birth."

Arguments for Appeal Court.

The following questions will be argued by attorneys for Kahn before the Court of Appeals:

"Is a representation before marriage of a spouse that she will endeavor to bear children a vital element of the marriage contract?

"Is the fact that a woman, physically able to bear children, has resorted to means of preventing motherhood, for economic or other personal reasons, contrary to the public interest of this state?

"And does the fact that a woman physically able to bear children, who agreed as a condition of marriage that she would bear children, but has resorted to means of preventing motherhood, constitute a fraud upon her spouse for which an action for annulment will lie?"

10 Liners Limp Into Port After Collisions in Fog

HAMBURG, Germany, March 24.—(AP)—Ten severely damaged ocean-going steamers limped into port today after collisions in the fog in the Elbe yesterday. The latest casualty reported was the ramming of the Danish motorship Peru by the British ship Hepburn. The Peru was badly damaged. The North German Lloyd liner Bremen docked safely today for overhauling.

OFFICIALS NAMED IN CONSOLIDATED TRANSIT SYSTEM

Plans for the reorganization of the local transportation system which involve the merger of the surface and elevated lines will formally go into operation within the next few days, according to an announcement made yesterday by the reorganization managers.

It became known at the same time that Charles F. Clarke, vice president of Halsey, Stuart & Co., which is handling the financial arrangements for the merger, has been selected as president of the consolidated company known as the Chicago Local Transportation company. Other officers are E. T. Cunningham, vice president, and Phelps Kelley, secretary and treasurer. Both are officials of Halsey, Stuart & Co.

Although no official statement was made, it is understood that the three officers will remain in charge of the company until it has been placed upon an operating basis and will then turn its management over to the officials of the present local transportation companies.

Mr. Clarke, with other officials of the Halsey-Stuart concern, has been active in devising the financial plans of the merger which have been approved by members of committees representing the bankers and other security holders. The new president is 37 years old. He has been associated with the Halsey-Stuart financial house since 1917.

The formal announcement that the financial plans are operative has been expected for some time. It was withheld, however, until a large percentage of the securities had been deposited with the committees and the security holders had agreed to take new securities of the reorganized company. More than 80 per cent of the necessary securities now are on deposit. These represent a value of approximately $170,000,000.

The next step in the merger proceedings will take place in the federal court, where the new company will purchase the properties of the several companies comprising the surface lines and also the elevated company property, thus effecting a complete merger.

A Pre-view by Fanny Butcher

"HIS MONKEY WIFE," by John Collier [Appleton], comes to us trailing clouds of glory from England. The same people who thought "Lady Into Fox" one of the major delights of life snapped up "His Monkey Wife" and were gleeful over it—and the same people here will be. Although it is a less delicate phantasy than "Lady Into Fox," and less beautifully written, it has a satire which makes chuckles grow where that charming whim engendered only smiles.

ERNEST HEMINGWAY. [Hero Breaker, Paris]

"His Monkey Wife" opens in Mr. Alfred Fatigay was a schoolmaster to the black natives. He had as pet a chimpanzee whose name was Emily and who, through her love for her master yearned to improve herself so that she might become more of a companion to him. By attending with infinite care his classes and by applying herself with a concentration beyond the young natives she learned to read.

Her master had taken increasing pride and pleasure in her ability to understand the simpler orders which he gave her. He little knew the resources of her mind [the work of her love-filled heart] and he never understood the meaning behind her soulfully obedient gaze. She was about to learn to write when a chance remark of his to the effect that if she got too brilliant she would be sold to the music halls deterred her. For Emily, the music halls were dens of iniquity and vice. She knew they were because her reading had taught her so. She read what she would of her master's library, which consisted of the classics of the Victorian era. Emily's mind was the product of the rare proper of the writers of the period when propriety was a little higher even than the vaunted cleanliness.

In preparation for a trip to England Mr. Fatigay taught Emily the demeanor of a lady. What he intended to do with her when he got her to England she slightly misconstrued. Says the author: "An easy carriage and an upright bearing were now imparted to the chimp and instruction also in the proper method of entering a room, proffering cakes and tea cups, and making a curtsey. So meticulous was the schoolmaster in his training of her in the last respect that poor Emily began to wonder if she was to be presented at court, an idea which she would have haughingly dismissed as presumptuous to the point of absurdity, but for a sentence which she read at about that time which said: 'In England the primate takes precedence of all but royal dukes.'"

When he got her there, after amusing experiences on the boat, where she shared his stateroom and disturbed a lady from the Straits Settlements, who bellowed a shocked "What," when Mr. Fatigay opened surprised eyes at her inquiry about his wife, he gave her to the young lady to whom he was engaged to be married. Emily was a lady's maid until the fatal wedding morning. Then she took affairs into her own hands. What those affairs were it would be unfair to a thriller to disclose. Given this much of Emily if she doesn't allure you to a closer and longer acquaintance her further exploits would neither touch nor thrill you, and if she does beckon you to more intimate inspection of her Victorian charms, her exploits are best encountered in her own inimitable prattiness and light.

"His Monkey Wife" is a terribly funny book, a snappy satire on practically everything! Emily's reflections, as set down by the author, are priceless transcripts of a Victorian purity of mind and soul and literary phrasing. If her speech is confined to inarticulate murmurs which sound slightly grunty, the workings of her mind are all mapped out by her enraptured author. You can just hear him having the most gorgeous time of it setting down an intelligent chimpanzee's reflections of modern life, love, and marriage. And, like all really gay inspiring moments, the author's are communicated to his readers.

The more absurd the situations in the saga of Emily the Chimp, the funnier the book. And Emily's demeanor is not all comic by any means. The world would be—one can hear some late old souls exclaiming—a happier place if there were more Emilys in the world. And not the least of her virtues was her silence!

Those who find the idea too fantastic for their taste and refuse to read it are the losers, for it is brilliantly and subtly written. The tongue in the author's cheek is one from which trips sentences that have briskness and satiric skill.

Read and Poetry Found in Corner Stone.

Yesterday, among other manifestations of the most typically modern American art of the last five years a novel and a volume of poetry were put into the corner stone laid for a new building in New York, Hampshire house. The choice of those two books was made by leading critics of the country. Seven novels were suggested, with Ernest Hemingway's "A Farewell to Arms" in the lead. [We were among those who voted for it.] The volume of poetry was Stephen Vincent Benet's "John Brown's Body." The play chosen was "Strange Interlude," by Eugene O'Neill.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

My dears, Edward Everett Horton always should have worn a beard! Because he's so FUNNY in a beard! I can't just tell you what there is about HIS beard that makes it more comical than most beards—but there you are! It is!

The beard isn't a growth of nature. No. It's composed of synthetic setae and only one-half of him wears it. Meaning—Mr. Horton plays a dual rôle in this here farce, and one of him is clean shaved.

As a Mr. Smith [lawyer], who is extremely business-like by day and, O, so prayful at night! the star keeps you quivering with mirth. He becomes involved in the most peculiar predicaments. Two stunning blondes and an equally stunning brunette contribute to his perpetual embarrassment. Esther Ralston plays Mrs. Smith. Laura La Plante is a Mrs. Somebody Else who comes, at the wrong time, to seek Mr. Smith's aid in getting a divorce. Patsy Ruth Miller is the lawyer's fascinating secretary.

The beset attorney also has a mamma-in-law, portrayed with great enthusiasm by Maude Eburne. Spencer Charters as a butler adds much to the mirth of the occasion. YOUR occasion. Poor Mr. Smith doesn't find it so, funny.

"Lonely Wives" is speedy, audacious, and really quite clever. It's one of the most amusing farces that's popped up this year.

"PARLOR, BEDROOM AND BATH."

Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Directed by Edward Sedgwick.
Presented at the Roosevelt theater.
THE CAST.

Reginald Irving.....Buster Keaton
Polly Hathaway.....Charlotte Greenwood
Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Bell Hop.....Clif Edwards
Angelica Embrey.....Dorothy Christy
Nita Leslie.....Joan Peers
Virginia Embrey.....Sally Eilers
Leila Crofton.....Natalie Moorhead
Detective.....Edward Brophy
Frederick Leslie.....Walter Merrill
Butler.....Sidney Bracy

The unsmiling Buster Keaton and Charlotte Greenwood of the windmill legs and arms cooperate in this one to make you forget your blues. In their efforts they are adeptly and laugh provokingly assisted by a hand picked coterie of players, headed by Reginald Denny, who is, instinctively, a far better comedian than the stone-faced Buster.

This talker is an adaptation of the stage farce, and, as screened, is a lot of fun. The story of the sign tacker who finds himself suddenly in the rôle of a great lover furnished plenty of opportunity for nutty situations and ludicrous lines, and director and cast have made the most of their material.

Audiences at the Roosevelt are loving and howling over "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath."

See you tomorrow!

MODERNIST DESIGNS WORKED IN FLOWERS PRAISED DURING SHOW

Modernism that has set the art and fashion world agog, this week has invaded the world of gardening. To judge from remarks of the throngs visiting the fifth annual flower show of the Garden club of Illinois at the Merchandise Mart yesterday, the new lines may vie successfully with the old fashioned grandmother's type of floral arrangement. The show continues through Friday.

Vases and the flowers they contain, mounted by the garden clubs on a stand and background itself in the modern mode, have rigid if not stately lines. Even the judges, including an horticulturist of world repute, declare the assembly to be one of the best they ever have seen.

Several of the minute reproductions of outdoor gardens, are also reflecting this new note. The black and yellow garden of Franz Lipp, landscape architect, and E. Chassaing, sculptor winner of the Logan prize at the recent Art institute exhibit, has provoked criticism abundantly. Likewise those of the Wheaton Garden club and the Glen Ellyn Garden club.

Yesterday, under the auspices of the Chicago Plant, Flower and Fruit guild, a tea was served following the address of Graham Taylor, Chicago settlement worker. Miss Harriet Vittum of the Northwestern settlement, also spoke of the commendable work of the guild in supplying the sick, poor and tenement sections of the city with flowers and plants during the spring and early summer. Plans were made for the oncoming season by officials of the guild.

Business Women Hold Banquets in Many Cities of America

Two hundred Chicago business girls, members of the Chicago Y. W. C. A., attended their annual banquet last night at the Chicago Woman's club. Simultaneously 60,000 business women were meeting in banquets all over the country.

Mrs. Alexander Meikeljohn, wife of Dr. Meikeljohn of the University of Wisconsin was the principal speaker.

"There are certain things we can build into our daily life to counteract this," Mrs. Meikeljohn said, discussing the mechanization of work and plan. "These are an appreciation of beauty, an attempt to understand the environment in which we live, and to try to get a hold on some kind of religion."

Messages were read from other groups all over the United States and from local and national officers of the Y. W. C. A. Carolyn Houghton presided.

Mellon Buys Stock Farm for His Son

400 Acre Tract to Be Used for Horses.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 24.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon has purchased "Rokeby," a 400 acre race horse farm in the heart of the famous Blue Ridge racing and hunting section, for his son, Paul Mellon, now a student at Cambridge university, England, it became known today.

The farm was purchased by Mr. Mellon from Admiral Cary T. Grayson, President Wilson's physician, and the estate of Samuel E. Ross, both famous as breeders and owners of race horses. It is located near Upperville, in Fauquier county, Va., and is reputed to be one of the oldest and most beautiful estates in the section.

In connection with the purchase of the farm by Mr. Mellon, it was learned that his former wife, Mrs. McMullen Mellon, now in England, is to spend a great deal of time at the place. She is reported to have been greatly interested in the farm, and is coming to this country soon to take possession, with Paul Mellon, during the hunting and polo seasons. Mrs. Mellon is the mother of Paul and of Secretary Mellon's daughter, Mrs. David Bruce.

Friends of Mr. Mellon do not anticipate that he will spend a great deal of time at the estate himself, as he is not a devotee of sport. He formerly did some riding and golf playing, it is said, but at the present time his sole form of exercise is walking.

Rokeby was formerly owned by H. P. Oxnard, "the sugar king," who founded the famouse Blue Ridge stud. and who bred such famous racers as Vulcain, Fayette, and King James. At his death the property was purchased by Admiral Grayson and the late Mr. Ross, from whom Mr. Mellon obtained it yesterday.

On the estate is a large stone country house and ample stables. The house, formerly if a decayed state, was remodeled and enlarged. One of the old country estates in Virginia which survived the civil war, it was once the home of the Loughborough family, prominently known in Virginia and Maryland.

The consideration paid by Secretary Mellon for the estate was unknown today, as the deed to the property had not yet been recorded at Warrenton, Va., the county seat.

Lent Day by Day

THINGS THAT KILL.

Dr. Phillips E. Osgood,
Lenten preacher, Garrick theater.

Jesus was nailed to crossed timbers. The instruments of his trade were the instruments of his death. He was killed by the tools of his occupation.

How many of us is an analagous thing too true; our daily work tends to deaden our vitality of ideals. Many a worker becomes the victim of his work.

Is there some lawyer who loses his passion for justice in his pursuit of legalities?

Is there some physician who loses his eagerness to aid sufferers in the growing technique of dealing with "cases?"

Is there some business man who loses his concept of service to the needs of human society and of humaneness to his staff in the grind of business efficiency?"

Is there some home making woman who loses romance in housekeeping chores?

Does our skill deaden our souls? Are we like the man whose epitaph is said to read: "Born a man: Died a grocer."

Jesus' soul was not nailed to his cross. His body may have been done to death, but his spirit still was free. Very much alive! He had a soul above his carpentering. His trade tools did not clamp his soul to its doom.

Is our soul above our work? That is, is it free of its chores? Does it look down on our honest labor from a vantage point of mastery and freedom? Are we both within and above our routines?

Prayer.

O God, give us strength to lift ourselves above the daily, prosaic routines and techniques, not scorning them, but refusing to allow them to absorb the spirit in us which belongs to thee! May we do our work with all energy and conscientiousness, but may we ourselves be free! For thy purposes and love.

Passion Play Season Brings Oberammergau $1,310,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 24.—Total receipts from the Oberammergau Passion play were $1,310,000. Of that sum nearly $1,200,000 came from the sale of tickets. The balance was from the sale of pictures and books, it was officially announced.

Participants were paid $550,000 for expenditures on buildings, equipment, costumes. Road improvements cost $260,000. Taxes required $40,000 and the sum of $35,000 was handed over to the Oberammergau town fund. This left $425,000 for welfare and cultural projects.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

Mother Cabrini Is Beatified by Catholic Church

Her Founding Hospital Here Is Recalled

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The name of Mother Frances Xavier Cabrini, one of the best loved in Chicago, soon will take on new significance among Roman Catholics of the city. Word was received yesterday from Rome that Mother Cabrini, who died in Chicago in 1917, was approved by the congregation of rites and findings for beatification.

A little more than a year ago, Cardinal Mundelein announced that he had opened process of the cause of Mother Cabrini's beatification. At that time, during the first week of March, 1930, the golden jubilee of the order Missionary Sisters of the Sacred Heart, which Mother Cabrini founded, was celebrated. Formal beatification for the nun will entitle her to official homage of the church, in addition to the widespread regard and affection her 17 years' work in Chicago and her 37 years of world-wide work made secure for her.

In 1900, accompanied by a small group of nuns, Mother Cabrini came to Chicago from the missions of the order at New York. During the period between that time and her death, many institutions of human helpfulness, including the Columbus hospital, Lake View avenue and Deming place, and the Assumption school, 315 Erie street, were founded.

Lodi, Italy, was Mother Cabrini's birthplace. She formed the first order of her Sacred Heart nuns at Codogna in 1880. Her work received the sanction of Pope Leo XIII. and the order spread to all parts of the world. Mother Cabrini was called to Rome in 1887 to the pontifical school.

Two years later she was directed by Pope Leo to come to America in charge of Italian schools. Less than a year after her arrival in New York Mother Cabrini founded the first orphan asylum of the Sacred Heart at West Park, N. Y. As mother general of her order she went to all parts of the world and opened schools, hospitals, asylums, and missions until at the time of her death they numbered sixty-seven.

Following out the duty to look after the poor among the Italian immigrants intrusted to her by Pope Leo, she came to Chicago in 1900. Mother Cabrini discovered a district in this city. She saw children who greeted her in her native tongue plodding barefoot through snow drifts. In the heart of that district, what is now the nurses' home at Lytle and Polk streets became in 1912 the Columbus extension hospital.

Mother Carbrini's plans were for a new 250 bed hospital and construction had begun on the present site at 1200 Gilpin place at the time of her death. The institution was given her name and was dedicated as the Mother Cabrini Memorial hospital.

Beatification means that those to whom the honor is given by the church are worthy of a degree of homage. It is usually a step toward canonization. Official permission is given by the church for the devout to venerate one who is so recognized within restricted localities and with specified liturgical exercise. There is another order of the Sacred Heart, of French origin, devoted exclusively to teaching. Its chief school in this vicinity is an academy at Lake Forest.

Many Counties Add Names of Women to Jury Service Lists

The new law providing for the service of women on juries is being followed by changes of lists in more than two-thirds of the Illinois counties, while more than a third of them have provided or soon will for separate accommodations for women jurors.

The results of a survey were announced yesterday by Mrs. C. P. Fowler of Evanston. She is chairman of the committee on legal status of women, a section of the Illinois League of Women Voters. The league was active in the work of amending the jury law to include women.

Of 91 replies received from questionnaires sent to the 101 county clerks, 72 reported that they either had discarded the old list or made a new one to include the names of women voters, a procedure following the opinion of Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom that all jury lists compiled previous to the amendment of the jury law are invalid.

The survey also revealed that 36 counties already have separate quarters for women or expect to have them, and seven counties have women bailiffs.

THE STAGE

"WHEN FATHER SMILES."

A farce by Sheridan Gibney; given at the Cort theater March 24, 1931, with De Wolf Hopper as star, under the management of George E. Wintz.

Dr. Stone.....Oswald Yorke

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THE Cort theater has returned to active service after a year in the doldrums; it has been cleaned and redecorated in a way that renews its youth, and the ship models in its co-educational smoking room again arouse in the hearts of the city jaded dramatic critics a yearning to sail somewhere east of Suez. The vacant chair on the Rialto from which "Sport" Hermann has been missing since last spring is filled once more, and things are as they used to be at the corner of Randolph and Dearborn streets. Pass the word, comrades—the Cort has gone back into business at pre-war prices.

The play which has brought about this rebirth is a domestic farce of the naïve, unsullied brand in which the Cort has specialized. "When Father Smiles" is its title; De Wolf Hopper—himself in person—is its star; and George Wintz, sponsor of "Jonesy" and the impending "Apron Strings," is the impresario in the case. Mr. Wintz, who can read the signs of the times faster than a clubful of sophisticates, guarantees that there isn't a blush in a carload of his simple-hearted diversions; and the Cort theater, always a soothing shelter of innocence, is an excellent place for his operations.

"When Father Smiles" probably calls itself a comedy because it is remotely related to Molière's "Malade Imaginaire" and doesn't indulge in orgies of door slamming at the act ends. But it's a farce, nevertheless, because it is too preposterous of theme to be anything else. Here is the gist of its antics:

Mr. Hopper, a peppery old father and husband who is constantly shouting that all's wrong with the world, summons a doctor after a violent brainstorm. The verdict: Nothing wrong but the number of his birthdays. But this physician also diagnoses the family's pet Pekingese as likely to die in convulsions if enraged; and Mr. Hopper, overhearing the opinion, thinks that it applies to him.

Complications ensue; Mr. Hopper, his wife, his daughter, and a threatened son-in-law get tangled up in a series of lunatic misunderstandings; and through all this craziness good old De Wolf goes about trying to preserve his life with fake serenity, placidity, and kindness. He counterfeits a smile for choleric emergencies which resembles the expression of one who has bitten into an unripe quince.

The story finally arrives at the classic situation of farce. A committee of alienists examines Mr. Hopper's mind, and, although disagreeing on the diagnosis—one says dementia praecox and the other senility plus wife-phobia—they concur in the opinion that he is fit to be barred up in a padded cell.

It's a mild little play of the neighborhood stock company type. Its laugh power, subnormal for farce, could be increased fifty per cent if its stage director had compelled Mr. Hopper's satellites to clown their rôles vigorously. Farces never click unless all hands regard themselves as serving a sentence in Bedlam.

Mr. Hopper plays his grand old grouch in a blonde wig, a bristle of mustache, and the oratorical manner of his famous recitation. "Casey at the Bat." He seems to feel a slight nostalgia for the song cues of operettas, and also for a few primitive comic situations invented by a resourceful librettist.

There are some other well remembered veterans in the cast—May Buckley, Oswald Yorke, Scott Welsh, and William Roselle. The latter should be gazetted for a neat characterization of an intelligent doctor. Emily Lowry, who appears as the daughter, gets a citation as the prettiest girl of the playgoing week.

To answer all questions before they are asked: De Wolf Hopper will be seventy-two years old next Monday.

Predicts Law for Birth of Babies in Hospitals

Clinton, Ia., March 24.—(AP)—Compulsory use of hospitals for all maternity cases is viewed as a possibility by Dr. Edward Lyman Cornell of Northwestern university. Speaking before the Clinton County Medical association today he said, "It would not surprise me if it were made a misdemeanor for a prospective mother to take a chance on giving birth to a baby at home unless the home could pass a stringent medical inspection."

Earl's Wedding Recalls Great Hope Diamond

But Gem Is Owned by Americans Now.

New York, March 24.—(AP)—The Hope diamond, a symbol of bad luck for more than two hundred years, got back into the news today.

This time it was through no fault of the stone itself. It was only that the earl of Lincoln, Henry Pelham-Clinton-Hope, whose family gave its name to the jewel, last night married Mrs. Jean Banks Gimbernat in New York. The new countess is a granddaughter of the late Roscoe D. Hatch, who was active in the suppression of the Tweed ring.

The Hope diamond is now owned by the Edward B. McLeans of Washington, whose marital difficulties are in court. Almost from the moment it appeared in Paris in 1658, misfortunes of various kinds, many of them admittedly legendary, are reported to have befallen its owners.

The traveler who brought it to Paris boasted that he had stolen it from a Hindu temple. He sold it to Louis XIV, and started the chronology of bad luck when he was torn to pieces by hunting dogs shortly afterward. Since then its history is this:

Louis XIV gave it to his favorite, Mme. de Montespan, and almost immediately she lost favor with him.

Louis XV bestowed it upon a series of his favorites. All encountered minor misfortunes.

Louis XVI gave it to his queen, Marie Antionette. She was executed.

After the execution the stone dropped out of sight for thirty-eight years. It appeared in London in 1830 in the possession of a jeweler who sold it to Thomas Henry Hope, a banker, for $65,000. He gave it to his daughter. She married the sixth earl of Newcastle. It remained in the family, several misfortunes having been popularly ascribed to it, until 1901. In that year it was sold at auction for $165,000. It passed into the possession of Selim Habib, a Turk. He lost his fortune and position and sold it in 1909 to New York jewelers. They in turn sold it to the McLeans.

The diamond weighs forty-four and three-eighths carats and has sixty-four facets. There are several larger diamonds in the world, but experts attach unusual value to it because of its peculiar dark hue.

The present Earl of Lincoln is 28 years old and his bride 25. The ceremony was performed in the bride's home by the Rt. Rev. Arthur W. Brooks, titular Bishop of Sardis and United States administrator of the Apostolic Episcopal church. Ancient eastern rites were followed.

The new Countess of Lincoln is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Banks of New York and New London Conn. She and her first husband Jules R. Gimbernat were divorced in February at Reno, Nev.

Duke of Newcastle Has Faith in His Son's Choice.

LONDON, March 24.—(AP)—Though he has never seen the bride, the duke of Newcastle said today he had given his approval to the marriage in New York of his son, the earl of Lincoln, and Mrs. Jean Banks Gimbernat.

"I have ample faith in my son's choice," the duke said. "He has had six months to think things over and he is a quiet, clever fellow, so I am not worrying."

London papers featured the announcement of the wedding, recalling that the youth not only had distinguished himself as an athlete, but acted last year as a trap drummer in an orchestra at a fashionable west end club.

The Elder Generation Recalls Another Romance.

The generation now in its forties and over has lively memories of the stage successes of May Yohe, born in Pennsylvania, who sang her way around the United States, into the capitals of Europe, and in and out of several romances. She, as the wife of Lord Francis Hope, brother of the then Duke of Newcastle, was possessor of the famous Hope diamond. She had other famous jewels, fine clothes, but she found the British relatives of her husband rather more chilly than she liked.

So that she left him and eloped with Putnam Bradlee Strong in 1902—he got out of the United States army, in which he held a commission—there was a wonderful honeymoon—for a month. Then the former Capt. Strong also resigned his rôle of the husband of the toast of European capitals, and vanished. The cool British husband got a divorce, and the stage again saw May Yohe. She was a favorite of the public in London and in Dublin in musical comedy in 1904. For during her earlier stage career she had been applauded by that expert, Edward VII., king of Great Britain, etc.

Later, in London, pre-war London of 1914, she met and married Capt. John A. Smuts, a cousin of that famous Gen. Jan Smuts who had given the British many bad hours, when the names of President Kruger and President Stein were household words—when the late Gen. John French, later Viscount French of Ypres, was winning his way in the war against the Transvaal republic and the Orange Free State.

Capt. John Smuts served with his cousin, under the British flag, against the Germans in Africa in 1914. Later he passed through Chicago with his bride on their way to France. In 1919 the captain and his wife were in Seattle. The captain was ill and his wife was scrubbing floors, it was declared, so that he might have a doctor.

There was a reappearance of May Yohe in 1931, when a photograph of Edward VII., "To May—1898," was among the things put at auction.

After that the record is slender in regard to May Yohe. The latest number of "Who's Who in the Theater" says that in 1913 she appeared in a revue, "Come Over Here," singing "Honey, Ma Honey." Not so bad, for she was born in 1849.

Heifetz Plays Work of Newer Italian Author

BY EDWARD MOORE.

JASCHA HEIFETZ, he of the magical fingers and golden tone, came to the Chicago Symphony orchestra as soloist yesterday afternoon and brought with him a new violin concerto for his appearance. It is by Mario Castelnuovo-Tedesco, one of the younger Italian group of composers, and it was written about seven years ago, getting its first Chicago performance on this occasion.

It is an extremely able work, full of color and melody and rising at times to an intensity that approaches the dramatic. This is another way of saying that it fits accurately into the scheme of the brilliant virtuoso who played it yesterday. His craftsmanship, his superb but unsentimentalized tone, his glittering execution were never more in evidence.

Dr. Stock and the orchestra presented Glazounow's "Ouverture Solennelle" and the Sixth Symphony by Miaskowsky, that turbulent work which concludes with a series of French revolutionary tunes and the "Dies Irae." Another great performance can be recorded.

A plan is under serious consideration, though as yet without official sanction, to change the Saturday night concerts of the orchestra next season to Thursday nights. Many requests for the change have come in to the management, the general ground being that as Saturday is becoming increasingly popular as a half holiday it becomes increasingly inconvenient to get downtown in the evening for concerts. What is against the plan is the tradition of forty years of Saturday night concerts. The board of trustees is expected to meet shortly to consider pros and cons, with more than a fair chance that the change will be adopted. In this case the "pops" will be changed to Saturday nights.

Leila Bederkhan, who is giving a program of oriental dances at Orchestra hall tonight, comes preceded by the statement that she is a real princess of the Kurds. Her grandfather was the last independent emir of Kurdestan, her father was assassinated, and she herself was brought up in the seething tumult of oriental politics.

Her dances are founded on oriental principles of the art, but stylized for the benefit of western presentation. It is strictly against the customs of her country for such a person as she to appear publicly on the stage, but she has become famous in Europe.

Dr. William Braid White, director of acoustic research of the American Steel and Wire company, will speak on "What Science Says About the Piano" at Lyon & Healy hall tonight. He will be assisted by Rudolph Ganz, pianist; Selma Gogg Hummel, soprano; Josef Rosenstein, violinist, and William Pfeiffer, baritone.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 24.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover, who returned yesterday from the camp on the Rapidan, left tonight for Asheville, N. C., to spend the rest of this week with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover Jr.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson returned today by automobile from Norfolk where they have been visiting since Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Putnam, the latter better known as Amelia Earhart, aviatrix, have spent several days here and were entertained at dinner last evening at the Shoreham with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Collins and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Vidal as hosts.

The Speaker of the House and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth had a large party tonight at the performance of "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model," in the Little theater and gave a supper afterward in their home on Massachusetts avenue.

Flaming Red Nails Are Hardly in the Best Taste

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

What comical sights one sees in a day's travel! There's the Miss, 18 perhaps, sitting across the way in the subway, chewing gum for all she was worth, and wearing a long red chiffon dress, silver buckled shoes at 10 a. m., and the blood reddest finger tips I've ever laid an eye on. They'd just been "redded." One could tell that from the still careful handling when the handbag was opened—to draw out the lip stick, of course. And the self-conscious ungloved hand motions indicated great pride in the red lighted fingers.

The nails in this case were all in the picture. All the girl needed was a backdrop and a tough gal rôle in a rattling melodrama. Only I'm afraid she would be put on the spot in the first act and probably break up the show. I've seen 'em put on the spot for less.

Those flaming red nails have a place, somewhere. I'm not sure whether it's in a comedy or a melodrama. But for everyday working purposes—beauty purposes, I mean—I can't hand them much. Neither can a lot of other people. And from a little story I heard last week about a job applicant, I don't think they are one of the best credentials to flaunt in a possible employer's face. The girl didn't get the job. Perhaps she'd say the man was too fussy to work for, anyway, if she knew the reason why he was prejudiced against her—and perhaps he would be. But there are a lot of such fussy ones in the world. If you must have red nail tips, then let 'em be mildly so, not belligerently, fighting-mad red.

But more to the point. Any of these startling new fandangles call for a type to wear them. No style is applicable to every one alike. It's true of certain kinds of earrings, or of tiers of gaudy bracelets, or of bizarre dress patterns or colors. And of finger nails. Anyway, our best dressed and smartest looking women err on the side of caution in the adoption of "freak" embellishments.

Satin and Lace for New Evening Gowns

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Satin will be one of the smartest fabrics for spring evening wear, and if chosen in pastel colors it will be supersmart. Paris dressmakers have bought thousands of yards of this gleaming stuff in delicate tints to make up into evening gowns and what not for their spring collections, according to the French textile weavers.

Philippe et Gaston, Jean Patou, and Lucien Lelong show many all-satin ensembles for day and evening wear next spring and summer, and Chanel's satin with lace evening clothes have brought a whole multitude of lace trimmed satin dresses into Paris fashions.

Lace trimmings have up to now been largely white, but they're turning ecru for spring, and particularly when they trim satin frocks and ensembles like the Ardanse dinner outfit shown in our sketch, which is one of the prettiest to be found in Paris.

The satin, such as there is of it, is phosphorus blue in color and the Alençon lace is a delicate ecru. The draped bodice is entirely of satin, and so is the upper skirt, though the latter is encrusted with lace motifs. The lower skirt is of lace and reaches to the ankles. The jacket, with its split sleeves, is made of lace and lined and banded with satin. The ankle length of this frock is the correct length for informal evening wear this spring.

Blue satin pumps, made of the same material as the dress, and coral and aquamarine necklace and bracelets complete the ensemble. Contrasting touches in pastel evening frocks are the rage in Paris.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

J. L. P.: A BLEACH FOR THE underarm is made with peroxide and ammonia. Add a few drops of household ammonia to a teaspoonful of peroxide.

G. V.: FAT-FREE CREAMS ARE effective cleansers but do not soften the skin at fatty creams do. They make a good powder base to protect the skin against tanning and burning.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Ask Her the Reason.

"Dear Miss Blake: The girl I love used to tell me that she cared for me and acted as though she did, but lately she has acted so cold and indifferent. Do you think she still cares for me?

"AL."

It doesn't seem so, Al. However, why not ask her the reason for her change of manner.

Stubbornness Is Often Caused by Bad Management

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"How to Gain Obedience," the first of a new series of booklets for parents, will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. This series deals with the various aspects of child behavior directly, not through suggestions for reading.

An inner fundamental quality in a child may be at the root of his stubbornness. But sometimes it is an entirely external thing which makes a child sprout this distracting kind of behavior.

One person who mismanages children can be the monkey wrench in the machinery of a home, and be the real cause of stubbbornness.

A woman I know has to leave her children all day with a relative because she is the sole support of all of them. Rumors of stubbornness greet her at night, and also when she is home she sees many instances of it in the older child. It is borne in upon her at last while she is at home ill one week and can observe that the relative who cares for the children is responsible for the trait. She does two things to cause it—she favors the youngest child, who is quiet and docile, and opposes and mismanages the older little girl, who is lively and determined and full of initiative.

The mother, who is close to the little girl, has developed a way of handling the stubbornness when she's home—mostly by a cozy, twosy sort of whispering, which seems to turn the tide at crucial moments. But she has a difficult problem to meet.

When a cause like this exists for stubbornness it is not fair to make a child bear the brunt of the situation—in disapproval or in punishment, or in scenes where an issue is made of a child's giving in. Neither should the child be sacrificed by being made to yield as a superficial show of respect to an elder.

It is difficult for an outsider to prescribe a lubricant for such complicated family machinery. It requires a combination of tact and plain talk that is hard to administer. But at least recognizing the cause of the stubbornness helps a parent to be fair, and that is a tremendous advantage to the child concerned.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S DRESS.

This attractively designed dress is especially becoming to mature figures, and all the best points have been brought out to give a slim silhouette. The surplice closing adds a softly rippling rever that cuts the breadth, and the shaped yoke brought up to the waistline at the left side front narrows the waistline. The circular skirt is beautifully molded to the figure with graceful fullness at the hem.

The pattern, 2858, comes in sizes 16, 18, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 4¾ yards of 39 inch material with ¼ yard of 7 inch contrasting.

THE SIXTH JOURNEY

BY ALICE GRANT ROSMAN

SYNOPSIS.

John Falconer, a successful architect, returning home to England from Cape Town, with Hilary Revel, author of travel books, on shipboard. During the journey home their acquaintance grows into a friendship neither wishes to end.

John tells Hilary of his daughter, Judith, born of a café singer while he was a soldier in the war. John says, had magnanimously adopted the child. Hilary suspects such magnanimity. John's sister Gertrude became Judith's legal guardian when his wife died.

Hilary had taken her war invalided brother Hugh away from home ten years ago to give her young sister Christine and brother Stephen a better chance. Now that Hugh is dead Hilary was returning home. Her stepfather is the only sympathetic member of the family.

Shortly after their return John and Hilary become engaged.

Judith leads a lonely life in her aunt's home. Her cousin Prue is her only friend. She has a private teacher, Miss Mead, while her cousins are away at school. Her father is known as Uncle John. She senses she is different in some way from other children. When Aunt Gertrude hears of her brother's engagement she sends Judith to the country. Prue is uneasy about Judith not being in school. He thinks it unfair to drag Hilary sentimentally into the question of the child and Hilary feels that he has had enough management as a decent citizen, send a waif of dubious parentage among other children.

Judith, at the farm of her former nurse Tracy's brother, is badly treated by the old woman. She meets Clive Harpenden, the little master of the home where she delivers cream for Tracy. Judy, receiving no mail, writes secretly to Prue.

Prue invites Hilary for tea and tries to enlist her for Judith. Hilary's vow not to interfere makes her rebuff Prue. They run into Tim de Morreville, whom Hilary and John met on the boat home.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

A USEFUL ACQUAINTANCE.

Prudence had followed them and was examining Jemima with an envious eye as Hilary performed introductions.

"This is Mr. de Morreville, Prudence. Miss Livingstone is a niece of Mr. Falconer's, Tim."

"No, are you? . . . Nice chap, isn't he? Do you see him often, Miss Revel?"

Hilary laughed.

"Fairly often . . . I am going to marry him."

"O, cheers! . . . and congratulations. I am glad, and by the way, thanks, too. You've won me a tie and lost Angie a pair of silk stockings."

"You horrid little wretches, did we make it so plain?"

"Not a bit of it," declared Tim. "It was sheer prophecy. Do you remember your first day on board, when I thought you were his wife and Falconer said he was sitting there for a bet? Well, I said to Angie, 'Talking of bets, what about a pair of sox to a tie that that turns out a case by and by,' and Angie said, 'Done.'

"And where is Angela that I may box her ears since you are too tall," said Hilary severely.

"O, she's being dragged round the château country by her mother," grinned Tim. "I had a postcard yesterday. Seen enough dungeons to give her nightmare for the rest of her life, she says. By the way, Miss Revel, if you and Falconer are house hunting and you want a chariot and charioteer, Jemima and I would be delighted."

"Good-by. Glad to be rid of me, aren't you?"

"That's very nice of you, Tim, I'll remember. And you make Angie stump up a really good tie or refer her to me. Now I must run."

"Sure I can't give you a lift?" asked Tim regretfully, shaking hands. "Well what about you, Mr. Falconer's niece?"

"Thanks, I'd love to."

Prudence, with a scornful glance at her late hostess, jumped into Jemima with zest.

"Good-by. Glad to be rid of me, aren't you?" she called, and then under her breath as Tim drove off, "Damn! Damn! Damn!"

"I say, you have been religiously brought up, haven't you?" chuckled the bright lad beside her in a tone of admiration. "Jolly good sport, Miss Revel, she's a great pal of mine."

"You can have her for me," said Prue with a scowl.

Tim laughed.

"Well, at least you'll admire Jemima, surely? Cheer up and look her over."

"Millionaire, aren't you?"

"Ain't the word all right. Twelve pounds down and another twelve a month for, let me see—June, July, August and September. Then I go up to Oxford and Jemima goes back to her maker—literally, of course, not as a corpse," explained Tim.

"You mean you've hired her?"

"We don't call it anything so low," said Tim in a tone of reproof. "I bought her on time payment, but when you do that and can't pay up, what happens? Why, a wrathful company walks in and carries off the article."

"But if you are taking her abroad how are you going to drive people round looking for houses?" inquired Prudence, who had been evolving a scheme of her own.

"O, I shan't go till the end of term because a fellow who is already up is joining me for the long, and we are going to share exes. In the meantime, I'm giving the island a look over."

"What island?"

"The British one."

"Why, don't you live here then?" she exclaimed in a tone of surprise.

"Miss your heart, no, I'm an Australian, I am."

"How rum."

"Go on. Say you thought I'd be black or speak like a cowboy in the talkies," encouraged her host with joy. "Hullo, hiding your head in shame?"

"No . . . but I saw an unexpected parent of mine who might be surprised to catch sight of me riding in such splendor."

"You should train your parents better. Spartan, is she?"

"Not really, but she would probably tell me to invite you home to tea."

"No!" cried Tim, delighted.

"And in two minutes," proceeded Prue, "she'd have you addressing envelopes for the Society for the Encouragement of Hen Canaries."

He shouted with laughter, watching the curve of her wicked chin and the bright mischief of her eyes.

They crept out of the maze of traffic into Piccadilly Circus at this moment and, at Prue's direction, along Shaftesbury avenue.

"I live in diggings in Bloomsbury and only go home for week-ends," she explained. "Squalor beside service flats in King street, so you'd better warn Jemima to shut her eyes, she may be shocked."

"Nothing shocks Jemima, that's what I like about her, a nice, low, sultry little car."

In a few moments they were at Prue's front door and she was disappointing with a sigh of regret.

"I wish you'd be kind to a poor alien and come for a run round one day," said Tim, standing beside her. "I don't know a soul and I'd take no end of care of you. Knowing Miss Revel and Falconer makes us old friends, you ask them."

"Ask them!" echoed Prue with scorn. "Am I a child in arms to ask uncle and auntie? Not much. I would like to come though if you're on, as a matter of fact, I rather want to sneak down to Bedfordshire and see a small cousin of mine, but as I shall be missing lectures it will have to be a deadly secret or there will be a row."

"There isn't an oyster living that can hold a candle to me for secrecy," said Tim, delighted. "When do we go?"

"It's about 50 miles if Jemima and that girl of yours won't mind."

"Girl? . . . O, you mean Angie. Why, she's merely a pal, and she'd bite your head off if you called her mine. President of the anti-rot society, Angie is. As for 50 miles, Jemima sniffs at 'em, hear her!"

He turned on something in Jemima's interior and her snorts and their laughter filled the street.

"I can't go tomorrow," ruminated Prudence. "Yes, I could though. I missed two lectures today. Headache. It will be worse tomorrow and I'll be left in bed by my sorrowing friends. Any time after ten the coast will be clear."

"Hooray! I'll be here on the tick then."

"Thanks."

Prudence brought out her latchkey and climbed to the door; Tim and Jemima hooked a series of soft farewells, and then a wild wail and were off, careering round the square at the rate of knots.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Needs Work and Clothing.

"I am an elderly woman living alone. I have been sick and unable to work for some time, but I think I could do cleaning a day now and then if I could get it. I have no means of support. I owe rent, but my landlady is kind about that, and the neighbors give me food when they can. I need clothing and I thought you might be able to secure it for me. I need dresses, about size 18, and shoes, size 6, width E. R. P."

Although she doesn't appear to be very strong, this woman is exceedingly anxious to get some kind of work to do so that she will no longer be dependent upon her neighbors. Can you help her a bit by giving the clothing she needs so badly?

Chicago Boys Among Yale's Honor Winners

BY THALIA

CHICAGO'S sons at Yale made a pretty fine showing on the honor list that was made public at New Haven a few days ago. An average of 85 or above is the standard, and less than 700 students are mentioned. The publication of the list is of more than usual interest this year because the new plan of study is to be instituted in the fall, and as midyear examinations will be eliminated, there will be no more midyear posting of honor lists, a custom that is more than a century old.

The Chicago young men who made the grades include George A. Ranney Jr., who is a freshman; Gaylord Donnelley, son of the Thomas Elliott Donnelleys; "Pat" Hamill, the Alfred E. Hamills' son; Jimmy Heyworth, son of Mrs. James O. Heyworth; Gordon Cameron, son of Dr. and Mrs. Dan U. Cameron; Leeds Mitchell Jr.; Frank Armstrong of Winnetka, Lester Goddard of Riverside, and John N. Trainer of Glencoe. The Edgar Stantons of Winnetka can congratulate themselves on having two bright boys, Edgar Jr. and Francis R., who are both mentioned, and still more from Chicago and vicinity are Alfred B. McSheasey III., Dan F. Smith, Charles L. Waldo, James Munro, Loren R. Converse, Richard C. Dowel, Harold Kroebl, and David Badger.

Some Travels and Cards for E. H. Bennett's Party.

This and that . . . The Richard Mabbatts and the Henry Ishams of Lake Forest sailed for Europe together on the S. S. Roma the early part of this month . . . the Edward H. Bennetts have sent out cute invitations (designed by Mrs. Bennett and crayoned, I suspect, by some junior member of the family) for a keno party at their Lake Forest home on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock . . . the Stuart Balleys of Winnetka are to give a large reception for Mrs. Pat Campbell after she gives her speech at the Skokie school on Friday evening . . . Mrs. Edward L. Hasler and Constance, who have been visiting Miss Gwethalyn Jones in Santa Barbara, have gone on a trip to the wild flower country around Bakersfield with Mr. and Mrs. William North Duane . . . the Lake Forest women's Monday afternoon riding class that had to be discontinued when the roof of the new arena fell in gave a "graduation tea" on Monday afternoon at Mrs. C. C. Smith's at Fort Sheridan for Lieut. John M. Bethel and Lieut. Louis B. Rapp, who have been teaching the riders jumps and military drills and whatnot, and gave them a present in token of appreciation of their time and efforts . . .

Junior League Arts and Crafts Show at Drake.

If you think that women no longer pride themselves on being proficient at housewifely arts you just should have seen the Junior League's arts and crafts exhibit at the Drake yesterday. Not only were there examples of some of the most fastidious stitchery imaginable but also everything in the way of handiwork from Florence Higinbotham's sample of Braille work to very professional looking paintings and sculptures.

The things that impressed me most were the silver luster vases that Mrs. James Waller Marshall made, Mrs. Norman Pitchard's modern photographs; Margaret Quan's suit and hat of tan wool material, the coat lined with fur; Mrs. Gardner Tebbodeaux's delectable pajamas, one in red and gold lamé, one in reseda green crêpe, and one pale gentian satin crêpe, and Miss Elizabeth Stuart's exquisite miniatures of her brother, Harold Stuart, and her mother, the late Mrs. George Stuart; the lovely "unmentionables" sewn by the Kohlsaat girls; the modern "still lifes" done by Emeline Bush, and the darling baby's coat and bonnet of pink crêpe made by Mrs. Schuyler Thurber. The decorated tables were a show all by themselves. Three prizes had been awarded, one to Mrs. Herbert Kennedy Jr. for the smartest table, one with beguiling red and blue blown glass figures; Mrs. Boyd Hill for the most original table, and Mrs. Edward L. Hersey Jr. for the best looking formal table, one done all in pale pink. One of Mrs. Norman Wright's modern landscapes was awarded first prize for art work, one of Ann Croftan's portraits won second prize, and Bessie Shaw Peterkin's sculpture had a blue ribbon, too.

Society Women Busy Selling Goods Made by Invalids.

The Vocational Society for Shut-ins committee for the sale at the Bendix galleries yesterday was weary but pleased as the day wore on and a steady stream of customers kept coming to buy the wares made by the unfortunates the society helps to be self-supporting by teaching them to make lovely things.

Mrs. Orville Taylor and Mrs. Charles King Corsant were stationed at the door, and serving as saleslaides were Mrs. Earle Zimmerman, Mrs. Laird Bell, who took time off at 11, 2:30, and 4:30 o'clock to give some of her monologues; Mrs. Henry Faurot Jr., Mrs. Alexander Kirk, Mrs. Carter Morgan, Mrs. Miles Trammell, Mrs. W. E. Macfarlane, and Miss Gertrude McCarthy.

Attending the Friends of China program on "Chinese Gardens" given by Mrs. Florence Ayscough of Shanghai at the Arts club in the afternoon were Mrs. John Stuart Coonley, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick and her mother, Mrs. Charles Deering, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Rockafeller McCormick, and Russell Tyson. Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. George T. Langhorne, and Mrs. John Paul Welling were in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson were to leave last night for a fortnight at the Breakers at Palm Beach. Their trip is timed for the Easter vacations of their sons, John and William. John Simpson, who has been having a holiday at Nassau with Larry Callahan, will stop off for a visit with his parents before returning to the University of Chicago, and William, who is at Brown university, will go down from Providence to meet them. The junior James Simpsons have arrived in New York from Aiken, and will spend a day or two with Mrs. Simpson's parents before coming to Chicago at the end of the week.

The after Easter social prospect waxes brighter and brighter. The Lake Shore League of Women Voters is busy with the arrangements for a program by Ronny Johansson, to take place at the Casino April 4, Easter Monday. Miss Johansson is a very good friends of Mrs. William G. Hibbard, and the latter induced her to give the program. Mrs. Ralph Winston is general chairman of the affair, and others who are assisting to make the arrangements are Mrs. Mitchell Follansbee, box chairman [there will be only about five or six boxes—courtesy title for roped off groups of chairs]; Mrs. Louis Guenzel, arrangements; Mrs. Clair E. More, publicity, and Paul Wilms, ticket chairman. Miss Johansson was guest-dancer once with Adolf Bolm's ballet, and her "notices" were highly enthusiastic.

Fort Sheridan Riding Show Set for This Saturday.

The riding exhibitions at Fort Sheridan have been so well liked that lots of the people invited by Brig. Gen. MacCloskey have written asking for tickets for their friends. Despite the fact that all the announcements said the exhibitions were invitational [they had to be because of the limited capacity of the riding hall], there were several hundred uninvited who wanted to see the performance.

The third show is to be this Saturday afternoon, and Gen. MacCloskey has asked the patronesses for this and last year's military dances to come out and see the riding, and stay to tea afterward at the Officers club. Acceptances have been received from Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, Miss Agnes Foreman, Mrs. William Prescott Hunt, Mrs. Lucius Teter, Mrs. George T. Langhorne, Mrs. Samuel Insull, Mrs. Joseph E. Otis, Mrs. Mitchell Follansbee, Mrs. Carter H. Fitzhugh, and others.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Best Was Good Enough for Her.

One day while I was visiting in the city I attended services at one of the large churches with my friend. After the services he saw a taxi parked across the street and motioned for the driver. The taxi driver turned his car around in the middle of the street and came across to where we were standing. A car drew up to us and the door was opened. Not looking, I started to step into the car when my friend called to me and said that that was not our car.

Was I embarrassed when I looked around and saw some wealthy couple waiting to get in their car and the footman holding the door open for them? F. D.

Bright Sayings of the Children

After an all day fruitless search for a farm, Mr. and Mrs. J. came home much discouraged.

When little Orville learned the sad news he looked at his mother in a most pathetic way and said, "Well, I guess I'll go to bed and get the headache like the rest of the family."

Old World Outlook on Young Girls Won't Work at All Here

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Before me is a rather incredulous piece of advice from a married woman to the effect that it would be better if girls did not associate with boys and men before marriage. The possibilities are that the writer of it is foreign and trained in the system of parental marriage arrangements.

But here in America if a girl doesn't associate with boys before marriage, where is her big chance going to come in? Our American mammas and papas do not go around among their acquaintances and friends suggesting that they have a marriageable daughter in exchange for a good marriageable son or vice versa. It's been argued that the system might be an improvement on the headlong plunges often taken by irresponsible young things, here in America. But that's neither here nor there today.

The basis of our correspondent's suggestion is the remarks she hears passed on girls by men who have bealed them around or are beauing them around. These are so often a reflection on the girl's character that the married woman would preserve her from the degradation if possible. On which point, again, we must take issue. Characters are not injured unless their expression is faulty. That is, if a girl behaves properly her name isn't going to be bandied about by men.

It would be a pretty malicious male who'd circulate stories about a decent girl. It may have been done—but so infrequently as to remove all danger from girl and boy association.

No, I'm for letting girls and boys associate pretty freely. By freely, naturally is not meant promiscuously. But I've observed that girls brought up in close association with boys arrive at maturity relieved of the silly idealizing that so often leads to spinsterhood. They learn to judge men as human beings, not as gods or as dream creatures or as screen idols.

They are taught in these associations a fairer game of give and take, qualifying them better for wifehood. Girls whose parents are loath to let them associate with boys are apt to get the most ridiculous ideas about what should be expected from men. Anyway, I don't think it ever will be much of a problem here in our country.

Food Talk.

Mrs. J. B. S., writes, "I'm tired of meat dinners and don't know what to make without meat. I wonder if you could give me some recipes of meatless main dishes."

So many times we hear such foods referred to as "meat substitutes." The truth of the matter is there is no such thing as a meat substitute. No other food supplies exactly what meat does. Take for example lean beef, which is high in protein, phosphorus, and iron content. If we use fish instead we supply protein and phosphorus, but not so much iron. When we use cheese for meat we supply the finest of protein but not so much iron, and a rich supply of calcium which meat does not have.

The only foods that can be used in the place of meats to supply proteins are fish, milk, cheese, eggs, and the legumes, which are beans, peas, and lentils. Mushrooms do not contain any more protein than many vegetables, but they do have a flavor resembling meat and so can be used with a number of other foods to give the same satisfaction in flavor that meat does.

Eggs especially combine with mushrooms to produce a food that is not only desirable in taste but also in nutritive value. Fish baked, boiled, or fried accompanied with an extra vegetable rich in iron, like spinach, makes a good combination to take the place of meat. Beans, either dried or green, with cheese make most tasty combinations and are not only rich in the elements supplied by meat but also are rich in calcium. The following recipes will produce good meatless main dishes. In THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, March 22, we gave some good recipes for mushroom dishes. These may well be used in the place of meat.

EGGS IN CUCUMBER SHELLS.

4 eggs.
1 cucumber, medium size.
4 cooked mushrooms.
½ cup brown gravy.

Poach the eggs. In the base of buttered ramekin place a layer of cucumber, sliced thin. Lay the poached eggs on this, add the mushrooms chopped fine, and the gravy. Bake in the oven a few minutes until all is well heated.

LIMA BEAN LOAF.

2 cups lima beans.
1 cup dry bread crumbs.
4 tablespoons peanut butter.
½ teaspoon pepper.
1 tablespoon poultry seasoning.
2 tablespoons grated onion.
1 tablespoon bacon fat.
1 cup milk [more, if needed].

Wash and soak the beans overnight. Then cook in boiling water until soft [about 45 minutes]. Drain, cool, then chop coarsely. Add crumbs mixed with peanut butter and seasoning, then fat, and milk to moisten. Put into a greased breadpan and bake in a moderate oven [350-400° F.] 30 minutes. Serve with cream sauce.

PINEAPPLE TAPIOCA CREAM.

2 cups milk.
3 tablespoons quick cooking tapioca.
2 egg yolks.
1 cup sugar.
1-3 cup water.
2 egg whites.
1 tablespoon lemon juice.
½ cup pineapple, cubed or crushed.
10 marshmallows.

Scald the milk, add tapioca and cook until tapioca is transparent; then add egg yolks, slightly beaten, and salt. Let stand until cold. Cook sugar and water until sirup will spin a thread when dropped from the tip of a spoon. Pour the sirup gradually, while stirring constantly, on the egg whites beaten until stiff and add lemon. Add half the meringue to the tapioca mixture with pineapple cubes and marshmallows. Spread with remaining meringue mixture and chill.

Silent Banquets Ideal, Says Dawes in London

LONDON, March 24.—(AP)—Ambassador Charles G. Dawes has heard enough after-dinner speeches to last him a lifetime and he wishes there were such a thing as a silent banquet, he told the Kinematograph Renters society at a dinner tonight. "When I was Vice President of the United States," he said, "I suffered from banquets and long speeches for four years and I find I can't escape them over here."

Kotex means security as well as comfort in sanitary protection

Kotex absorbs quickly; it is adjustable; it may be worn on either side with equal protection.

SECURITY—that feeling of assurance, of being well-groomed—how much difference it makes to a woman. That is one of the great comforts of Kotex sanitary protection. It keeps one entirely free of self-consciousness. It means greater freedom to enjoy social activities as well as to carry on the day's work.

Highly absorbent

Kotex, in the first place, is so tremendously absorbent—by test, five times more so than the finest of surgical cotton. And the way it absorbs is important—"lateral absorption"—a process which makes the pad effective, not in just one area, but over the entire surface.

The long, delicate fibers of which Kotex is made serve to carry moisture swiftly away from one area, leaving the protective surface delicate and comfortable for hours.

Kotex, as you probably know, is made of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding, which is laid layer upon layer . . . each individual tissue acting as a quick, complete absorbent in itself. This unusual absorbent stays soft even after hours of use. It does not pack into chafing hardness. It is adjustable.

Kotex may be worn on either side with the very same degree of protection, the same comfort. Kotex is treated to deodorize. And it is disposable, you know.

Kotex Company, Chicago.

IN HOSPITALS...

1 The Kotex absorbent is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.
2 Kotex is soft . . . Not merely an apparent softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.
3 Can be worn on either side with equal comfort. No embarrassment.
4 Disposable, instantly, completely.

BLACKHAWKS TIE TORONTO, 2-2, IN FIRST PLAYOFF

MARCH SCORES TWO GOALS FOR CHICAGO TEAM

Rivals to Meet in Stadium Tomorrow.

Hockey Scores

Chicago Blackhawks, 2; Toronto Maple Leafs, 2.
N. Y. Rangers, 5; Montreal Maroons, 1.
Boston Bruins, 5; Montreal Canadiens, 4.

Toronto, Ont., March 24.—(AP)—The speedy Chicago Blackhawks, tossing relief front lines into the fray with great abandon, battled the Toronto Maple Leafs to a 2 to 2 deadlock in the first game of their first round Stanley cup playoff series here tonight. The return match will be played in Chicago Thursday.

As a playoff contest, the game was devoid of spectacular features. The Hawks checked closely throughout and appeared perfectly satisfied with the result.

Toronto's Stanley cup aspirants were distinctly off color. They tired quickly, failed to cover up at critical moments, and were unable to break loose from their checks with any consistency.

Penalties Pave Way.

All the scoring occurred in the first 11 minutes. Each team brought on the red light in the opening frame and in each instance penalties paved the way for the score.

A tripping penalty to Graham half way through the session enabled the Leafs to open up with a series of furious thrusts on the Hawk cage which finally netted them a goal when Ace Bailey slapped the rubber past Chuck Gardiner, the National Hockey league's all-star goal guardian.

Less than six minutes later March had the score by taking Adams' pass to easily beat Lorne Chabot, the Leafs' lanky goalie. A major penalty meted out to Happy Day, Toronto's left defense man, gave the Hawks the opportunity to open up and collect his one.

March sent his team into the lead about the halfway mark of the middle chapter and again Adams made the opening. He did it so well that the Toronto rear guard was completely outgeneraled. When March received the rubber he found clear sailing right to the Leaf cage.

Blair Ties Score.

A coincidence centered about the Leafs' tying marker. Andy Blair, local center ice performer, got the goal on a double assist from Day and Bailey just as a telegram arrived from his home folks in Winnipeg urging him to play "the game of your life."

Some 9,000 fans braved the downpour of rain to see the match, which while hard fought, was clean, only seven penalties being handed out, including Day's major.

Shots on goal were fairly even. The Leafs aimed 44 shots at Gardiner while Chabot was forced to handle 42 from Hawk snipers.

RANGERS, 5; MAROONS, 1

New York, March 24.—(AP)—The New York Rangers tonight routed the Montreal Maroons, 5 to 1, in the first game of their Stanley cup playoff series. The triumph gave the Rangers a one goal advantage to carry into the second game Thursday.

It was a hard rough game in which the Rangers were outfought, but not outplayed, in the first two periods. Half way through the opening frame, Bill Cook scored on a pass from Cecil Dillon. In the second period Bill Cook took Frank Boucher's pass for a second goal, but still the Ranger lead looked none too large in the face of the fine game the Maroons were playing.

The deluge came in the third period, five minutes after the start. Paul Thompson caught Montreal's young goalie, Andy Kerr, flat footed and scored an unassisted goal. Midway in the period Kerr had another spell of poor goal tending and Butch Keeling flashed in a quick shot after a face off. A minute later Thompson scored again, Murray Murdoch received assists on both goals.

The Maroons did not score until the last minutes of play, when Nels Stewart came out of the penalty box, where a scrapping session had sent him.

THOMAS' TRICK ARM MULTIPLIES BUSH'S WORRIES

White Sox Outrun Seguin Team, 18-10.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Antonio, Tex., March 24.—The White Sox spread themselves over 35 miles of Texas territory today, one squad doing little training chores around here and the other being over at Seguin for the purpose of amusing the natives with a game against the town team. As might be expected, the major leaguers outran the Seguin boys, 18 to 10, on the diamond, located inside the county fair race track.

Among the players permitted to remain here for a session at the training field was Tommy Thomas, the Baltimore blond, who just now is the most talked of athlete operating under the direction of Manager Bush. The sudden interest in Tommy is all because of that trick right arm which last season limited him to five victories, whereas his normal production should have been about 15 triumphs. Everybody is asking why Thomas, after declaring his arm fit for strenuous labor, has been batted freely every time he has made an appearance. Bush can't answer the problem, but he's plenty worried.

Pounded in 3 Games.

Thomas, thus far in his serious spring, work has compiled an unenviable record of yielding 11 runs and 16 hits in eight innings of three different games. Twice he has started against the Giants without favorable results. The other time he was nicked in surprising fashion by the Galveston Buccaneers. He simply can't get the hop on his fast ball, which always has been his chief stock in trade.

Yesterday when he was batted so hard that Bush yanked him after two innings, his fast ball came up to the batters as straight as a string. Afterwards he insisted he was bearing down as best he could.

The fear now is that Thomas may develop some such sort of a knot as ruined Gabby Hartnett two years ago and put Charley Root on the shelf late last season. He already is complaining about a sore spot in the shoulder. Bush's opinion is that because of the soreness Thomas is unconsciously holding back. Thomas insists he is throwing just as he always has, but that the arm feels weak.

Rest May Restore Effectiveness.

When Manager Bush put Tommy to work on the practice field this noon he advised him to refrain from throwing for a day or so. The boss thinks that resting the arm might eliminate the trouble, but this is doubtful. Bush also has an idea that the pitcher may have brought on the shoulder trouble by changing his style of throwing because of a desire to favor the elbow which was the seat of the trouble last season. Tommy says he doesn't think he's doing this, but he isn't sure.

Although he doesn't want to give the Giants any games, Bush intends to come right back with Thomas in either the Saturday or Sunday affair slated here. Tommy can rest his arm again tomorrow if he wishes, but on Thursday and Friday will be told to start grooming himself for the week-end appearance.

Barbour Hurls at Seguin.

For the sake of the Sox, it is not advisable to go into detail about what happened at Seguin this afternoon. To allow a pickup team ten runs is not to the credit of the major leaguers. All these tallies were registered off Lou Barbour Jr., who quits after the seventh. The only pleasing happenings were two homers which Smead Jolley hoisted over the outside fence of the race track.

Tomorrow the Sox will go back to night labor. They are billed to battle the Giants under the electric lights here. McKain will start for the Chicagoans. Score by innings:

White Sox	082	011	213	18	24	3

Batteries—Barbour, O'Shaughnessy and Henline; Lewis, Mueller and Schweizerhof.

Rain Cancels Cubs' Contest with Frisco

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., March 24.—There was a little shower early this morning and, although the thing didn't any more than settle the dust, there was such rejoicing at the unusual weather that the Cubs never did get around to playing their scheduled opener this afternoon with the San Francisco Seals.

It was the first time that the weather had interfered with ball park activity since the Cubs' arrival in California on Feb. 17. Up till today they hadn't been confronted with even a cool and cloudy day—a run of sunshine which is said to have equaled or surpassed anything ever enjoyed by a major league ball club in spring training, in California or elsewhere.

Calling off the game delayed Les Sweetland's plan to become the sixth Cub pitcher in six games to pitch the full distance.

You will recall that Charley Root went nine innings last Friday, Bob Smith followed suit on Saturday, Guy Bush went 11 innings to a decision Sunday morning, Fred Blake started and finished the afternoon in the final of the first Cub-Pirate series, and Bud Teachout pitched all nine innings against Oakland. Bud was the only one of the quintet to take a licking and he got beat by a 4 to 3 score.

Malone Is Cautious.

This sequence of unprecedented spring pitching persistence leaves Sweetland, May, Warneke, Osborn, and Baecht of the potential all season staff raring to effect similar records. This leaves Malone out of the picture, and by his own choice, though normally he is the muscle man of the whole troupe. Pat still is complaining about a hitch in his right shoulder and says he will engage in no preseason heroics until he's sure his mechanism is all right.

Aside from interest in the physical progress of Hornsby, Bell and the pitchers, and discussion of the impending home run fight between Wilson and Hartnett, attention in the Cub camp is focused on the status of Bill Jurges, rookie shortstop.

Hornsby has taken a mystifying attitude toward the youngster. He calls him one of the greatest infield sensations to come up in recent years, and he is the one player of the entire cast who has been playing all of every game in the same position. Yet Rogers refuses to say that Bill will be in the opening day lineup in Chicago.

What of English and Bell?

He explains that the current constant employment of Jurges is not necessarily more than a plan to build up the young man's confidence.

If he does use Jurges, what of English and Bell? Bell's hitting has been powerful and timely but his throwing it pitiable. English is fielding brilliantly and his throws are the same old rifle shots but he hasn't been hitting. In the Pittsburgh series Jurges made four hits in sixteen times at bat for an average of .250. Bell made five hits, most of them timely in 14 times at bat for an average of .357. English made one hit in nine times for a percentage of .111.

OSTER KNOCKS OUT LITTMAN IN SECOND ROUND

Upsets Mark Fight Show at Coliseum.

Willie Oster, Boston's candidate in the scramble, sanctioned by the National Boxing association, to pick a successor of Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, scored a surprising two round knockout over Tait Littman, Milwaukee pride, in what was scheduled as the main bout of the evening at the Coliseum last night. It took fully ten minutes to bring Littman around to the point where he could navigate his way out of the ring. A terrific right cross to the chin during an exchange along the ropes was the knockout punch.

Oster, from the first gong, swung right in, trying to force the Milwaukeean into slugging, Oster's long suit. Littman fought right back and earned a draw in the opening round.

During a wild exchange along the ropes, early in the second round, Oster swung a whizzing right over Littman's low held guard, connecting a right to the chin for the final blow.

Breaks Through Guard.

Chuck Heffner, blonde young middleweight from Denver, scored an upset victory in winning the decision over My Sullivan, St. Paul, in another ten round bout. Sullivan, a much heavier edition of the fighter who boxed around Chicago a year ago, staged a great finish in the ninth and tenth rounds, but was unable to overcome an early disadvantage. Sullivan appeared a bit fat around the waist line and a slower moving boxer than in his former appearances.

Heffner scored effectively and with frequency to the head, having Sullivan badly marked around the eyes and the mouth at the end of the bout.

Susky Beats Hansen.

In the opening bout Dan Gasparo of Chicago easily punched out an eight round decision over Buck Easterling of Wichita, Kas. Gasparo's left hooks proved too much for the Kansan. They met at 180 pounds.

Pete Susky, Scranton, Pa., weighing 156, won a close ten round decision from Haakon Hansen, 155, Chicago Norwegian.

Susky, a well built youngster, forced the fight from the start. On aggressiveness alone, Susky was entitled to victory. Susky was particularly effective during the sixth and eighth rounds. At no point during the battle, however, was either fighter in any serious danger.

FRENCH TAKE 2-1 LEAD IN INDOOR TENNIS MATCHES

New York, March 24.—(AP)—Jean Borotra tonight led his French tennis team to a lead of two sets to one in the indoor team competition with the United States, pairing with Christian Boussus to defeat George Lott Jr. and John Van Ryn in straight sets. The scores were 7-5, 6-4, 6-4.

Tonight's victory practically assured the French of victory in the team competition modeled along Davis cup lines, as Borotra is favored to win from Berkeley Bell of Texas in one of the two remaining singles matches tomorrow night. He fell before Frank Shields of New York in straight sets last night while Boussus was defeating Bell.

Lincoln Park to Open New Golf Course Today

Chicago golfers will get a chance today to tee off on a new course. This morning Lincoln park will throw open the links upon which construction was begun last fall. The greens, which are of creeping bent, have come through the winter in excellent shape, and the entire course is reported to be in good condition. With favorable weather, a large number of golfers are expected to be on hand to open the season.

THERE LIES CHICAGO

In the WAKE of the NEWS

POT POURRI.

BETWEEN now and the opening of the baseball season many columns of expert opinion will be written by baseball reporters on where the various major league teams will finish. This expert opinion, in the main, will be sound and intelligent, based on experienced observation.

One of these writers may say a club has a chance for the pennant or that it has not a chance for the pennant. In such instances he is likely to be right, for he can estimate the qualities needed for championships. When he attempts to say which of three leading contenders will win the gonfalon, that is largely guesswork.

That this opinion is largely guesswork is not the fault of the writer, but because of the uncertainties of baseball—injuries, slumps by veterans, unexpected prowess by rookies and a dozen other factors. It is better so. Uncertainty is one of the qualities which keeps baseball popular.

College baseball teams now are practicing either at home or on southern trips. The Wake never could get greatly steamed up over collegiate diamond performances. Unfortunately we had seen pros play before we had seen collegians play. The contrast was too great.

College ball players are sadly handicapped by their short season. About the time the pros are really getting settled, the college season ends.

We have read forty opinions, compiled by The Chicago Golfer, on the benefits and disadvantages of the new official pill. Except for a consensus that it is more difficult to control in the wind, these opinions vary so widely that the individual duffer will wish to try for himself before reaching a conclusion. What we'd like to know is whether the new ball travels better over water hazards.

NEW YORK OR CHICAGO—WE'LL WIN, BOXERS SAY

Team to Make Trip East After Tourney.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Golden Gloves fighters are ready to whip New York in the Stadium ring on April 2.

"We were going to New York to defend our intercity title," Fred Caserio, team captain, said yesterday, "and I can't see what difference it will make if the New York boys visit us. If anything, our task should be easier. We'll be scrapping in front of 22,000 home folks, and that should make us put forth our best efforts."

Caserio's remarks were seconded by the other boys, from Leo Rodak, the flyweight champion, to Johnny Long, the heavyweight king.

The boys on the squad knew of the demands of THE TRIBUNE and the New York News that out of town judges decide the intercity bouts. The squad had been called together Monday evening and the entire proposition explained. It might be a bit out of order to say Chicago's Golden Gloves fighters did not believe they would receive impartial treatment, but it is true that all of them approved the plan for out of town judges.

Steeve Won Decision.

Again it was Caserio who voiced the team's sentiment:

"Last year Andy Melia lost a close decision to Ed Steeve of the Chicago squad. There was no questioning the decision, for it was just one of those close bouts which any judge would have difficulty deciding. But I remember that Andy thought he had whipped Steeve. This year I am to meet Melia and, while I know I can give him the battle of his life and win, I wondered if I would be counted out on a close decision."

Chicago's Golden Glove squad will not lose the trip to New York and Washington. While the boys primarily wish to fight the New York winners, they have also been looking forward to the trip east. Many of the boys never have ridden on Pullmans and few of them have seen the big city. When it was decided to transfer the intercity contests to Chicago it was also decided that the Chicago squad would make an eastern trip. The boys probably will leave on Friday, the day after the Stadium bouts, for New York. The itinerary of the trip will be the same. And since the boys will not be required to stay in training, they will enjoy the trip the more. Arrangements are being completed for the shows the boys will see and the sight seeing trips.

Break Training Today.

The team possibly is a trifle too well trained for the intercity fights. The coaches' schedule called for four round workouts yesterday in anticipation of leaving Friday noon for New York. However, the boys will break training today and will not report back to the Illinois Athletic club until tomorrow noon. The workouts then will be so arranged to bring the boys to the peak of condition next Tuesday. Then with one day of rest they will enter the Stadium ring Thursday night ready to go the limit.

Last night members of the Golden Gloves squad were guests of George Ferguson and Jim Mullen at the Coliseum fights.

Rudy Sterbenz, Chicago heavyweight, was added to the squad yesterday afternoon. Johnny Long and Adam Smith are the logical choices to fight against New York, but Merrill and Tonn, the alternate, have been in poor health and it was thought advisable to strengthen the team. Pete Smagatz also will be added to the light heavyweight list today. Dick Monty, the runner up, has been suffering from a severe cold which so far had refused to respond to treatment. Jack Kranz, champion of the 175 pounders, and Tony Sutton are logical selections to meet the New York boys in that division.

Golden Gloves Facts

Event—Golden Gloves fourth intercity bouts between Chicago and New York.

Number of bouts—16; winner and runnerup in each of eight weight divisions.
Tickets—On sale today; prices $1, $2 and $3.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Hurry, folks, and don't get shut out on the tickets for the Inter-City Golden Gloves battle between Chicago and New York which yesterday was transferred from Madison Square Garden to the Chicago Stadium.

There is every indication that some 22,000 seats for the finest and most thrilling boxing show held anywhere in the world will be sold within the next seven days. If you want to get the choice seats buy early for it has been the policy since the first Golden Gloves bout was fought to sell the best tickets to those who applied first.

On Sale at 9 O'Clock.

Printers worked throughout the night and at 9 o'clock this morning 5,500 tickets will go on sale at $3. Four thousand of them will be on sale at THE TRIBUNE'S Public Service office at No. 1 South Dearborn street. Five hundred will be placed on sale at each of the three Public Service branches located at 1101 East 43rd street, 4152 West Madison street and in THE TRIBUNE Tower lobby.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon the remaining tickets will come from the printer and they will immediately go on sale at THE TRIBUNE Public Service office and all its branches. Prices range from $1 to $3.

Selling out the Stadium in the brief period of seven days will be something that has never been accomplished since the huge Chicago indoor sports arena was opened.

World's Record Set.

All Golden Gloves contests staged there have attracted packed houses. A world's record for an indoor show was established at the Golden Gloves meet in 1930. It was broken at the finals of the Golden Gloves tournament held this year on March 11. But tickets were on sale for these Golden Gloves attractions for six weeks or more.

Before the Intercity battles were transferred from New York to Chicago those who conduct the Golden Gloves battles for the New York News took great pride in the fact that they had sold out the 20,000 reserved seats in Madison Square Garden for the Intercity bouts in five days. Chicago, no doubt, will sell out the Stadium in seven days.

But remember the policy is "first come, first served" at all Golden Gloves boxing matches.

DEMPSEY LOSES POINT IN $500,000 COLISEUM SUIT

Little progress was made yesterday in the Chicago Coliseum club's alleged $500,000 breach of contract suit against Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion.

The suit is being heard in the Circuit court of Judge H. Sterling Pomeroy. The defense lost a point when Judge Pomeroy ruled that Coliseum attorneys were authorized under certain conditions to introduce facts on an injunction the Marion, Ind., Supreme court issued restraining Dempsey from meeting any other fighter before fulfilling an engagement with Harry Wills. This was before Dempsey lost his title to Gene Tunney.

Adjournment was taken at noon to permit Attorney Arthur Driscoll, Dempsey's lawyer, to obtain further evidence which he claimed would eliminate the necessity of producing the Indiana court records. The case will be resumed this morning.

BROOMSTICK, SIRE OF MANY RACERS, DIES AT AGE OF 30

Lexington, Ky., March 24.—(AP)—Broomstick, famed stallion which for three years was the leading American sire of thoroughbred race horses, died at C. V. Whitney's farm near Lexington today. He was 30 years old. Old age was given as the cause of death.

During his racing years Broomstick was winner of 19 races with a total value of $74,570. After his retirement to the stud he sired such offspring as Whisthroom II., himself a great thoroughbred and the sire of Victorian, noted stakes winner; Regret, the only filly to win the Kentucky Derby (1915); Meridian, Kentucky Derby winner in 1911; Bostonian, a Preakness winner, and others.

He was rated America's leading sire in 1913, 1914, and 1915. Broomstick was a son of Ben Brush, out of Elf, by Galliard, near dam Sylvabella, by Bend D'Or.

BRUINS BEAT CANADIENS

Boston, Mass., March 24.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins overcame a three goal lead with a furious third period rally and then outbattled Les Canadiens through almost 20 minutes of sudden death play here tonight to win the first game of the National Hockey league championship playoff series by a 5 to 4 score.

During most of the fifth championship combat waged by these sextets the Bruins were outplayed. But after ridding their system of poor hockey they began a series of four man rushes and pulled up even at 4 to 4.

Then the players went into the sudden death period. Almost twenty minutes of savage play elapsed before Eddie Shore stopped a Canadien drive, circled his net and plunged straight down the middle lane. He cleaned the opposing defense pair and fired a hard shot at Goalie Hainsworth. The latter tried to clear and in so doing lifted the puck with his stick. Cooney Weiland caught the sailing rubber, slammed it on the ice and smashed it into the Canadiens' net for the winning goal. Lineup:

SPECIAL MOUNTS FOR CIRCUS ACTS UNLOADED HERE

Two special carloads of trained horses used by Prof. Lars Christensen and May Wirth in their acts in the Great European Olympia circus were unloaded yesterday at the Chicago Stadium and were put through their first workout there. The Olympia program, which includes sixty acts, will be put on twice daily in the Stadium during an exhibition which begins on Sunday, April 5.

Miss Wirth, billed as the world's greatest equestrienne, sent her seven horses from New York, where they were held after their return from Europe three weeks ago. She will arrive to drill them in person early next week.

The Christensen horses, ten golden chestnut stallions, perfectly matched as to size and color, arrived in New York on Sunday and were sent here without delay. Prof. Christensen stated yesterday that the perfect matching occupied ten years of his time and that only two of the animals are even closely related.

Play Finals in A. A. U. Handball Meet Tonight

Finals in the Central A. A. U. handball doubles championships will be played tonight at the West Side Knights of Columbus clubhouse, 4711 West Madison street. Sixteen teams, representing local athletic clubs and other organizations, have been competing in the tournament which begun Monday.

Stadium Can't Use Dempsey in Ring Friday

Jack Dempsey is not qualified under the law to hold a license as a referee in Illinois, the state athletic commission ruled yesterday. Its decision was given informally when the Chicago Stadium sought permission to hire Dempsey as the referee for the Tuffy Griffith-Tommy Loughran fight Friday night.

Dempsey is not a legally registered resident of Illinois, the commission pointed out, for the law specifically sets forth that all referees must have had established residence in the state a year previous to their applying for a license.

Dempsey had been chosen by both Loughran and Griffith, who meet in the ten round windup to settle priority claims on the right to meet Jack Sharkey.

Griffith boxed six rounds at the Arcade gym, putting in his last strenuous drill before Friday's bout. Loughran followed Griffith into the ring and stepped six rounds against K. O. White and his heavyweight protégé, Frank Cawley.

Sharkey will arrive today to enter into negotiations for a bout in June with the winner of Friday's fight.

CANZONERI TO BOX HERE.

New York, March 24.—(AP)—The New York state athletic commission today abandoned all hope of staging a lightweight title match here between Champion Tony Canzoneri and Jack Berg of England and the bout will go to Chicago, as originally planned, on April 24.

The commission was interested in bringing the match here for the benefit of the Bronx hospital fund, but left the field clear to Chicago promoters because of what the commissioners called the "exorbitant demands" of the fighters.

Fordham Team Enters College Tank Meet

Sixteen schools will be represented at the national collegiate swimming championships to be held at the Lake Shore Athletic club Friday and Saturday under auspices of Northwestern university. Fordham university, which submitted an eleventh hour entry yesterday, was the last school to enter the meet.

The complete list of colleges and universities entered in the championships are Chicago, Fordham, Georgia Tech, Iowa, Loyola, Michigan, Minnesota, Northwestern, Princeton, Purdue, Rutgers, Springfield, Southern California, Stanford, Washburn, and Washington.

Southern California's team of six will arrive in Chicago early tomorrow. The squad is headed by Mickey Riley and Buster Crabbe, sophomores. However, they are not new to competition of a national character, since both hold national A. A. U. titles. Riley is the national fancy diving champion, while Crabbe holds several national free style championships, including the 220 and 440 yard swims.

The Rutgers team is headed by George Kojac, world's back stroke champion and record holder, who is almost certain to take the 150 yard back stroke. In addition the Rutgers team will be a strong contender in both the 400 yard sprint relay and the 300 yard medley relay.

C. A. A. U. SWIM TITLES TO BE DECIDED TONIGHT

The finals of the C. A. A. U. swimming championships, will be held tonight at the Medinah Athletic club. Prominent stars competing in the finals are: Walter Laufer, Lake Shore Athletic club; Betty Quinn, Illinois Women's club, and Emma Shamatis, I. W. A. C. BRUINS BEAT CANADIENS

Boston, Mass., March 24.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins overcame a three goal lead with a furious third period rally and then outbattled Les Canadiens through almost 20 minutes of sudden death play here tonight to win the first game of the National Hockey league championship playoff series by a 5 to 4 score.

During most of the fifth championship combat waged by these sextets the Bruins were outplayed. But after ridding their system of poor hockey they began a series of four man rushes and pulled up even at 4 to 4.

Then the players went into the sudden death period. Almost twenty minutes of savage play elapsed before Eddie Shore stopped a Canadien drive, circled his net and plunged straight down the middle lane. He cleaned the opposing defense pair and fired a hard shot at Goalie Hainsworth. The latter tried to clear and in so doing lifted the puck with his stick. Cooney Weiland caught the sailing rubber, slammed it on the ice and smashed it into the Canadiens' net for the winning goal. Lineup:

SPECIAL MOUNTS FOR CIRCUS ACTS UNLOADED HERE

Two special carloads of trained horses used by Prof. Lars Christensen and May Wirth in their acts in the Great European Olympia circus were unloaded yesterday at the Chicago Stadium and were put through their first workout there. The Olympia program, which includes sixty acts, will be put on twice daily in the Stadium during an exhibition which begins on Sunday, April 5.

Miss Wirth, billed as the world's greatest equestrienne, sent her seven horses from New York, where they were held after their return from Europe three weeks ago. She will arrive to drill them in person early next week.

The Christensen horses, ten golden chestnut stallions, perfectly matched as to size and color, arrived in New York on Sunday and were sent here without delay. Prof. Christensen stated yesterday that the perfect matching occupied ten years of his time and that only two of the animals are even closely related.

Stadium Can't Use Dempsey in Ring Friday

Jack Dempsey is not qualified under the law to hold a license as a referee in Illinois, the state athletic commission ruled yesterday. Its decision was given informally when the Chicago Stadium sought permission to hire Dempsey as the referee for the Tuffy Griffith-Tommy Loughran fight Friday night.

Dempsey is not a legally registered resident of Illinois, the commission pointed out, for the law specifically sets forth that all referees must have had established residence in the state a year previous to their applying for a license.

Dempsey had been chosen by both Loughran and Griffith, who meet in the ten round windup to settle priority claims on the right to meet Jack Sharkey.

Griffith boxed six rounds at the Arcade gym, putting in his last strenuous drill before Friday's bout. Loughran followed Griffith into the ring and stepped six rounds against K. O. White and his heavyweight protégé, Frank Cawley.

Sharkey will arrive today to enter into negotiations for a bout in June with the winner of Friday's fight.

CANZONERI TO BOX HERE.

New York, March 24.—(AP)—The New York state athletic commission today abandoned all hope of staging a lightweight title match here between Champion Tony Canzoneri and Jack Berg of England and the bout will go to Chicago, as originally planned, on April 24.

The commission was interested in bringing the match here for the benefit of the Bronx hospital fund, but left the field clear to Chicago promoters because of what the commissioners called the "exorbitant demands" of the fighters.

YANKEES LOSE TO INDIANAPOLIS IN TENTH, 10 TO 8

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 24.—(AP)—Indianapolis and the New York Yankees again battled into extra innings today and again the American association club won. The score was 10 to 8, Indianapolis scoring twice in the tenth on a base on balls and Bill Narleasky's home run.

PHILS, 4; REDS, 1.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 24.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Nationals triumphed over major league opposition for the first time this season when Lil Stoner and Jim Elliott pitched them to a 4 to 1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds today.

CARDS BEAT COLUMBUS.

Bradenton, Fla., March 24.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals scored a 6 to 5 victory over the Columbus team of the American association this afternoon.

GIANTS BEAT SAN ANTONIO.

San Antonio, Tex., March 24.—(AP)—Johnny Vergez, the Oakland, Cal., recruit who is slated to hold down third base for the Giants, and Bill Terry, veteran first sacker, led the New York National league club to a 7 to 3 victory over San Antonio of the Texas league today.

PIRATES WIN, 16 TO 11.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 24.—(AP)—A carnival of run making at an exhibition game here today ended 16 to 11 in favor of the Pittsburgh Pirates over Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast league.

SCHACHT STOPS SENATORS.

Biloxi, Miss., March 24.—(AP)—Al Schacht, the American league's coaching box clown, today made good on a training camp boast that he would shut out the Senator regulars in the first inning of their battle with the second team. Schacht, pitching against Manager Walter Johnson, let the regulars down with four hits in a five inning game that ended 1-1 and struck out two, but walked four. Johnson struck out two, walked one and yielded but four hits.

TIGER HURLERS IN FORM.

San Diego, Cal., March 24.—(AP)—Tom Bridges, former strikeout king of the Three Eye league, held the Pacific Coast league champions of last year to three hits in six innings, while Elon Hogsett allowed only one in the concluding three innings, and the Detroit Tigers defeated Hollywood, 5 to 2, in an exhibition game here today.

Fordham Team Enters College Tank Meet

Sixteen schools will be represented at the national collegiate swimming championships to be held at the Lake Shore Athletic club Friday and Saturday under auspices of Northwestern university. Fordham university, which submitted an eleventh hour entry yesterday, was the last school to enter the meet.

The complete list of colleges and universities entered in the championships are Chicago, Fordham, Georgia Tech, Iowa, Loyola, Michigan, Minnesota, Northwestern, Princeton, Purdue, Rutgers, Springfield, Southern California, Stanford, Washburn, and Washington.

Southern California's team of six will arrive in Chicago early tomorrow. The squad is headed by Mickey Riley and Buster Crabbe, sophomores. However, they are not new to competition of a national character, since both hold national A. A. U. titles. Riley is the national fancy diving champion, while Crabbe holds several national free style championships, including the 220 and 440 yard swims.

The Rutgers team is headed by George Kojac, world's back stroke champion and record holder, who is almost certain to take the 150 yard back stroke. In addition the Rutgers team will be a strong contender in both the 400 yard sprint relay and the 300 yard medley relay.

C. A. A. U. SWIM TITLES TO BE DECIDED TONIGHT

The finals of the C. A. A. U. swimming championships, will be held tonight at the Medinah Athletic club. Prominent stars competing in the finals are: Walter Laufer, Lake Shore Athletic club; Betty Quinn, Illinois Women's club, and Emma Shematik, I. W. A. C. Walter Colbath will give an exhibition after the meet.

INTERCITY GOLDEN GLOVES FIGHTS HERE ON APRIL 2!

Transfer Show to Get Neutral Officials.

Officials Sought

THE most famous judges and referees of amateur boxing in America were invited by The Tribune last night to officiate at the Intercity Golden Gloves bouts at the Chicago Stadium on the night of April 2.

Officials from the east, from the north, and from the south were sought. None of them were from New York or Chicago.

and referees from cities outside New York.

Avery Brundage, Chicagoan, who is president of the National A. A. U., indorsed the New York News' request. He told the metropolitan officials that they had no right to deny the request. Roy E. Davis, chairman of the registration and boxing committee of the Central A. A. U., by telephone and wire urged the New York amateur rulers to cooperate with the News.

Conferences were held. The New York committee demanded that the judges and referees of the show be chosen from New York lists. The News refused to be bulldozed.

THE TRIBUNE knew that the Chicago A. A. U. welcomed the tournament and believed in the fairness of the plan to pick out of town officials. Hence the quick acceptance of the New York News offer to shift the sport spectacle from the east to Chicago.

Stroitz Leases Stadium.

Sidney Stroitz, president of the Chicago Stadium, last night signed a contract for the building on the night of April 2.

The Medinah Athletic club invited THE TRIBUNE to house the eastern champions there.

THE TRIBUNE sought telegraphic acceptance from eight nationally prominent athletic leaders to officiate at the meet.

The New York News chartered a special train, leaving New York on Sunday, to bring the invaders west.

In the early editions of The News, the 20,000 disappointed ticket holders were frankly told why they are losing the biggest boxing buy in the country.

"The disappointment of twenty thousand people and the removal of one of New York's greatest boxing shows," the News said, "rests squarely upon the shoulders of the local A. A. U.

No Reflection on Officials.

"The A. A. U. here stood pat on its declaration that the use of out of town officials in a meeting between New York and Chicago boxers was a reflection upon the honesty and ability of the local officials. The News never has raised the question of the ability of the judges, but feels no sporting fan can question which is fairer, which is less open to suspicion and criticism, which is more in keeping with every rule and habit of international and intersectional competition—to appoint a set of officials from other localities than the ones from which the competitors come or to have local officials make the decisions which will affect the visitors.

"The antagonism to the News plan to use neutral officials, a plan which was looked upon favorably by the A. A. U. during the summer, flared up with the coming of a new administration, a political upheaval in A. A. U. ranks, and a coming into power of many who were jealous of the success of the Golden Gloves tournament and its national preeminences."

Winners of the intercity battle, whether they be Chicago boys or New York fighters, will comprise the Golden Gloves team which fights a team of French amateur champions for international honors. The international meet will be held in the Chicago Stadium on the night of May 12.

Wealth Prize on Irish Sweep; Draw Horses

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Ireland, March 24.—Betting on long odds of three and a half millions to one, the world today sat and watched the draw of the largest sweepstake ever known. Receipts totaling $5,900,075 have been collected in a gigantic pool organized for the benefit of the Irish hospitals under direction of Irish Free State officials.

The draw was held in the round room of the Dublin mansion house on the Grand National steeplechase, which will be run at the Aintree track, Liverpool, on Friday. The winners of the prizes received the glad news today, but the fortune of $1,772,720 on the winning horse will not be known until the finish of the race. The ticket on the horse running second is worth more than $886,360, and the third prize is $590,945.

47 Possible Starters.

There were eighty-three entries in the race and there still are forty-seven possible starters. Each horse running will pay $6,405, and the holders of tickets drawing nonstarters will receive the same amount. In addition, there are 360 consolation prizes of $5,905.

Tickets have been circulated throughout the world, but there is only one American who has a chance to win the capital prize. Three others hold tickets on nonrunners. J. J. McCarthy of West Philadelphia holds the ticket on More Keen, a prospective starter.

Hospitals Get 25 Per Cent.

The Irish Free State hospitals will receive 25 per cent of the total pool, amounting to $2,194,950. The seller of the winning ticket receives $15,000, of the second $10,000, and the third $5,000.

England grabbed off the biggest share of the prizes despite the rigorous efforts of police to prohibit the circulation of the tickets. Nine Londoners who have tickets of starters are persons in humble circumstances. One is a grocer, another is an Italian restaurant keeper whose relatives chipped in their pennies, and another is a charwoman who has 11 children.

Easter Hero, the favorite, was drawn by a County Durham miner.

Balmy Winds to Lure Bats from Hiding

BY BOB BECKER.

When the warm weather of spring stirs the chipmunks, woodchucks, and other hibernators into life, it also brings out of queer nooks and corners an animal that spends much of its time in the air. This flyer among the animals is the bat, or the "flittermouse," as some would call him. Not many people care for this little fellow. He just doesn't "belong," although as a group bats are decidedly worth while as destroyers of insects.

In this country we have bats which hibernate in the winter and some which migrate much like birds. The latter go southward in the fall to find a climate that will produce insects for food throughout the winter months.

The hoary bat is one of these. It is one of our largest species in the United States, with a wing expanse of considerably more than a foot and sometimes reaching fifteen or sixteen inches. This large flying mammal breeds in the forests and the high mountain regions.

In the west you can find caves with scores of hibernating bats in them. The long eared "flittermouse" is a good example of one species which does a long distance sleep each winter. Nature supplies these mammals with a thick deposit of oily fat under their skins and with this fuel laid up for the months of sleep their retire.

Not until spring brings warm weather and flying insects are on the wing do the bats become active. Then they take up their normal routine of insect hunting. Most all of their meals, if not all, are taken on the wing. They devour a great variety of moths, beetles, and other insects.

Even today but little is known about the winter and summer habits of many of our more or less common bats.

REPORT FRANCE PLANS FINANCIAL 'WAR' ON BERLIN

Debates Action on Pact with Austria.

PARIS, March 24.—(AP)—Denunciation of the commercial treaty with Germany and a decision to abstain from all financial aid constitute the possible policy of France toward Germany if she persists in carrying out an economic pact with Austria, it was reported tonight in official quarters. Details of the plans for such a pact were revealed by Dr. Julius Curtius, German foreign minister, in Berlin last night.

DR. JULIUS CURTIUS

Inquiry among French diplomats reveals the belief that the Austro-German move is one of the most important political developments since the war, embodying a possible attempt to form a central European bloc of powers, just as the naval accord between France and Italy had given optimistic conviction that the war clouds of Europe had been dissipated.

Makes "Friendly" Protest.

It is now admitted that the French representation to Vienna has taken the form of a "friendly" protest, and it was learned that at yesterday's meeting the French cabinet judged the affair so potentially grave that it devoted the entire session to the question.

After receiving detailed reports of the nature of the Austro-German agreement, France has decided that the agreement is entirely unacceptable.

What concrete steps will be taken will be elaborated after consulation with other powers, including especially Great Britain. Foreign Minister Briand has begun to exchange views with the British foreign minister.

Britain Studies Pact.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 24.—Unofficial approaches have been made to the British government to join the Austro-German customs pact. Austrian diplomats have been sounding out the British cabinet and its attitude toward an official invitation, and documents are now being studied by British legal experts. It is understood that the pact will be considered in the light of its effect on the treaties now in force. Similar action will be taken by Italy.

Great Britain will take no definite action until the return of Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson after his conferences with Aristide Briand and other European statesmen in Paris.

Sir Robert Vansittart, permanent undersecretary for foreign affairs, has already warned Austria and Germany to go slow until the powers have had an opportunity to examine the situation and decide whether the proposal violates the protocols of 1922 and 1923, which pledge Austria not to compromise her independence.

Austria to Cancel Other Pacts.

VIENNA, March 24.—The Austrian government will give notice of the termination of existing commercial treaties with Hungary, Czecho-Slovakia and Jugo-Slavia on July 1. Although it is denied that this is in consequence of the projected tariff agreement between Austria and Germany, it is considered certain that Austria will renew these treaties only after consulting the German government.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Mutual Esteem

ROBERT EDESON, FAMOUS STAGE, FILM STAR, DIES

"Make Funeral Noon," His Last Words.

Hollywood, Cal., March 24.—(AP)—Robert Edeson, 62, the last of the four men who turned their backs on golden careers of the stage in 1914 to risk their fortunes in the untried films, joined his old cronies in death today.

Seventeen years ago, the four—Edeson, Theodore Roberts, Dustin Farnum, and James Neill—listened to the persuasive tongue of Cecil B. De Mille and with a warning of failure ringing in their ears from their compatriots of the stage, they threw up their careers to go to a dusty little town named Hollywood.

The passing of the years proved their foresight and they became historic on the screen and wealthier than the stage ever could have made them. Then death played its part. First Farnum went, then Roberts. Barely two weeks ago Neill was buried, and Edeson followed.

Old Friend at Bedside.

Heart disease ended the life of Edeson, who as the star of the famed Indian play, "Strongheart," became one of the best known actors of the last half century. At his bedside were Aida De Martinez Edeson, his fourth wife, and an old friend, Edmund Breese, veteran actor. As death approached it was suggested that his only child, Roberta, by his first wife, be notified.

"What is the use?" he replied. "She is young. Why afflict her with sorrow?"

Shortly before death Edeson said in a whisper:

"If it's all right, make the funeral at noon. That will give the boys and girls a chance to come without holding up a picture or losing time."

On Thursday he will be buried by the Los Angeles Elks.

Ask for Edeson's Advice.

Edeson felt like a father to these "boys and girls." When the talkies came three years ago with a rush that frightened the "kids," as he was wont to call them, many of them came to the rustic cottage in the hills overlooking Hollywood for advice. Edeson told them how to speak and act before the microphone and few were better fitted to do this than the star of "The Little Minister" and "Soldiers of Fortune."

Edeson was best known in the films for that early picture, "The Girl I Left Behind Me," and the later productions, "The Ten Commandments," "King of Kings," "The Volga Boatman," and "Feet of Clay." His last picture, "Carry On," was finished in December.

DR. ALBRITTON, M. E. PREACHER 60 YEARS, DIES

His Career Begun as Circuit Rider.

The Rev. Josiah L. Albritton, who until his retirement at the Rock River Methodist conference seven years ago was the oldest minister in active service in the conference, died yesterday in his home at 3943 North Kostner avenue. Dr. Albritton was stricken with pneumonia a week ago. He was 83 years old.

For sixty years he had been in the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal church and, although retired, he had still been sought as a preacher because of the vigor of his sermons. After his retirement he acted as assistant pastor of the Chicago Temple.

Born in Paducah, Ky., Dr. Albritton was educated in a mountain school in southeastern Kentucky. He became a circuit rider in the lower Ohio river territory.

Twelve years later he received his first city charge. He was appointed to the pastorate of the Methodist church in Covington, Ky. Later he was sent to Lima, O., to build a church there. Then he was transferred to Toledo, where he built a church.

Bellefontaine, O., needed a church, and he was sent there to build the first Methodist church in the Central Ohio conference. After returning to Toledo to become presiding elder of the district Dr. Albritton went to Butte, Mont., and Salt Lake City.

Dr. Albritton's last regular charge was at Teotone, Ill. He went on the retired list in October of 1923. In 1926 he was appointed state chaplain for Illinois of the Grand Army of the Republic. He had served in the Union ranks in the civil war.

He once was the pastor of President Rutherford B. Hayes and preached the sermon at the latter's funeral.

The Rev. Mr. Albritton is survived by his widow and one son, Elmer Albritton. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock p. m. Thursday at the Chicago Temple. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

Thomas Hayes, 23 years on Police Force, Is Dead

Thomas Hayes, 53 years old, 5430 Kingston avenue, veteran policeman who for twenty-three years was attached to the South Chicago station, died last night at the South Shore hospital. He had undergone an operation on Monday for appendicitis, with which he was stricken on Saturday while on duty as lockupkeeper. He is survived by his widow, three daughters, and a son.

H. D. Laughlin, Capitalist, Is Taken by Death

Henry D. Laughlin, 83 years old, Chicago capitalist, who was formerly owner of the Great Northern hotel, died yesterday in his summer home at Ashland, Wis. He had been ill a short time with pneumonia. Mr. Laughlin, whose Chicago home was at the Majestic hotel, is survived by a widow, three sons, and a daughter. For many years he had been interested in Chicago and St. Louis real estate.

WOMEN JURORS DECIDE AUTOIST DID NOT FLIRT

A jury composed in part of women decided yesterday in the Kane county Circuit court at Geneva that Lloyd Fredendall had not smiled and winked at Sveda Carlson of St. Charles four years ago and that, as a natural consequence, he should not pay Sveda's father for a horse that was killed on the highway.

The girl, who is now Mrs. Sveda Johnson, 21 years old, testified that Fredendall, in an automobile, was making flirtatious advances to her as he drove his automobile along, and that he wasn't paying enough attention to his driving when he struck Farmer Carlson's horse.

Fredendall asserted that he had never seen the girl and that he was parked on the roadside with another girl, the one he later married, when the horse ran into his car. As other witnesses for the Carlson side testified that Fredendall was driving at a speed of around 50 miles an hour the women on the jury held that it was unlikely he had been doing much flirting and the male jurors agreed. Carlson had obtained a $150 verdict in a lower court.

'MODEL HUSBAND' TELLS JUDGE HE IS A HOLDUP MAN

Until March 19 the wife of Julius John Teszlewicz, 18 years old, believed he was a model husband. He was a good provider; every morning he left his home at 6232 Blackstone avenue a 8 a. m. sharp because, he told her, his boss wanted all the salesmen in the office at 8:30.

But on March 19 Julius was arrested. Yesterday, in the Boys' court, he confessed to Judge Francis Borrelli that the only job he had was robbing citizens on the streets.

"All day I stayed in the picture shows and about 6 o'clock I'd pull a few stickups," he said. "I guess there were about 25 in all."

He was held to the grand jury in $50,000 bonds.

MRS. PICKETT'S FUNERAL RITES HELD AT CAPITAL

Washington, D. C., March 24.—(AP)—Funeral services were held here today for Mrs. La Salle Corbell Pickett, 87 year old widow of Gen. George E. Pickett, hero of the confederacy.

Bishop William F. McDowell of the Methodist Episcopal church conducted the service, which was attended by dozens of friends of "Mother Pickett" and representatives of confederate societies.

Lieut. George E. Pickett, a grandson, said the request that she be buried beside her husband in the Hollywood cemetery in Richmond, Va., had been denied by the Ladies' Hollywood Cemetery Memorial association of Richmond.

Lieut. Pickett said the body would be cremated tomorrow, after which a place would be selected for the ashes.

FAIL TO CHECK EXCESS OUTPUT OF OIL WELLS

Production Rises 77,500 Brls. a Day.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Thus far, neither proration measures and governmental interference nor cutting of prices have been able to control petroleum production in this country. It would seem that petroleum producers will operate to about whatever extent that will produce a profit despite pleas to avoid overproduction, just as the government has discovered that farmers will raise as much wheat as will yield a profit.

The failure of various plans and measures to curtail crude oil production is indicated by the fact that output last week registered one of the largest increases in recent weeks. The daily average gross crude oil output was 2,568,050 barrels, an increase of 77,500 barrels a day, according to the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. Practically all of this increase occurred in the fields east of California and, in turn, the bulk of it took place in Oklahoma, whose production jumped 62,200 barrels a day.

Gasoline Stocks Increase.

However, refiners took as much oil as was produced despite the fact that this resulted in a further increase of gasoline supplies in storage. Refineries representing more than 95 per cent of estimated total capacity took an average of 2,297,000 barrels a day and operated at 64.3 per cent of their capacity, compared with 2,314,000 barrels a day and 64.8 per cent of capacity in the previous week. Gasoline stocks increased by 937,000 barrels to a total of 46,758,000 barrels.

Despite the increase in production, the average price of crude petroleum at ten producing fields held unchanged last week at 93.3 cents a barrel, compared with $1.489 a year ago, according to the Oil, Paint, and Drug Reporter. Gasoline at four principal refining centers was 5.06 cents a gallon, compared with 5.126 cents in the previous week and 7.03 cents a year ago. The Standard Oil Company of New York reduced gasoline prices in its territory yesterday.

The troubles of the petroleum industry was outlined in the annual report of W. G. Skelly, president of the Skelly Oil company. Persistent overproduction and the general effects of depression brought prices of crude and refined oil to the lowest level since 1918.

Carries Drastic Cure.

"Since the end of 1930 further declines have occurred and the price level prevailing as this is written is probably below the average cost of production," he continues. "This condition carries within itself a specific, although drastic, cure of overproduction and justifies the belief that after a corrective period the industry will regain a more profitable and stable footing."

Gross earnings of Skelly Oil last year were $27,212,595, compared with $32,632,633 in 1929. Although net crude oil production declined to 6,221,984 barrels in 1930 from 8,753,127 in 1929, gasoline output increased to 180,267,349 gallons, compared with 177,116,516 in 1929. Net income for 1930 was $1,916,871, equivalent after preferred dividends to $1.39 a share on the common stock. But dividends of $2 were paid, which resulted in reducing surplus by $2,497,198 to $11,192,705. Common stock dividends were discontinued in January. Net income for 1929 was $5,786,490, equivalent to $5.23 a share on the common stock. The company issued $11,930,600 of 6 per cent preferred stock last year. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1930, shows current assets of $8,693,791; current liabilities of $3,668,581, and total assets of $108,210,359.

GENERAL BAKING PUTS DIVIDEND ON $2 ANNUAL BASIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 24.—General Baking company has declared an initial quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the new common stock, placing the issue on a regular $2 basis, as part of the capital adjustment plan in which new common shares were exchanged for outstanding $6 preferred stock and old common.

Holders of the $6 preferred, who received 1½ shares of the new common for each share of preferred, will now have $3 a year in dividends on the common against $6 rate on the preferred. Arrears on the preferred were paid by issuance of debentures. Former holders of common stock received three new shares for each 100 old and will share in the $2 basis for this new stock to that extent.

U. S. Announces Its Program for Sale of Wheat Holdings

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The Stabilization corporation will not flood an already glutted wheat market with its old crop holdings offered for what they might bring. Unrest in the minds of traders as to what old crop policy would be pursued following the announcement Sunday that it would not inaugurate stabilization operations in the new crop months was dispelled yesterday.

Effective April 1, the Stabilization corporation will quote a selling price of 52⅛ cents a bushel f. o. b. No. 2 hard winter wheat at Chicago for ordinary quality, with premiums asked for grain of high protein and quality. This price will be advanced ⅛ cent a bushel on April 10 and ⅛ cent a bushel every ten days thereafter until June 30, the date which marks the expiration of the current crop year.

The amount of sales that may be made under this policy is problematical, traders asserted. The corporation at present is believed to be holding 160,000,000 bu of wheat, and this total, it is said, will probably be increased to 200,000,000 by the end of May.

Rely on Millers' Sales.

It is considered improbable that the corporation will dispose of the greater part of its holdings by the end of June. It is evidently relying upon sales to millers in need of grain and to some extent upon export demand, which may be slow to develop with other countries offering grain at lower price levels.

It was pointed out that the advance of ⅛ cent per bushel every ten days is equal to the carrying charge on the cash grain, and millers and others who may want wheat can go ahead and arrange flour sales with full knowledge as to what price they will have to pay.

As some observers see it, the statement might be taken as assurance there would be no fireworks in the March and May deliveries of wheat, but at the same time it was regarded as placing the shorts in the June future in a precarious position unless harvest is early and it is possible to secure new grain for delivery purposes.

Expect Better Flour Trade.

With the price of old crop wheat now known for three months in advance it is generally expected the mills, bakers, and others will have more confidence and a material enlargement in flour sales from the new wheat crop is anticipated owing to the big discount which prevails for the deferred futures. A material enlargement in the buying power in the market for the distant deliveries is looked for, as mills and others will want to hedge their sales of flour by purchases of the July.

Commission house and local selling of the new crop wheat futures was in evidence during the day, and while the trade was not as liberal as on Monday, prices dropped to a new low since 1896, with the July touching 58½c and September 59c, with buying against daily and weekly bids and by shorts checking the decline.

Toward the last there was a sharp rally on the report the Stabilization corporation had announced a selling price for old crop grain about 1c per bu above the current level for the May delivery, and the finish was ½c higher on the July at 59⅝c to 59¾c, and September closed at the same figures, although the latter was ½c lower for the day. June wheat was inactive, but closed 5c higher at 72c.

Close Corn Spreads.

Closing of spreads between wheat and corn, the former being bought and corn sold, furnished considerable support at times and, according to brokers in the pit, trade during the day was more normal than has been the case for a number of weeks. It was possible to operate on a much larger scale without materially affecting the market.

Old crop wheat futures showed a firm undertone and closed ¼c higher, with March at 79½c, and May at 81⅛ @81⅝c. Winnipeg broke early with houses with continental connections on the selling side, while New York was credited with buying, but there was a rally toward the last, with the finish unchanged to ¼c higher, with July at 58¾c. Liverpool was ½d lower for the day in the face of estimates that the Australian acreage probably would decrease 30 per cent. July there closed at 62¼c. Buenos Aires closed unchanged to ⅛c higher.

New Low on Corn.

Closing of spreads between wheat and corn was effective in causing a break in the deferred deliveries of the latter grain to a new low on the crop, with May touching 61½c, and July, 63½c at the extreme, with a strong rally toward the last on short covering and in sympathy with wheat. Final trades were ½@⅞c lower, with March 60¼@60¼c; May, 62⅝@62½c; July, 64¼@64¼c, and September, 64¾@64⅝c.

WARNS GROWERS.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, March 24.—The foreign minister has published a long note informing Argentine farmers of the details of the Russian five year plan as it affects wheat production and urging the formation of Argentine organizations to control production and sale of wheat in a manner similar to that established by Russian governmental control.

The minister's note warns the growers that unless such cooperatives are formed to function successfully it will be impossible within a few years to export Argentine wheat, as the Russian product will have gained control of foreign consuming markets.

Meanwhile, the minister of agriculture is trying to bring about an agreement with Australia and Canada for control of exports from the three countries. If preliminary negotiations are successful it is probable that the agricultural ministers of the nations or their representatives will meet formally to arrange a treaty.

REPUBLIC STEEL HEAD REPORTS BUSINESS GAIN SINCE JANUARY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 24.—T. M. Girdler, chairman of the board of the Republic Steel corporation, informed stockholders in his annual report that sales and shipments since the beginning of this year has increased and business steadily improved.

TOM GIRDLER.

The pamphlet report shows a net loss from operations of $3,522,003 for 1930, the same as reported in the preliminary statement. This net loss was arrived at after making provision for depreciation and depletion in the amount of $7,875,088 and after deduction charges for maintenance and repairs aggregating $10,069,193.

The annual figures include operating results of constituent companies and their subsidiaries for the first three months of the year and consolidated figures for the last nine months. Consolidated balance sheet as of the close of 1930 shows current assets of $57,257,777, against current liabilities of $15,876,994.

WHEAT TRADERS WILL RETURN TO THEIR OWN PIT

In anticipation of a material broadening in wheat trading as a result of announcements of the Grain Stabilization corporation as to its intentions regarding new crop wheat and its plan for disposing of its cash wheat, directors of the Board of Trade have ordered that the wheat and corn operators change places, returning to their own trading pits. The exchange will take place next Monday. A few months ago, when corn trading was greatly increased, exceeding the pit accommodations, the wheat and corn traders exchanged pits.

The securities market of the Board of Trade yesterday started operation on the main trading floor. The former securities quarters will be used as a lounge.

Offers Plan to Limit U. S. Wheat to Home Market

ROME, March 24.—(AP)—A project to have the United States produce wheat solely for domestic consumption, eliminating wheat exporting, was presented to a preliminary executive meeting of the international grain conference today by John A. Simpson of Oklahoma City, president of the National Farmers' union.

The Simpson project centers around a government operated system of licensing to purchase wheat at fixed prices, which the American said should be around $2 a bushel. Only licensed millers and dealers would be permitted to purchase and then only a fixed percentage of the farmers' crop.

Boston & Maine Ry. Earns Dividend During 1930

Despite a sharp reduction in gross revenues the Boston and Maine railroad earned its dividend requirements in 1930, the annual report shows. Net income was $5,727,530, while dividend requirements amounted to $5,717,484. Operating revenues totaled $69,278,336, a decrease of $9,203,103 from 1929.

Reserve Board Points to February Business Upturn

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 24.—Another indication of an improved business trend came today when the federal reserve board announced that the output of most of the important industries increased more than seasonably in February, while the volume of wage payments at factories also rose. Industrial production, according to the board's index, increased by 4 per cent during that month.

SILAS H. STRAWN.

Simultaneously, Silas Strawn of Chicago, chairman of the American committee of the International Chamber of Commerce, announced that a determined effort to mobilize the business forces of the world in a united drive to bring about economic recovery will be made at the world conference of the chamber during the Washington conference in May. The international conference, meeting for the first time in the United States, will bring together leading business executives from forty-six member countries. President Hoover will be among the speakers at the sessions, which will be May 4 to 9.

Steel Mill Activity.

In its survey of general business and financial conditions in the United States the reserve board states that activity increased in the steel mills during February and the first half of March, while the output of automobiles advanced by somewhat more than the seasonal amount.

"Industrial production, as measured by the board's index, which is adjusted to allow for seasonal variation, increased by 4 per cent in February from the low level prevailing in December and January," the board stated. "On the basis of the average for 1923-1925 as 100, the volume of production in February was 85, compared with 82 for the two preceding months, and 107 for February of last year. Output of shoe factories and textile mills increased substantially, while the output of coal continues to decline. During the first half of March activity at steel mills continued to increase."

Mr. Strawn announced that the deliberations of the five day International Chamber of Commerce would center largely around the numerous ramifications of the present world-wide business crisis.

Name Foreign Leaders.

The European point of view will be presented by such outstanding business leaders as Georges Theunis, president International Chamber of Commerce, Belgium; Sir Arthur Balfour, Sheffield steel manufacturer, England; Jean Parmentier, governor Credit Foncier, France; Robert Masson, director general Credit Lyonnaise, Paris; Dr. Alberto Pirelli, prominent Italian industrialist and a member of the Dawes and Young committees on reparations, and Sir Alan Anderson, shipping executive of Great Britain.

American speakers will include Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank of Chicago; Mr. Strawn, Owen D. Young, Gerard Swope, and Julius H. Barnes.

OMNIBUS CORP. REPORTS LARGER INCOME FOR 1930

Chiefly as the result of operating economies of its subsidiary, the Chicago Motor Coach company, the Omnibus corporation was able to make larger earnings last year than in 1929. The corporation's net earnings, including undistributed profits accruing to it from subsidiaries, were $1,312,842, equivalent after preferred dividends to 96 cents a share on the common stock. Net earnings for 1929 were $1,233,619, or 84 cents a share.

Net income actually received by the Omnibus corporation was $921,372 last year, or 33 cents a share on the common stock, compared with $957,549, or 39 cents a share, in 1929. Dividends of $8 were paid on preferred shares last year, after which and surplus adjustments total surplus was increased by $75,029 to $1,432,528. Gross earnings of the Chicago Motor Coach company last year were $5,806,178, compared with $6,870,136 in 1929, but net profit was $551,911, compared with $361,109.

No Posting of Grain by Chicago Elevators

Posting of grain as out of condition in Chicago elevators is to be a thing of the past after Monday, March 30. Operators of Chicago elevators have agreed to take care of their grain and guarantee its condition. A rule to this effect was recently adopted by the Board of Trade and yesterday the Illinois commerce commission issued an order approving the rule, so that holders of warehouse receipts need have no fear in case of the grain getting out of condition. Receipts are to be registered with the custodian, making it possible to determine the owners of the grain at any time.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 24.—Short squeezes in Auburn Auto, Westinghouse Electric and one or two other market medicine balls kept the day from being a total loss on the stock exchange. At that it was the dullest session in many weeks, the turnover shrinking to about 1,800,000 shares, the smallest in many weeks. Professionals ran the show completely.

Final prices were higher as a rule, a fraction to a point or so, thanks to a mild mannered little spell of short covering in the last hour. Up to that time price movements showed considerable vacillation, with the tendency toward lower levels in the early trading and the leaders having difficulty in making up their minds even up to the very last.

About the most important development of the day from the trader's viewpoint was the surprising strength displayed by the railroad shares. Not that any sensational runups were recorded, but most of the big league issues of the group, including Atchison, New York Central Erie, Chesapeake and Ohio and New Haven, were up 1 to 2 points or even more when the hands called it a day. Union Pacific outstepped them all with an advance of 5⅛ points.

Rise Is Unexplained.

The day's news so far as it concerned the railroad situation was certainly lacking in anything which might have explained the sudden enthusiasm for the shares, and observers agreed that the rise appeared to grow largely out of the technical position of the group.

The carrier shares have been absorbing no little liquidation since the reduction in the New York Central dividend some two weeks ago and their position before that was none too healthy. Then, too, the Baltimore and Ohio board is slated to meet tomorrow to act on its quarterly common dividend, action deferred from last week, and the speculative element has become pretty well resigned to the probability of a cut in

SENATOR FESS SEES NO NECESSITY FOR INCREASING U. S. TAXES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 24.—Republican leaders now on record against any increase in federal taxes during the next session of congress were supported today by Senator Simeon D. Fess [Rep., O.], chairman of the Republican national committee.

The Ohio senator, just returned from a short Florida vacation trip, said that, while the deficit apparently would be larger than anticipated, he believed it would not be necessary to take up tax revision legislation when congress convenes in December. His view was that an improvement in business will make unnecessary any increase in taxes.

The figures released today showed tax receipts of $16,206,200 for March 21, compared with $31,372,200 for the corresponding day last year. The March 21 figure brought monthly receipts of 299 millions, a drop of 192 millions over March collections through March 21 last year. On March 21 the treasury had a deficit of $606,233,333 as compared with a surplus of $105,869,734 for the same day last year.

May Issue Treasury Bills.

New York, March 24.—(AP)—An issue of $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 of United States treasury bills, which are short term noninterest notes at a discount, may be announced next week. This issue is expected to be the first of several similar offerings this spring which may be followed by an issue of long term bonds of substantial size in June. The decrease in the quarterly receipts from income taxes paid last week and the demands on the treasury as the result of loans on veterans' bonus certificates have made consideration of an issue of bills necessary.

NEIL C. WARD IS MADE CHAIRMAN OF ORANGE CRUSH

Neil C. Ward, vice president and one of the founders of the Orange Crush company, has been elected chairman of the board of directors, and W. Dale Bost, also a vice president, has been elected president of the company, according to an announcement made last night.

NEIL C. WARD.

Hays MacFarland, James A. Anderson, and W. A. Allen have been added to the board of directors of the company. The company manufactures and distributes soft drinks and has plants throughout the United States and several foreign countries.

The company reports that its sales volume in 1930 was the largest in history. In 1929 the company had sales of $1,864,699. The firm's annual report has not yet been issued.

Aluminum Co. Shares Shoot Up 20 Points on Curb

New York, March 24.—(AP)—Curb shares eddied about uncertainly in another session of slow trading today.

Among industrials, Aluminum Company of America, a Mellon enterprise, marked the birthday of a prominent member of that family by shooting up 20 points to 224, the best price of the year; it closed at 219. Cord corporation followed the gyrations of Auburn on the big board with a 2 point rise. In the lower priced group, Van Camp Packing rose a fraction to a new top.

REDMOND TELLS ARCHITECTS OF LOOP BUILDINGS

Says They Pay Twelfth of Realty Taxes.

BY AL CHASE.

Absorption of surplus office space and the consequent recovery of the office building business will be gradual and must be carefully worked out, according to John T. Redmond, president of the Building Managers' association of Chicago, in a speech delivered before the Illinois Society of Architects at its monthly meeting held last night at the Architects' club. Mr. Redmond pointed out that Chicago's office buildings, approximately 180 in number and with a rentable area in excess of 26,000,000 square feet, represent one of the major industries of the city. Land and buildings together are valued by the board of assessors at more than $500,000,000.

"In the seven year period from 1923 to 1930 seventy-six new buildings with an area of 7,600,000 square feet were erected in Chicago," said Mr. Redmond. "In these buildings the entire office occupancy of the cities of Cleveland and San Francisco would be housed, with enough left over for Omaha or a similar sized community.

"In 1922, before this era of over-building began, our buildings had a vacancy of 3 per cent. This has grown in spite of our continuing increase in the use of space to 17.5 per cent in 1931."

No More Needed Now.

Mr. Redmond stated that until the vacant space had been reduced to a point where the vacancy average will be not in excess of perhaps 5 per cent, no additional office buildings are needed to meet the needs of Chicago business.

"While we think of 26,000,000 square feet as a great quantity of office space," said Mr. Redmond, "if spread out on one floor it would cover only one square mile. At an average of sixteen stories in height, we could put all this space on twelve city blocks.

"The board of assessors value these twelve blocks at half a billion dollars. This illustrates the extent to which our skyscrapers have added to the wealth of Chicago. These office buildings are nearly one-twelfth of the appraised value of all the real estate in Chicago.

"Our office buildings pay one-twelfth of all the real estate taxes of the entire city, with its 264 square miles of real estate."

Thomas E. Tallmadge of Tallmadge & Watson talked on the new bridge for the outer drive.

Marinello Leases Loop Store.

The National School of Cosmeticians, Inc., which owns the Marinello beauty culture interests, has leased the entire third floor of the Stewart building, State and Washington, from May 1, 1931, to April 30, 1941, at an indicated total rent of $120,000. The Marinello Affiliated School of Beauty Culture will move from 808 Tower court to the loop location prior to May 1. The executive offices of the concern are in the east. Hall & Ellis negotiated yesterday's lease. The Marinello firm moved to the Tower court address two or more years ago after having been in the loop for a decade.

Dr. Mayor H. Lebensohn of 7 West Madison street, who lives at 4300 Clarendon avenue, has purchased from Arthur N. Horwich his five-ninths interest in the property at 1224-32 North State street, 99x132, improved with five residences. This gives Dr. Lebensohn sole ownership. He says he has no intention of erecting a tall apartment building on the property, as has been rumored. Krinsky, Levitan & Glassner were attorneys.

Mark Levy will speak this evening between six and eight before the class studying Illinois tax problems at the school of commerce, Northwestern university. His subject will be, "The General Problem of Real Estate Taxes."

SMALL UPTURN IN COTTON

Lower prices for cotton early yesterday, due to a break in Liverpool, which finally ended in a net loss of 10 points, carried prices of American cotton down fairly to a point where an increased buying power developed, absorbing liberal selling orders around mid-day. The close, however, was irregular, with futures in Chicago 3 points net lower to 8 points higher. New Orleans was 4 points higher to 2 points lower and New York 2 points lower to 4 points higher. Spot markets were unchanged. New York being 10.80c, New Orleans, 10.45c; Galveston, 10.65c; Houston, 10.55c.

The report sent out by news agencies on Monday about the farm board's policy on the new crop was denied and brought in moderate buying. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

The farm board has told the trade what its policy will be in handling the cash wheat. The announcement created a more bullish feeling. Traders said it settled all doubts as to what its plans were, both in the disposal of cash wheat and in regard to the new crop futures. It is assumed that millers who sold their cash wheat to the farm board of late will have to pay higher prices for their grain later in the season. It suggested that there will be no pressure on wheat from the farm board and that millers will know exactly where they stand in regard to securing future supplies. Traders took it that there will be no general dumping of wheat by the farm board and that the shorts in June may have a hard time getting in.

Traders who watch the operations in June wheat said it was impossible to buy it without advancing prices, especially after the farm board's announcement of its plan for disposing of cash wheat. The price jumped 4c without a trade. On Monday there was a break from 76½ to 65c on the selling of 685,000 bu. Yesterday it advanced from 65¾c to 73c, with the close at 72c, a net gain of 5c. The open interest at the close on Monday was 845,000 bu, which it is believed was reduced yesterday.

A government report showing farmers' intentions to plant grains and other products will be given to the trade tomorrow. The spring wheat acreage in the northwest is a big problem, but nothing definite is known.

WHEAT SURPLUS AFFECTS PLANS FOR FARM LAWS

Next Congress May Let Them Alone.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 24.—[Special.]—Farm relief legislation and the big wheat surplus piled up by the farm board during its stabilization operations furnished the dominating topic today among those congressional leaders who have not yet deserted the capital following the adjournment of congress.

The consensus seems to be that the chances for passage of any new important farm relief legislation at the coming session of congress is slim. As to the wheat surplus, in most congressional quarters the view was expressed that the farm board should keep the 200 million to 275 million bushels of wheat that it has accumulated during stabilization operations until business conditions improve.

Should Hold Wheat: McNary.

Republican leaders indicated today that they did not intend to be stampeded into support of the old equalization fee for farm relief or the more recent debenture plan. Among those who came out today against both plans was Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], one of the authors of the McNary-Haugen farm bill, which included the equalization fee. McNary's opinion, as expressed today, was that no legislative panacea is now in sight which will be of aid to the farmers.

Senator McNary said he was convinced that the farm board will use what funds it has at its disposal to hold on to the wheat surplus it has accumulated on the open market. He advocated holding the 1930 surplus now in the hands of the board indefinitely.

Would Hold for a "Price."

"There can be no cure for the present situation by applying the equalization fee or the export debenture," said Senator McNary. "These cannot operate with any success when there are no markets and all countries appear to have a wheat surplus. There is only one thing to do and that is to hold the 1930 wheat indefinitely in storage and release it when its sale would not force a drop in wheat prices or destroy the surplus entirely.

"In my opinion the farm board will store the wheat until conditions improve or a wheat shortage develops. This can be done easily with the money now available or due the board without further legislation. While I once felt the equalization fee was the soundest way of dealing with the exportable wheat surplus I do not now see how it would work if there are no foreign markets."

We Will Help the Man Who Wants to Work

We are now increasing our local and national organization in preparation for spring business. Those men who join us now will be in a position to profit by the tremendous volume of business that will result from our current national advertising.

Our requirements are as follows: Ambition, neat appearance, good reference, between 25 and 55 years of age. To twelve such men we offer a permanent position with good pay and an assured future in the sales department of one of the leading manufacturers in the country.

Your earnings to start will be based on your own ability to understand our products and explain them to others, after we have given you, at our expense, a thorough sales training. Our unusually fair and unique method of compensation where each man shares in the profits on a liberal commission plan has enabled us to boast of one of the largest, highest paid sales organizations in America, where men who work make regularly from $150 to $1,000 per month, and many of these men never sold anything before coming with us.

If you think you will measure up to our requirements we will be glad to have you call today between 10-4. See Mr. Taylor, 75 E. Wacker-dr., Suite 1002, Mather Tower.
